WAR ENDS FOR FRANCE AS NAZIS OPEN AIR DRIVE TO DEFEAT GREAT BRITAIN

Willkie Gains Disputed by Two Leading Opponents As Stassen Flays the New Deal in Keynote Speech

Taft and Dewey Groups Both Confident Despite Swing to Utility Head

Congressmen Launch "Stop Willkie" Move as Reports Indicate He Is Gaining Strength; Stassen Widely Applauded for Statement Roosevelt Admits Failure by Naming Knox and Stimson

By RICHARD L. TURNER

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP) — Young Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota sounded the 1940 Republican keynote to a clamorously applauding National Convention tonight with an assertion that "the role of government must be that of an aid to private enterprise, and not a substitute for it."

Denouncing what he termed New Deal "failures" as the cause of American problems, both domestic and foreign, he called upon the party to "advance with a decisive and determined step upon four major fronts:

"The front of national preparedness.

"The front of fifth column defense.

"The front of domestic economic welfare.

"The front of governmental effectiveness."

Applause greeted each of these exhortations.

"The saddest chapter of the last four years," Stassen (Continued, was that the Roosevelt administration "has turned its political gaze upon a third term" instead of upon the national welfare.

He spoke to an audience which had trooped into Convention hall heavily pondering and excitedly debating the developments of a day which brought:

Dispute Willkie Gains

Widespread reports of new gains for the drive of Wendell Willkie.

An assertion by a spokesman for Senator Robert A. Taft that instead, the Willkie boom had "struck a snag," and had been slowing down since midday yesterday.

A press conference statement by Thomas E. Dewey that he had yet to find evidence that the Willkie boom had been translated into delegates on any large scale, and that a thorough check had shown more than 400 Dewey votes for the first ballot.

The emergence of a "stop Willkie" movement, launched and pushed by a group of members of the National House of Representatives.

But when it came to the assertions of Governor Stassen, there was little disagreement, unless it was upon what he had to say of America's place in a world at war, a subject of dispute among the party's platform drafters.

"As we advance upon these (other) fronts," Stassen said, "many overshadowing foreign problems of foreign policies will require decision. Let us frankly state to the people that we can neither fully anticipate these problems nor can we tie our hands before meeting them.

"As they are reached, they must be faced and the people of the nation must be made aware of what they mean so that informed public opinion may find expression in the policies of the government.

"It is clear that the first responsibility must be the future welfare of the people of this nation and their way of life, but it is clear that that future welfare cannot best be served by simply burying our heads in the sand."

Taft Forces Satisfied

The Taft spokesman who expressed disbelief of the Willkie gains was his campaign manager, David Ingalls, who said a careful check of the Taft supporters revealed the loss of only a single delegate to the supporters of the New York utilities man.

Stassen spoke rapidly, but evenly and distinctly, with only rare gestures at the outset. The first applause of his speech greeted his statemen that:

"It is our grave responsibility to keep burning brightly the light of liberty," and almost immediately afterward, the second outburst came when he said:

"If we meet that responsibility well, the people of this great nation of forty-eight states will make the program and principles that we here set forth their program and principles next November."

Just as Stassen reached the section of his speech in which he said the press had brought "this very day" added news of war horrors abroad, a bulletin was moving over wires of the Associated Press on the convention platform, telling of an air raid on London.

Says All Parts of the French Empire Will Continue Fighting

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 24 — Supported by a wandering Polish army and die-hard French leaders in exile who claimed to speak for the French fleet and empire, Britain prepared grimly tonight for Adolf Hitler's next onslaught.

Arrival of the Polish forces from France was disclosed by General Wladyslaw Sikorski, the Polish prime minister.

In a broadcast he declared "the great body of our armies, safely back from France, is landing on the shores of Great Britain" and will "continue to fight shoulder to shoulder, with the powerful British empire for a free and Independent Poland."

The size of the surviving Polish forces, driven across half of the continent since last Sept. 1, was not given

Japanese Seem Likely To Take Over Colonies

British-French Possessions Believed in Grave Danger

TOKYO, June 24. (AP)—Further evidence of a Japanese "strong hand" policy toward British-French possessions in the far east was seen tonight in reported demands for stationing Japanese inspectors in Burma to check the arms traffic and for shutting off Hong Kong trade with China.

The demands, according to a neutral source who said they had been communicated to the British, include:

1. Stationing of Japanese inspectors in Burma to enforce a ban on arms traffic to China.

2. Termination of trade between the British crown colony of Hong Kong and the Chinese Hinterland.

3. Withdrawal of British interests, including military forces, from the Shanghai international settlement.

Neutral diplomatic circles predicted Britain would reject the demands, but attempt to reach a compromise.

Further Japanese pressure on French Indo-China has been delayed temporarily, reliable sources said, by the Franco-German settlement in Europe and a French agreement to allow Japanese inspectors in Indo-China.

The same sources said part of the French Navy, including six destroyers, at least one cruiser and several mine-layers, is enroute to Indo-China to bolster defenses there. In both French Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies vigil is maintained against any attempt to seize these territories

Stassen Calls on Republicans To Supplant New Deal Failure

Republican Keynoter Proposes "Advance with Determined Step"

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, Minnesota's 33-year-old governor, called on his fellow Republicans tonight to lead the nation forward on four broad fronts to supplant what he termed a seven-year record of Democratic "failure."

"The saddest chapter of the last four years," he said in the keynote address for the party's national convention, "has been that the national administration instead of keeping its eyes, statesmanlike, upon the welfare of the people of this nation, has turned its political gaze upon a third term."

The youthful official proposed an "advance with a decisive and determined step" in national preparedness, fifth column defense, domestic economic welfare, and governmental effectiveness and integrity. On each of these fronts, he asserted, the Roosevelt administration has failed.

State Foreign Policy

Touching on foreign policy, Stassen said in his prepared speech that "future welfare cannot best be served by simply burying our heads in the sand," but he added:

"We are too woefully weak to give the Allies that material assistance this nation wants to give them.

"Let us determine and define where our interests lie," he urged. "Clearly in the first instance they lie in this hemisphere.

"We cannot permit an armed force, aggressive in nature, with a philosophy foreign to ours to establish itself upon this hemisphere. Neither can we allow subversive elements linked to alien aggressors to undermine government anywhere on this hemisphere.

"It is essential that we plan in advance and take decisive steps to establish hemisphere defense."

Stassen mentioned President Roosevelt's selection of Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson, prominent Republicans, to cabinet posts.

Confession of Failure

"By the politically timed appointment on the eve of this convention, of two men of our party to these cabinet posts," he said, "the president made an eleventh hour confession of failure in his national defense administration.

"We are pleased that the prospect of our convention caused this sudden improvement over New Deal incompetence, and it is only regrettable that we cannot change the entire cabinet and the man who heads it with equal abruptness."

For each of the four "fronts" outlined, Stassen offered proposals and told wherein he believed the Roosevelt administration had been deficient. These were some of his comments:

National preparedness: — "We must develop our air force to take its place beside the army and the navy. We need large quantities of the most modern aeroplanes and anti-aircraft guns, the most modern BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 24. (AP)—Foreign military and diplomatic quarters were informed late tonight from Bucharest that Rumanian and Russian troops have clashed at several points along the Dniester river frontier.

More than 100 planes of the Red air force were reported to have made reconnaissance flights over Bessarabia, the Rumanian province behind the Dniester.

Bessarabia for many years was Russian territory, but after the World War when Russia became Communistic, the territory voted through representatives to join Rumania.

Soviet Russia never has recognized the validity of the transfer of sovereignty.

American Cruiser Ordered To Stay In Uruguay Port

Plans To Leave Tomorrow Are Suddenly Changed

MONTEVIDEO, June 24. (AP)—The U. S. cruiser Quincy, scheduled to leave Montevideo tomorrow after a "good will visit" at a time when Uruguay is investigating alleged pro-Nazi plots to occupy the country, received unexpected orders tonight from Washington to remain "for a few more days."

In addition, it was learned, the flagship Wichita of the Seventh cruiser squadron has left Rio De Janeiro for Montevideo and is expected to arrive June 29.

Observers here took the presence of a U. S. warship in Montevideo harbor as an indication the United States would back up the Uruguay government in its actions to investigate and wipe out any foreign-dictated plots.

Word that the Quincy would stay came only a few hours after the Uruguay Chamber of Deputies authorized steps to safeguard against subversive plots.

The chamber rejected a proposal to send to all American governments the information in the commission's report which said evidence had been found of plots to set up a "little Nazi state" in Uruguay.

While American warplanes droned overhead in a demonstration, the chamber voted at an open session to adopt an administration bill for the purchase of additional armaments.

These would cost 7,600,000 pesos (officially about $4,940,000 but in the open market about $2,812,000.)

Bombers Range as Far as Wales in Prelude to Terrific Onslaught Berlin Claims Will Conquer British in Six Weeks; Air Raid Alarm Sounded in London; Hitler Thanks God for Victory

LONDON, June 25 (Tuesday)—(AP)—German bombers, losing not an instant in striking at Britain now that France has fallen, ranged all over the island early today, bombarding southeast and southwest England and forcing London to its first genuine air raid alarm of the war.

The raids were of the widest extent in any one day since the war began last Sept. 3.

By The Associated Press

An air raid alarm shrilled in London today (Tuesday) and German bombs blasted at Southeast and Southwest England as the Nazis celebrated the conquest of France with sudden new blows at their remaining foe — Great Britain.

The German planes ranged as far as Wales, on the Western edge of the island.

Even as the cannon were silenced in France in accordance with the armistice dictated to that fallen nation by Germany and her Italian partners, the German bombers set out for England in the prelude to an onslaught which Nazis said would be more terrible than anything the world ever has seen.

It was peace for the vanquished France of old Premier-Marshal Henri Philippe Petain when the firing ceased at 1:35 a. m., German time (6:35 p. m. Monday, est), six hours after the signing of the Italian-French agreement put into effect the armistice reached Saturday with Germany.

But for Frenchmen gathering under the militant banner of General Charles De Gaulle in London it was only the beginning of the fight for the freedom of their homeland.

The word went out from DeGaulle's fast-growing ranks that prominent French leaders were responding to the call to carry on from France's empire, possibly with the backing of the French fleet.

Orders to end hostilities went out in commands from the French and Italian army headquarters; and from Germany with a bugle call, rolling drums and a "cease fire!" order directed dramatically into a radio microphone for the whole world to hear.

The German "cease fire" was signalled by the broadcasting of the "Das Ganze Halt" bugle call.

Announcement is Brief

As the strains of the bugle ended a German announcer came on the air with the brief announcement that the Nazi forces had silenced their guns at that moment.

In somber contrast to the ten-day victory celebration and the ringing of bells personally ordered by Adolf Hitler in Germany, the French proclaimed Tuesday a national day of mourning.

"Today France must be silent," Interior Minister Charles Pomaret broadcast to his fallen nation from Bordeaux.

Frenchmen Seek To Reach Africa

CHANCY, SWISS - FRENCH FRONTIER, June 25 (Tuesday) (AP)—Down a fifty-mile-wide corridor through Savoy, scattered French troops were reported racing for the Mediterranean today in the hope of finding transportation to North Africa to continue their fight against the Axis armies.

The cease firing order thirty-five minutes after midnight gave them their first chance to drop back from fighting lines and try the dash to the sea.

Until the last few days of the battle of Southeast France they were hard beset by Italian attacks through Alpine passes and by German mechanized columns from their north flank and rear.

To most of the hard-pressed mountain garrisons near the Swiss-French frontier the cease firing order brought welcome relief after exhausting hours and days of unceasing attack.

Republican Platform To Declare Against Sending Troops Abroad

By JACK BELL

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP) — Chairman Herbert K. Hyde of the Republican Resolutions committee declared tonight that "international bankers, Wall street and the Manufacturers' Association" would not dictate the terms of the foreign policy plank to be written into the Republican platform.

While members of the drafting committee worked during the night to perfect the language of a half dozen projected planks, Hyde predicted that the full committee would give "unanimous" approval tomorrow to a foreign policy statement reported to be "non-interventionist" in its aspects.

"We intend to keep faith with the fathers and mothers of this nation and guarantee to them that the youth of America will never be called upon to cross any man's sea to settle European or Asiatic quarrels, he said.

"Instead of saving the world for democracy, we propose to make democracy real and effective for the American people in the United States. We can't police the world."

Hyde did not explain his reference to the Manufacturers' Association, nor did he elaborate on the international bankers or Wall street operators involved.

Despite Hyde's obvious assurance that the "non-interventionist" viewpoint would prevail within the committee, the Resolutions group heard several tentative planks read today

Shin Guards, Chest Protectors, Needed by Republican Delegates

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—Excluding votes, the most important equipment a delegate should bring to a national political convention is a pair of shin guards and an old-fashioned baseball chest protector.

Life can be awful without this equipment.

At the Republican convention there isn't an elevator that doesn't look like a mass meeting. A man got in one wiping his forehead and had to ride six floors before he could lower his handkerchief.

A pair of white shoes doesn't have a chance. There's a story about a delegate who lives on the fifteenth floor of one of the hotels. He started up in a pair of white buckskins and when he finally got there he looked down and cried:

"Somebody's taken my shoes. These are black."

The opening session of the conventinon turned out to be a smramble for seats on the floor rather than for anybody's bandwagon.

Despite the fact there were 7,000

Disposition of French Fleet Is Most Baffling Mystery of the War

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—The disposition of the French fleet, second largest in Europe and fourth largest in the world, remained a mystery tonight as armistice terms requiring its delivery to the Germans and Italians went into effect.

Surrender of a large part of the fleet of more than 500,000 tons to the Germans and Italians would give them superiority over Great Britain in battleships and many other categories.

If French commanders, however, generally answer the summons of Gen. Charel Charles De Gaulle, who announced formation of a national French committee in London to continue the fight, Britain could keep up the blockade against Germany, Italy and practically all Europe.

Authoritative Washington sources said Saturday the bulk of the fleet already had been taken over intact by the British navy.

The British admiralty declined comment however, and the London News Chronicle reported yesterday that the Bordeaux government had replaced commanders suspected of willingness to mutiny against capitulation orders. The News Chronicle said it was necessary for the British navy to "act quickly" to forestall a wholesale delivery of the fleet to the Germans.

At least two of France's four huge 35,000-ton battleships under construction, the Clemenceau and

Hyde did not explain his reference to the Manufacturers' Association, nor did he elaborate on the international bankers or Wall street operators involved.

Despite Hyde's obvious assurance that the "non-interventionist" viewpoint would prevail within the committee, the Resolutions group heard several tentative planks read today

Shin Guards, Chest Protectors, Needed by Republican Delegates

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—Excluding votes, the most important equipment a delegate should bring to a national political convention is a pair of shin guards and an old-fashioned baseball chest protector.

Life can be awful without this equipment.

At the Republican convention there isn't an elevator that doesn't look like a mass meeting. A man got in one wiping his forehead and had to ride six floors before he could lower his handkerchief.

A pair of white shoes doesn't have a chance. There's a story about a delegate who lives on the fifteenth floor of one of the hotels. He started up in a pair of white buckskins and when he finally got there he looked down and cried:

"Somebody's taken my shoes. These are black."

The opening session of the conventinon turned out to be a smramble for seats on the floor rather than for anybody's bandwagon.

Despite the fact there were 7,000

Disposition of French Fleet Is Most Baffling Mystery of the War

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—The disposition of the French fleet, second largest in Europe and fourth largest in the world, remained a mystery tonight as armistice terms requiring its delivery to the Germans and Italians went into effect.

Surrender of a large part of the fleet of more than 500,000 tons to the Germans and Italians would give them superiority over Great Britain in battleships and many other categories.

If French commanders, however, generally answer the summons of Gen. Charel Charles De Gaulle, who announced formation of a national French committee in London to continue the fight, Britain could keep up the blockade against Germany, Italy and practically all Europe.

Authoritative Washington sources said Saturday the bulk of the fleet already had been taken over intact by the British navy.

The British admiralty declined comment however, and the London News Chronicle reported yesterday that the Bordeaux government had replaced commanders suspected of willingness to mutiny against capitulation orders. The News Chronicle said it was necessary for the British navy to "act quickly" to forestall a wholesale delivery of the fleet to the Germans.

At least two of France's four huge 35,000-ton battleships under construction, the Clemenceau and

An American Quality Of Vast Importance

INTEREST ATTACHES to the announcement that the Amalgamation of Mad American Clubs and Associations will meet July 11 at the Schaefer Center at the New York World's fair. Among the organizations that will take part is the National Honorary Society of Former Circus Elephant Water Toters, which, if all eligibles were included, would make a rather large group.

The purpose of the meeting, it is announced, is to set up a "Sixth Column" to combat the evil influence of any and all other columns bent upon totalitarianism and the possible eventual elimination of the opportunity to force a club at the drop of a pin.

It is expected that some fifty queer clubs will have delegates at this gathering. Among them will be the Mother-in-Law Association, the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America, the Covered Wagon Baby Club, the Liars Club of America, the Monroe Horse-Thief Detecting Society and several others. The affair is sponsored by the Benevolent and Protective and Completely Universal Order of Fred Smiths of America, whose 5,000 members, all named Fred Smith, are said to be back of any amalgamation of anything at any time, and the sooner the better. The statement is made that these queer clubs, of which there are nearly a hundred with more than 50,000 members, "constitute America's first line of moral and mental defense."

In other words, the wonderfully valuable sense of humor is not lost in America. That being the case, all is well and we can brave anything.

Support Alienated By Inept Move

FEARS that the presidential campaign might degenerate into a colorless affair lacking drive and punch, and suffering from inability to divert the attention of the populace from the war in Europe and its implications, have already proved unfounded. This campaign will be a scorcher.

Strangely, or fittingly—depending upon the viewpoint — the presidential sweepstakes was given the starting gun by President Roosevelt when he appointed Messrs. Knox and Stimson to his cabinet. Republicans at once branded this as a political move intended to imply, on the eve of the Republican national convention, that the Republican party was divided and that an important segment of it is in favor of Roosevelt for a third term.

If no politics was intended in the president's appointments, they were made at an inept time; if the political motive ascribed to the move by Republican leaders is correct, the reaction was the opposite of that which obviously must have been intended by the president.

Instead of bringing about "unity" in government, the Knox-Stimson appointments have solidified the Republican ranks and greatly increased, or made more vocal, opposition to the president's foreign policy in both parties.

Mr. Roosevelt has Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson for whatever they as individuals can contribute to his administration, but in acquiring them he has alienated support in his own as well as in the Republican party. More than that, he has moved the Republican convention into the headlines and made it certain that the campaign will not suffer from ennui.

Fireworks Restriction Movement Spreads

THE RECENT COURT DECISION that upset safety regulations promulgated by James B. Gontrum, state insurance commissioner, in a praiseworthy effort to minimize Independence day fireworks accidents, again emphasizes the need of action on this subject by the General Assembly. A step forward has been taken here in Cumberland with a local ordinance, but its effect is naturally reduced by the lack of statewide regulation.

In this connection it is of interest to note that the movement to restrict the uses of fireworks by state control laws is growing. Laws of the kind will become effective July 4 for the first time in Delaware and Indiana, bringing to a total of eight the number of states which will partially prohibit the private use of pyrotechnics on the holiday.

The state-wide legislation, which in many cases replaced a scattering of municipal fireworks control ordinances easy for fireworks bootleggers to evade, is looked upon generally as an improved means of reducing fireworks accidents. Injuries from such accidents totaled more than 5,500 last July 4. In 1938, they numbered 7,933; in 1937, 7,205.

The six states reporting the most fireworks injuries last year were: New York, 1,491; California, 650; Illinois, 458; Missouri, 357; Ohio, 377, and Massachusetts, 333.

Six states have no state-wide fireworks legislation at all. They are Arizona, Georgia, Missouri, Montana, Nevada and North Carolina.

The other six states with strict fireworks control laws are Iowa, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Utah and West Virginia. New York state will join the "prohibitory" group after August 1, when a measure enacted in the 1940 legislative session becomes effective.

All of these laws are based on a model proposed by the National Fire Protection Association. Provision is made in the laws for properly supervised public displays, for which a permit and bond to cover possible personal injury and property damage are required.

In addition, California and Wisconsin are considered to have fairly effective fireworks control laws. More than thirty states, also, have various kinds of "regulatory" laws, ranging from permission granted local governments to treat the problem "as they see fit," to restrictions on the type or size of fireworks, and limits on when and where they may be sold.

The prohibitory type of fireworks control law has shown itself effective during its first year in a majority of the states adopting it. Pennsylvania, which made the law effective last year, reduced fireworks injuries from 1,702 to 85, and deaths from six to none. Utah's fireworks injuries declined from eighteen to five upon first application of the law last year, and West Virginia's from forty-one to none. Iowa, whose law became effective in 1938, showed a decrease in injuries from seventy-six to six. These results indicate pudding proof effectiveness.

Stalin Now Frightened Over His Losing Bet

THE DEFEAT of one of the great democracies at the hands of Germany has absorbed the attention of observers to such an extent that Stalin's latest move against the tiny nations of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia has lost much of its significance.

The Russian dictator's action can hardly be interpreted as a challenge to German authority. The old order is changing and as it crumbles Russia, like Italy, is taking advantage of the world-wide confusion to consolidate its position.

Stalin cannot view with equanimity the tremendous military prestige of Germany. Fear undoubtedly plays some part in this latest taking of territory which may be useful in strengthening Russian defenses against a possible German threat in the future. But at the present time Stalin obviously has no intention of entering the conflict.

The bolshevist czar's uneasiness may be compared to that of Napoleon III who encouraged the rise of Prussia in the misguided belief that Prussia and Austria would engage in a long and exhausting war which would strengthen French authority in Europe. It was Napoleon who set Bismarck on the road to Paris and Versailles. For Prussia conquered Austria in short order with typical German efficiency. The German empire came into being and France was the final victim.

Stalin's pact with Hitler opened the way to present German victories. No doubt Stalin, too, hoped to see a long exhausting war which would leave Russia in a commanding position when the final peace was signed. If so, he has been bitterly disappointed. In seeking to strengthen the Russian frontier by conquest of neighbor nations he is attempting to protect himself from the monstrous forces he unleashed against the Western world.

Motoring Caution Is Again Emphasized

W. LEE ELGIN, state commissioner of motor vehicles, reports that during the first five months of the year, fourteen more deaths occurred in motor accidents in Maryland than during the same period of last year. The distressing total is 167 deaths for this year as against 153 for last year.

By reason of its larger population, representing approximately half of the state, Baltimore city suffered the largest number of fatalities during May, having had nine accidents resulting in ten deaths. Nineteen accidents resulting in twenty-three deaths occurred in the counties. Allegany had one accident with one death. It will loom larger in the statistics for June, however.

These figures again emphasize the need for greater caution on the part of motorists everywhere in the state.

Carelessly discarded cigarets from speeding auto windows cause tremendous damage to plant life every tourist season, we read. Why not a new slogan: "Two million ash trays along every highway"?

Use the Moment

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The Romans used to advise themselves to "sieze the day," to use every twenty-four hours joyfully. . . . It is just as essential, I believe, to use every moment. Not all moments are rich and strong, full of meaning and power. Some of them are dull and lifeless, a drag on your disposition and your character.

Marshall Maslin

But some moments are miraculous. Suddenly, out of nowhere, without warning, they appear. Life glows, life shines, life lifts you high above your ordinary self. You feel, with a certainty so swift that it is absolute knowledge, that you can now do anything. All your powers are concerted in this one moment. . . . You are not another human being entirely, you are you at your highest, seeing clearly, feeling intensely, multiplied and gloriously stimulated.

This moment comes, this moment goes. For all you know it may never come again. What can you, what will you, do with it?

You hold it in your hand. It gleams like a polished tool. Will you hold it idly, admiring its perfection, its keenness, its superlative usefulness? Or will you take it and use it, use it and create something that will outlast this moment and serve you all the rest of your days?

You have your choice. These good-great-precious moments come to all of us. And sometimes we do more with them than admire and enjoy them. We feel so grand but we desire only to FEEL and not to DO. So the rich moment slips away from us and we have only the memory of that lost opportunity.

But if we USE this moment of our eminence, make something out of it, do something with it, we have made ourselves worthy of our great fortune. We have made it last. We have set ourselves a great example of what we once were and did—and what we may be and do again.

I am weaving no dream. I am talking fact. I know the brightness I have allowed to grow dull. I know the opportunities I have let slip. . . . And so have you wasted many a high moment. Be wiser when they come again—and use that moment!

Nation in Danger Of Going Haywire, Johnson Declares

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

WASHINGTON, June 24—There is a grave danger of this country going completely haywire under the pressue of war. It is true that the grossest neglect of defense in our history and the most reckless impairment of our credit and industrial efficiency have left us in a most defenseless posture. Although these deficiencies, we have roved the world like a lamb rampant slapping down the ears of every ferocious animal in the menagerie—lions and tigers as well as jackals—until we haven't a friend on earth.

Perhaps the most cock-eyed impertinence on record is that the authors of this incompetence and danger insist that they must be perpetuated in a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

I am accused of constant scolding. I don't want to be a scold. I examine myself about that "in the night session." I can't think that my kind of preachment is wrong in this crisis. If I can't think it is wrong I ought not to stop it—scold or no scold.

* * *

Speaking from Experience

Why do I feel so confident? Well, I sat at the center of both industrial and manpower mobilization in the first World War. It is a strange result but the fact is that, although Scharnhorst and Stein invented the German idea of the "nation in arms", to overthrow Napoleon and change the face of war, and, although the Kaiser's was almost as complete a dictatorship as Hitler's, it was not German autocracy but American democracy that taught the world the terrible modern lesson of total war.

This is no time for perfumed niceties. The cold fact is that without the full naval, military and economic strength of this country, mobilized and organized for war the first time in the modern sense, the Germans had total victory in the bag in early 1918. Then something happened. The M. P.'s didn't win that war. American resources and organization—both economic and military—did it.

* * *

Administration Allergic

But they were masterfully organized and used by efficient and experienced men who believed, almost as a religion, in both our economic and political system. This administration is allergic to both that kind of man and belief. Hopkins, Perkins, Wallace, Morgenthau—I hate to scold them—but do I have to represent that such incompetents are fit to manage this great country against an enemy who has shown himself so fiendishly clever in applying the very lesson that competent Americans taught him and Germany in 1918?

The President recently suggested that it would be a good thing for members of his press conference to go to a CCC camp. Are they going to be concentration camps? For Mark Sullivan, he is reported to have told other newshawks that he had a pardon "written out in blank." Mark is frequently critical but always gentle. I wonder about my "pardon in blank." If, as and when it can be done, I shall be boiled in oil.

* * *

Wrong and Dangerous

So should I shut up? If I do, I shall write myself down as gutless as a kippered herring and as simple as a snipe. There has been no move of this administration that to me seemed right and I have not rushed out to defend until my fan mail ground with accusations of being a water-carrier on two shoulders. I have for years been insisting that it do what it is now making awkward attempts to do. This column began suggesting that it call Bill Knudsen two and a half years ago—but not in the capacity in which he is now being wasted.

Just now I think many of the directions in which we are going are wrong and dangerous. I would like to forget to say so and to break the too strident pace of this column by writing a piece about the "bees and the rabbits and their sweet engaging habits", but solar systems and universes are being too rapidly re-oriented. If not doing so is "scolding", I intend to apologize—and do it some more.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION ON THE AIR

Willkie Movement Emphasizes Doubt About Roosevelt, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

PHILADELPHIA, June 24—This Wendell Willkie movement is an extraordinary phenomenon. The phenomenon does not lie in Mr. Willkie alone. Primarily it is a phenomenon of popular emotion, a phenomenon of the American people in their present circumstances.

Mark Sullivan

Here are many millions of people, perhaps half the nation or more—the whole of that portion of our people who feel not satisfied with President Roosevelt, or who, having once thought of Mr. Roosevelt as a Messiah, have become doubtful. These millions are troubled; they feel menaced by the most disquieting sort of menace, a menace mysterious, not understood; a menace that comes at once from abroad, and from disquiet about our own national circumstances. These millions of people are unsettled, apprehensive, each of them is troubled about his personal future.

Seek Common Course

Each feels that as an individual he is unable to achieve his salvation by individual action. They all want to unite, to merge themselves into a body, to follow a common course. Instinctively, and almost desperately, they look about for some one who knows what the course should be, and will lead them in it.

By one figure of speech, much of the American people are like bees wanting to swarm. By another figure, they are like a mass of iron filings, each charged with the impulse to rush to a magnet—but with the magnet lacking.

Number Increases

That is the state of many of our people. The number who feel that way increases, because new anxieties assail them, from abroad and at home. Increasingly they feel uncertainty whether Mr. Roosevelt knows the way. They feel uncertainty not only about Mr. Roosevelt, but about the whole world of politics. Vaguely they hope for some one new, and from outside of politics.

At first, a year or two ago, they turned toward Mr. Dewey. He was not of Washington, nor primarily of politics. He was young. He suggested something new, and daring. And he seemed to have self-confidence, seemed to know the way. Mr Dewey seemed to be the needed magnet, a place to swarm. To many, Mr. Dewey is still satisfactory—quite possibly he is satisfactory to so large a number that he may be nominated.

Transitory in Nature

Yet it is of the nature of this popular phenomenon to be transitory. It is mass emotion, and it follows the chart of any individual emotion; it rises, has a peak and ultimately wanes. The peak of feeling for Mr. Dewey was about last March. Had this Republican convention met then, Mr. Dewey would have had no rival of his own type.

Meanwhile, along came a newer figure, Mr. Willkie. He had much that Mr. Dewey had, and, in the eyes of many, a little more. But he did not need to have more. It was enough that he was newer. His rise, his emergence from obscurity began just about in March, the time Mr. Dewey was at peak. Now, today Mr. Willkie is at peak. It is Mr. Willkie's good fortune that the peak of the people's turning toward him coincides with the sitting of the convention.

Must Decide Durability

What the thousand delegates in this convention must decide, among other considerations, is whether this remarkable public feeling for Mr. Willkie will last through the four months until the November election. It is quite possible for Mr. Willkie to last not only until the election, but for years. While popular emotion of the kind here involved is always trasitory, its peak, its high level, may last a long time. Mr. Roosevelt, elected by much the same sort of mass emotion, lasted long enough to be re-elected.

How long a peak of popular emotion may last, depends much on the qualities within the man who is thus elevated to symbolism. It depends also on the circumstances of the time. It is possible Mr. Willkie, if favored by circumstances, might really be the permanent answer to the people's mood; or at least the answer for a long enough time to see us through the present phase of our troubles.

In Popular Appeal

Mr. Willkie is recommended—and the recommendation is valid—by precisely the fact that he has strong popular appeal, which is the same as saying he would be a good candidate. If the opposing candidate is Mr. Roosevelt, the campaign would be a competition in popular appeal, and for such a cometition Mr. Willkie is well equipped. For achieving popularity, Mr. Willkie has qualities as effective as Mr. Roosevelt's—and has the advantage that his appeal is new, while Mr. Roosevelt's has necessarily suffered some tarnish from use.

But if the Democratic candidate is not Mr. Roosevelt, but Secretary of State Hull, or some other—in that event some other Republican candidate might be as satisfactory as Mr. Willkie.

Weighty Consideration

The delegates cannot confine themselves to considering, along, who would be the best candidate. Their function is double, to select a good candidate, and also a good president. That Mr. Willkie should make a good president is conceded. Yet, in the minds of a thousand men, most of whom are in the world of politics, of public life, of government, the fact that Mr. Willkie's career has been outside that world has some weight.

The delegates feel, in a mood made serious by the times, that their obligation is to elect not only a president but a government, including a Congress—a government consisting of a Congress and president who understand each other and are experienced with each other. For this broad purpose, if the convention confined itself to that purpose exclusively, there are candidates who, to many delegates, appeal more than Mr. Willkie.—(Copyright, 1940, New York Tribune, Inc.)

More Good Than Evil

Machine Has Power To Build As Well As To Destroy, Dr. van Zeeland Says

Those who view mechanical inventions with alarm as destructive of jobs may well hearken to words of Dr. Paul van Zeeland, former prime minister of Belgium. Dr. van Zeeland was seeking hope for the war devastated countries of Europe, some compensation for the forces of destruction. He said:

> "Let us not forget that there is a new face in the world. It is the extraordinary increase in the technical ability of men to produce wealth."

In that observation, writes William Feather in Nation's Business, "we may have the key to the better life to which we all look forward so eagerly and hopefully. Conceivably, the machine will be the means by which men can create enough for all and thereby end the ceaseless struggle for a bare existence which has occupied the energy of mankind."

The very power of a mechanized age to slay and destroy implies an equivalent power to rebuild. In just seven years the German war machine has been built from almost nothing to its present frightful proportions, comparable only to an earthquake or a cyclone in capacity to demolish and kill. We should have faith that in material things modern technology can restore rapidly what it has destroyed. It is not the machine that is evil, but the latent beast that exists in man. In America technology is being turned to a benevolent purpose.

Objects to Service of Any Communist on Draft Board

Editor The Cumberland News:

The report is given out that one of the members of the draft board having in charge the conscription of our young men for war service is the head of the Garment Workers, a Russian, by birth, and an avowed Communist.

In heaven's name, are there not enough red-blooded Democrats in this country at this time to do this work if it has to be done? How long will the American people put up with the political chicanery being perpetrated by this administration?

If our young men are to be handed over to Stalin and his gang, why not come out in the open and let the country know that the men in authority in Washington have repudiated the Constitution, that they have no faith in America and are ready to turn the country over, bag and baggage, to the European dictators or their followers.

Or is this a petty scheme to get Communistic support for a third term?

Very truly yours,
MALCOLM HALE.

Dictators Lack Sense of Humor, Edwin Hill Says

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

The only smiling likeness of Adolf Hitler we recall seeing was a news picture of the German dictator being greeted by one of the Hohenzollern princes, before the Nazis seized power. It was a fawning, fatuous smile, to be sure, the kind of smile that is rendered by the socially inferior to their betters, and, naturally, it has not been visible since. It has been transferred to the faces of der Fueher's yesmen.

Hitler frowns. Dictators and stubborn dogmatists are never humorous. They couldn't possibly be. Humore, unlike an electric current, never flows from a high to a low potential. It never flashes between master and man. The master is no more a humorist than he is a hero to his butler. If the master makes a joke and the butler laughs, it will be a condescending gag and a dutiful laugh. Liberty, equality and fraternity, and sometimes a brass rail, are essential to the free play of humor. Abraham Lincoln never said that but he exemplified it. He never would have been our greatest and most beloved democrat without his humor and his love of humor.

Price Would Disagree

G. Ward Price, British author of "I Know These Distators," published in this country two years ago, would perhaps disagree about dictators having no sense of humor. In his book, he is moved to ecstatic fervor, as he described Adolf Hitler's exquisite, subtle, gracious humor. Mr. Price, tall, monocled, graceful British aristocrat, is a well-known war correspondent, who, forming a close social and professional acquaintance with Hitler and Mussolini, during the years of their rise to power and thereafter, found them singularly charming and likeable.

As he relates in the above book, he and his employer, Lord Beaverbrook, the great British Newspaper magnate were among Hitler's guests at his first big party, after he gained power in 1933. Lord Beaverbrook returned to campaign for fascism through his great chain of newspapers, which reached 80 per cent of the newspaper readers of England. Mr. Price wrote his book.

* * *

A Horrible Sample

In full justice to Mr. Price it should be noted that he gives an authentic sample of Herr Hitler's quick, flashing, spontaneous humor. He describes the great state dinners the Fuehrer gave when he became Germany's supreme overlord, the easy grace and punctilio of these splendid banquets, but above all, Herr Hitler's flashing wit.

Mr. Price records, for history, one of the host's facile jokes which, he said, always convulses the guests with laughter. He had a very fat butler, usually hovering near his master's chair. Herr Hitler waits an opportune moment, when he has the full attention of the dinner company, and then turns to his butler and says, "Koennenberg, tell us how many chins you have." We are led to believe that Hitler thought that one up himself. That is the only sample Mr. Price gives us. But he seems to think it is enough to garland Herr Hitler as a great and loveable humorist.

More Heartening

But the monocled Mr. Price, writing his "Apologia Fascisma," is not England, and I think it is well to take note of that at this tragic hour. The key to the understanding of the real British democracy lies somewhere in the distinction between what Mr. Price and Mr. Bobblesworth of Upped Tooting, respectively, think is funny. Here is a more heartening story, which, in my opinion, encourages belief and hope that England will pull through.

Sir Oswald Mosely, an even more overwrought Hitler fan than Mr. Price, and also an aristocrat, went over to Germany to study Hitler and master his technique in getting his fellow citizens roped and hostied. He returned to England, built his Fascist Union, a shirt outfit, and staged a great public meeting in the Berlin Sports palast manner. There was an audience of many thousands in the great, darkened hall, with a single spotlight stabbing the stage.

* * *

Anti-Climax

There was the low throb of drums, a quickening tempo, suspense and a magnificent dramatic climax as little Oswald was caught by the sweep of the spotlight, as he entered lower left. He wore his shirt, his swastika, breeks and military boots. He advanced downstage with the Hitler stride. And then, at the climatic moment he held up his hand in the Hitler salute.

There was a moment of breathless silence. And then, far, far back in the deep shadows, there was a quiet, academic voice saying, "Yes, Oswald, you may leave the room."

The affair is sponsored by the Benevolent and Protective and Completely Universal Order of Fred Smiths of America, whose 5,000 members, all named Fred Smith, are said to be back of any amalgamation of anything at any time, and the sooner the better. The statement is made that these queer clubs, of which there are nearly a hundred with more than 50,000 members, "constitute America's first line of moral and mental defense."

In other words, the wonderfully valuable sense of humor is not lost in America. That being the case, all is well and we can brave anything.

Support Alienated By Inept Move

FEARS that the presidential campaign might degenerate into a colorless affair lacking drive and punch, and suffering from inability to divert the attention of the populace from the war in Europe and its implications, have already proved unfounded. This campaign will be a scorcher.

Strangely, or fittingly—depending upon the viewpoint — the presidential sweepstakes was given the starting gun by President Roosevelt when he appointed Messrs. Knox and Stimson to his cabinet. Republicans at once branded this as a political move intended to imply, on the eve of the Republican national convention, that the Republican party was divided and that an important segment of it is in favor of Roosevelt for a third term.

If no politics was intended in the president's appointments, they were made at an inept time; if the political motive ascribed to the move by Republican leaders is correct, the reaction was the opposite of that which obviously must have been intended by the president.

Instead of bringing about "unity" in government, the Knox-Stimson appointments have solidified the Republican ranks and greatly increased, or made more vocal, opposition to the president's foreign policy in both parties.

Mr. Roosevelt has Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson for whatever they as individuals can contribute to his administration, but in acquiring them he has alienated support in his own as well as in the Republican party. More than that, he has moved the Republican convention into the headlines and made it certain that the campaign will not suffer from ennui.

Fireworks Restriction Movement Spreads

THE RECENT COURT DECISION that upset safety regulations promulgated by James B. Gontrum, state insurance commissioner, in a praiseworthy effort to minimize Independence day fireworks accidents, again emphasizes the need of action on this subject by the General Assembly. A step forward has been taken here in Cumberland with a local ordinance, but its effect is naturally reduced by the lack of statewide regulation.

In this connection it is of interest to note that the movement to restrict the uses of fireworks by state control laws is growing. Laws of the kind will become effective July 4 for the first time in Delaware and Indiana, bringing to a total of eight the number of states which will partially prohibit the private use of pyrotechnics on the holiday.

The state-wide legislation, which in many cases replaced a scattering of municipal fireworks control ordinances easy for fireworks bootleggers to evade, is looked upon generally as an improved means of reducing fireworks accidents. Injuries from such accidents totaled more than 5,500 last July 4. In 1938, they numbered 7,933; in 1937, 7,205.

The six states reporting the most fireworks injuries last year were: New York, 1,491; California, 650; Illinois, 458; Missouri, 357; Ohio, 377; and Massachusetts 333.

Six states have no state-wide fireworks legislation at all. They are Arizona, Georgia, Missouri, Montana, Nevada and North Carolina.

The other six states with strict fireworks control laws are Iowa, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Utah and West Virginia. New York state will join the "prohibitory" group after August 1, when a measure enacted in the 1940 legislative session becomes effective.

All of these laws are based on a model proposed by the National Fire Protection Association. Provision is made in the laws for properly supervised public displays, for which a permit and bond to cover possible personal injury and property damage are required.

In addition, California and Wisconsin are considered to have fairly effective fireworks control laws. More than thirty states, also, have various kinds of "regulatory" laws, ranging from permission granted local governments to treat the problem "as they see fit," to restrictions on the type or size of fireworks, and limits on when and where they may be sold.

The prohibitory type of fireworks control law has shown itself effective during its first year in a majority of the states adopting it. Pennsylvania, which made the law effective last year, reduced fireworks injuries from 1,702 to 85, and deaths from six to none. Utah's fireworks injuries declined from eighteen to five upon first application of the law last year, and West Virginia's from forty-one to none. Iowa, whose law became effective in 1938, showed a decrease in injuries from seventy-six to six. These results indicate pudding proof effectiveness.

Stalin Now Frightened Over His Losing Bet

THE DEFEAT of one of the great democracies at the hands of Germany has absorbed the attention of observers to such an extent that Stalin's latest move against the tiny nations of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia has lost much of its significance.

The Russian dictator's action can hardly be interpreted as a challenge to German authority. The old order is changing and as it crumbles Russia, like Italy, is taking advantage of the world-wide confusion to consolidate its position.

Stalin cannot view with equanimity the tremendous military prestige of Germany. Fear undoubtedly plays some part in this latest taking of territory which may be useful in strengthening Russian defenses against a possible German threat in the future. But at the present time Stalin obviously has no intention of entering the conflict.

The bolshevist czar's uneasiness may be compared to that of Napoleon III who encouraged the rise of Prussia in the misguided belief that Prussia and Austria would engage in a long and exhausting war which would strengthen French authority in Europe. It was Napoleon who set Bismarck on the road to Paris and Versailles. For Prussia conquered Austria in short order with typical German efficiency. The German empire came into being and France was the final victim.

Stalin's pact with Hitler opened the way to present German victories. No doubt Stalin, too, hoped to see a long exhausting war which would leave Russia in a commanding position when the final peace was signed. If so, he has been bitterly disappointed. In seeking to strengthen the Russian frontier by conquest of neighbor nations he is attempting to protect himself from the monstrous forces he unleashed against the Western world.

Motoring Caution Is Again Emphasized

W. LEE ELGIN, state commissioner of motor vehicles, reports that during the first five months of the year, fourteen more deaths occurred in motor accidents in Maryland than during the same period of last year. The distressing total is 167 deaths for this year as against 153 for last year.

By reason of its larger population, representing approximately half of the state, Baltimore city suffered the largest number of fatalities during May, having had nine accidents resulting in ten deaths. Nineteen accidents resulting in twenty-three deaths occurred in the counties. Allegany had one accident with one death. It will loom larger in the statistics for June, however.

These figures again emphasize the need for greater caution on the part of motorists everywhere in the state.

Carelessly discarded cigarets from speeding auto windows cause tremendous damage to plant life every tourist season, we read. Why not a new slogan: "Two million ash trays along every highway"?

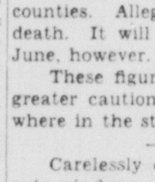

Woman, according to a psychologist, is five degrees cooler than man. Not when she discovers the next door neighbor has a hat exactly like hers.

Fat people are nearly always jolly, 'tis said. But not, adds the man at the next desk, just after they have stepped off the scales.

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The Romans used to advise themselves to "sieze the day," to use every twenty-four hours joyfully. . . . It is just as essential, I believe, to use every moment. Not all moments are rich and strong, full of meaning and power. Some of them are dull and lifeless, a drag on your disposition and your character.

Marshall Maslin

But some moments are miraculous. Suddenly, out of nowhere, without warning, they appear. Life glows, life shines, life lifts you high above your ordinary self. You feel, with a certainty so swift that it is absolute knowledge, that you can now do anything. All your powers are concerted in this one moment. . . . You are not another human being entirely, you are you at your highest, seeing clearly, feeling intensely, multiplied and gloriously stimulated.

This moment comes, this moment goes. For all you know it may never come again. What can you, what will you, do with it?

You hold it in your hand. It gleams like a polished tool. Will you hold it idly, admiring its perfection, its keenness, its superlative usefulness? Or will you take it and use it, use it and create something that will outlast this moment and serve you all the rest of your days?

You have your choice. These good-great-precious moments come to all of us. And sometimes we do more with them than admire and enjoy them. We feel so grand but we desire only to FEEL and not to DO. So the rich moment slips away from us and we have only the memory of that lost opportunity.

But if we USE this moment of our eminence, make something out of it, do something with it, we have made ourselves worthy of our great fortune. We have made it last. We have set ourselves a great example of what we once were and did—and what we may be and do again.

I am weaving no dream. I am talking fact. I know the brightness I have allowed to grow dull. I know the opportunities I have let slip. . . . And so have you wasted many a high moment. Be wiser when they come again—and use that moment!

Nation in Danger Of Going Haywire, Johnson Declares

Hugh Johnson

WASHINGTON, June 24—There is a grave danger of this country going completely haywire under the pressue of war. It is true that the grossest neglect of defense in our history and the most reckless impairment of our credit and industrial efficiency have left us in a most defenseless posture. Although very weak, due to these deficiencies, we have roved the world like a lamb rampant slapping down the ears of every ferocious animal in the menagerie—lions and tigers as well as jackals—until we haven't a friend on earth.

Perhaps the most cock-eyed impertinence on record is that the authors of this incompetence and danger insist that they must be perpetuated in a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

I am accused of constant scolding. I don't want to be a scold. I examine myself about that "in the night session." I can't think that my kind of preachment is wrong in this crisis. If I can't think it is wrong I ought not to stop it—scold or no scold.

* * *

Speaking from Experience

Why do I feel so confident? Well, I sat at the center of both industrial and manpower mobilization in the first World War. It is a strange result but the fact is that, although Scharnhorst and Stein invented the German idea of the "nation in arms", to overthrow Napoleon and change the face of war, and, although the Kaiser's was almost as complete a dictatorship as Hitler's, it was not German autocracy but American democracy that taught the world the terrible modern lesson of total war.

This is no time for perfumed niceties. The cold fact is that without the full naval, military and economic strength of this country, mobilized and organized for war the first time in the modern sense, the Germans had total victory in the bag in early 1918. Then something happened. The M. P.'s didn't win that war. American resources and organization—both economic and military—did it.

* * *

Administration Allergic

But they were masterfully organized and used by efficient and experienced men who believed, almost as a religion, in both our economic and political system. This administration is allergic to both that kind of man and belief. Hopkins, Perkins, Wallace, Morgenthau—I hate to scold them—but do I have to represent that such incompetents are fit to manage this great country against an enemy who has shown himself so fiendishly clever in applying the very lesson that competent Americans taught him and Germany in 1918?

The President recently suggested that it would be a good thing for members of his press conference to go to a CCC camp. Are they going to be concentration camps? For Mark Sullivan, he is reported to have told other newshawks that he had a pardon "written out in blank." Mark is frequently critical but always gentle. I wonder about my "pardon in blank." If, as and when it can be done, I shall be boiled in oil.

* * *

Wrong and Dangerous

So should I shut up? If I do, I shall write myself down as gutless as a kippered herring and as simple as a snipe. There has been no move of this administration that to me seemed right and I have not rushed out to defend until my fan mail ground with accusations of being a water-carrier on two shoulders. I have for years been insisting that it do what it is now making awkward attempts to do. This column began suggesting that it call Bill Knudsen two and a half years ago—but not in the capacity in which he is now being wasted.

Just now I think many of the directions in which we are going are wrong and dangerous. I would like to forget to say so and to break the too strident pace of this column

THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION ON THE AIR

By MARK SULLIVAN

Mark Sullivan

Here are many millions of people, perhaps half the nation or more—the whole of that portion of our people who feel not satisfied with President Roosevelt, or who, having once thought of Mr. Roosevelt as a Messiah, have become doubtful. These millions are troubled; they feel menaced by the most disquieting sort of menace, a menace mysterious, not understood; a menace that comes at once from abroad, and from disquiet about our own national circumstances. These millions of people are unsettled, apprehensive, each of them is troubled about his personal future.

Seek Common Course

Each feels that as an individual he is unable to achieve his salvation by individual action. They all want to unite, to merge themselves into a body, to follow a common course. Instinctively, and almost desperately, they look about for some one who knows what the course should be, and will lead them in it.

By one figure of speech, much of the American people are like bees wanting to swarm. By another figure, they are like a mass of iron filings, each charged with the impulse to rush to a magnet—but with the magnet lacking.

Number Increases

That is the state of many of our people. The number who feel that way increases, because new anxieties assail them, from abroad and at home. Increasingly they feel uncertainty whether Mr. Roosevelt knows the way. They feel uncertainty not only about Mr. Roosevelt, but about the whole world of politics. Vaguely they hope for some one new, and from outside of politics.

At first, a year or two ago, they turned toward Mr. Dewey. He was not of Washington, nor primarily of politics. He was young. He suggested something new, and daring. And he seemed to have self-confidence, seemed to know the way. Mr Dewey seemed to be the needed magnet, a place to swarm. To many, Mr. Dewey is still satisfactory—quite possibly he is satisfactory to so large a number that he may be nominated.

Transitory in Nature

Yet it is of the nature of this popular phenomenon to be transitory. It is mass emotion, and it follows the chart of any individual emotion; it rises, has a peak and ultimately wanes. The peak of feeling for Mr. Dewey was about last March. Had this Republican convention met then, Mr. Dewey would have had no rival of his own type.

Meanwhile, along came a newer figure, Mr. Willkie. He had much that Mr. Dewey had, and, in the eyes of many, a little more. But he did not need to have more. It was enough that he was newer. His rise, his emergence from obscurity began just about in March, the time Mr. Dewey was at peak. Now, today Mr. Willkie is at peak. It is Mr. Willkie's good fortune that the peak of the people's turning toward him coincides with the sitting of the convention.

Must Decide Durability

What the thousand delegates in this convention must decide, among other considerations, is whether this remarkable public feeling for Mr. Willkie will last through the four months until the November election. It is quite possible for Mr. Willkie to last not only until the election, but for years. While popular emotion of the kind here involved is always trasitory, its peak, its high level, may last a long time. Mr. Roosevelt, elected by much the same sort of mass emotion, lasted long enough to be re-elected.

How long a peak of popular emotion may last, depends much on the qualities within the man who is thus elevated to symbolism. It depends also on the circumstances of the time. It is possible Mr. Willkie, if favored by circumstances, might really be the permanent answer to the people's mood; or at least the answer for a long enough time to see us through the present phase of our troubles.

In Popular Appeal

Mr. Willkie is recommended—and the recommendation is valid—by precisely the fact that he has strong popular appeal, which is the same as saying he would be a good candidate. If the opposing candidate is Mr. Roosevelt, the campaign would be a competition in popular appeal, and for such a cometition Mr. Willkie is well equipped. For achieving popularity, Mr. Willkie has qualities as effective as Mr. Roosevelt's—and has the advantage that his appeal is new, while Mr. Roosevelt's has necessarily suffered some tarnish from use.

But if the Democratic candidate is not Mr. Roosevelt, but Secretary of State Hull, or some other—in that event some other Republican candidate might be as satisfactory as Mr. Willkie.

Weighty Consideration

The delegates cannot confine themselves to considering, along, who would be the best candidate. Their function is double, to select a good candidate, and also a good president. That Mr. Willkie should make a good president is conceded. Yet, in the minds of a thousand men, most of whom are in the world of politics, of public life, of government, the fact that Mr. Willkie's career has been outside that world has some weight.

The delegates feel, in a mood made serious by the times, that their obligation is to elect not only a president but a government, including a Congress—a government consisting of a Congress and president who understand each other and are experienced with each other. For this broad purpose, if the convention confined itself to that purpose exclusively, there are candidates who, to many delegates, appeal more than Mr. Willkie.—(Copyright, 1940, New York Tribune, Inc.)

More Good Than Evil

Machine Has Power To Build As Well As To Destroy, Dr. van Zeeland Says

Those who view mechanical inventions with alarm as destructive of jobs may well hearken to words of Dr. Paul van Zeeland, former prime minister of Belgium. Dr. van Zeeland was seeking hope for the war devastated countries of Europe, some compensation for the forces of destruction. He said:

> "Let us not forget that there is a new face in the world. It is the extraordinary increase in the technical ability of men to produce wealth."

In that observation, writes William Feather in Nation's Business, "we may have the key to the better life to which we all look forward so eagerly and hopefully. Conceivably, the machine will be the means by which men can create enough for all and thereby end the ceaseless struggle for a bare existence which has occupied the energy of mankind."

The very power of a mechanized age to slay and destroy implies an equivalent power to rebuild. In just seven years the German war machine has been built from almost nothing to its present frightful proportions, comparable only to an earthquake or a cyclone in capacity to demolish and kill. We should have faith that in material things modern technology can restore rapidly what it has destroyed. It is not the machine that is evil, but the latent beast that exists in man. In America technology is being turned to a benevolent purpose.

Objects to Service of Any Communist on Draft Board

Editor The Cumberland News:

The report is given out that one of the members of the draft board having in charge the conscription of our young men for war service is the head of the Garment Workers, a Russian, by birth, and an avowed Communist.

In heaven's name, are there not enough red-blooded Democrats in this country at this time to do this work if it has to be done? How long will the American people put up with the political chicanery being perpetrated by this administration?

If our young men are to be handed over to Stalin and his gang, why not come out in the open and let the country know that the men in authority in Washington have repudiated the Constitution, that they have no faith in America and are ready to turn the country over, bag and baggage, to the European dictators or their followers.

Or is this a petty scheme to get Communistic support for a third term?

Very truly yours,
MALCOLM HALE.

By EDWIN C. HILL

The only smiling likeness of Adolf Hitler we recall seeing was a news picture of the German dictator being greeted by one of the Hohenzollern princes, before the Nazis seized power. It was a fawning, fatuous smile, to be sure, the kind of smile that is rendered by the socially inferior to their betters, and, naturally, it has not been visible since. It has been transferred to the faces of der Fueher's yes men.

Edwin C. Hill

Hitler frowns. Dictators and stubborn dogmatists are never humorous. They couldn't possibly be. Humor, unlike an electric current, never flows from a high to a low potential. It never flashes between master and man. The master is never more a humorist than he is a hen to his butler. If the master makes a joke and the butler laughs, it will be a condescending gag and a dutiful laugh. Liberty, equality and fraternity, and sometimes a brass rail, are essential to the free play of humor. Abraham Lincoln never said that but he exemplified it. He never would have been our greatest and most beloved democrat without his humor and his love of humor.

* * *

Price Would Disagree

G. Ward Price, British author of "I Know These Distators," published in this country two years ago, would perhaps disagree about dictators having no sense of humor. In his book, he is moved to ecstatic fervor, as he described Adolf Hitler's exquisite, subtle, gracious humor. Mr. Price, tall, monocled, graceful British aristocrat, is a well-known war correspondent, who, forming a close social and professional acquaintance with Hitler and Mussolini, during the years of their rise to power and thereafter, found them singularly charming and likeable.

As he relates in the above book, he and his employer, Lord Beaverbrook, the great British Newspaper magnate were among Hitler's guests at his first big party, after he gained power in 1933. Lord Beaverbrook returned to campaign for fascism, through his great chain of newspapers, which reached 80 per cent of the newspaper readers of England. Mr. Price wrote his book.

* * *

A Horrible Sample

In full justice to Mr. Price it should be noted that he gives as authentic sample of Herr Hitler's quick, flashing, spontaneous humor. He describes the great state dinners the Fuehrer gave when he became Germany's supreme overlord, the easy grace and punctilio of these splendid banquets, but above all, Herr Hitler's flashing wit.

Mr. Price records, for history, one of the host's facile jokes which, he said, always convulses the guests with laughter. He had a very fat butler, usually hovering near his master's chair. Herr Hitler waits an opportune moment, when he has the full attention of the dinner company, and then turns to his butler and says, "Koennenberg, tell us how many chins you have." We are led to believe that Hitler thought that one up himself. That is the only sample Mr. Price gives us. But he seems to think it is enough to garland Herr Hitler as a great and loveable humorist.

* * *

More Heartening

But the monocled Mr. Price, writing his "Apologia Fascisma," is not England, and I think it is well to take note of that at this tragic hour. The key to the understanding of the real British democracy lies somewhere in the distinction between what Mr. Price and Joe Bobblesworth of Upped Tooting, respectively, think is funny. Here is a more heartening story, which, in my opinion, encourages belief and hope that England will pull through.

Sir Oswald Mosely, an even more overwrought Hitler fan than Mr. Price, and also an aristocrat, went over to Germany to study Hitler and master his technique in getting his fellow citizens roped and hogtied. He returned to England, built his Fascist Union, a shirt outfit, and staged a great public meeting in the Berlin Sports palast manner. There was an audience of many thousands in the great, darkened hall, with a single spotlight stabbing the stage.

* * *

Anti-Climax

There was the low throb of drums, a quickening tempo, suspense and a magnificent dramatic climax as little Oswald was caught by the sweep of the spotlight, as he entered lower left. He wore his shirt, his swastika, breeks and military boots. He advanced downstage with the Hitler stride. And then, at the climatic moment he held up his hand in the Hitler salute.

There was a moment of breathless silence. And then, far, far back in the deep shadows, there was a quiet, academic voice saying, "Yes, Oswald, you may leave the room."

THE DAILY STORY

MIRACLE STONE

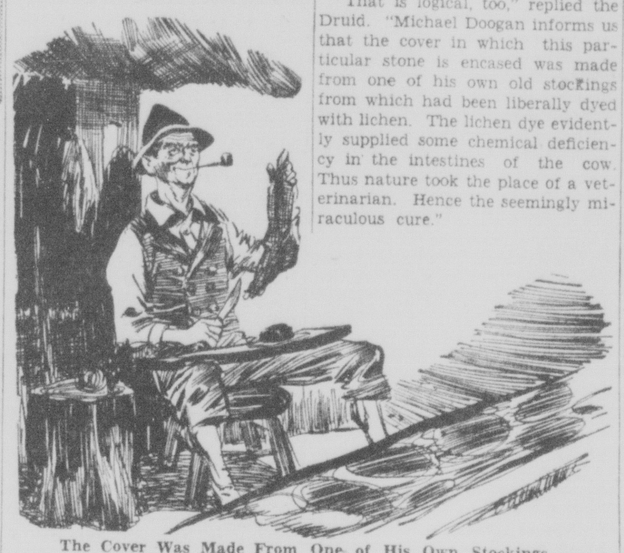

There Were Various Theories about the Power of the Stone and the Least Truthful Were Certainly the Best

By MARTIN ROWMAN

It was dark, stormy night in Ballycladdy. Michael Doogan, Mickey Nellie and Thady Gaughan, nicknamed the Druid, were seated around Andy Joe's blazing, comfortable fire. A tall, dignified man of 60, or thereabouts, entered. He was Prof. Claude Curry of Oxford, recently arrived in Ireland to study the Gaelic language.

"It is a very bad night for you to be out alone, professor," said Andy Joe. "Move up to the fire."

"The night is just as bad for these other gentlemen as it is for me, Andy Joe," smiled the professor.

The Cover Was Made From One of His Own Stockings.

"That's a different story, professor," said Andy Joe. "You are a stranger here. These lads are so used to this place that darkness means nothing to them. They seldom pass a night without coming to see me."

"They come," said Prof. Curry, "because you are a notorious storyteller, Andy Joe. I have come for that same reason myself. I am told that Michael Doogan's cow was at the point of death yesterday, but on being given a drink from a pail of water in which a miraculous stone was submerged she immediately jumped to her feet fully cured. Frankly, I'd like to learn as much of the folklore and superstitions of Ballycladdy as possible. I'd appreciate your version of the incident."

Andy Joe lit his pipe. "Professor," he said, "the people of Ballycladdy have many strange beliefs. The reason for that is that most of the people here are descended from the pagans. Here is one of the few places where the Gaelic speech survived. The countryside was so poor in natural wealth that the foreigners did not come among us to steal anything. That was a blessing and that same blessing preserved our language. Getting back to the cure of Michael Doogan's cow, here is the belief.

"There are black polished stones with hollow places on their surfaces to be found among the shores of Ballycladdy. They weight about a pound. The belief is that when the fairies want to take a man or beast with them to fairyland they strike their victim with a blow of one of these stones, and whatever is struck sickens and dies. The only way to save the life is to give the sick beast, or person, as the case may be, three drinks from a pail of water in which another such stone is steeped. This breaks the fairy spell. These stones are known as Fairy Darts or Elf Stones."

"The Elf Stone that I have," Michael Doogan broke in, "has been in our family for over 500 years. There was a leather case on it for a long time to keep the hands from touching it. The case wore away with age. About two years ago I made a new case for it out of one of my own socks that was dyed brown with lichen moss. It seems to have more power since I put the new case on it."

"A strange custom, indeed," said Prof. Curry.

"I have always found myself at variances with such quackery, professor,' 'remarked the Druid.

"You were nothing but a doubting Thomas all your life, Thady," said Michael Doogan, in a belligerent tone.

"There are, of course, certain virtues in these forms of pagan custome, gentlemen," said the Druid, ignoring Michael. "I believe our pagan ancestors were not nearly as ignorant as the world would have us believe. I am inclined to believe that the Druids of Ireland discovered the art of fingerprinting. This in our time, although but recently perfected, has become a perfect science in the detection of crime."

"I fail to see the relationship, Mr. Gaughan," said Prof. Curry.

"Each Elf Stone has four hollow indentures on its surface," said the Druid. "Tradition has it that a fairy smith surprised one night by a wandering mortal had placed his fingers on the stone and struck each finger in turn with a blow of the hammer, and left the prints on the surface of the stone. It would therefore be reasonable to assume that the elf-smith knew th evalue of a distinctive fingerprint."

Prof Curry laughed. "Even so, Mr. Gaughan, how do you account for the fact that the cow leaped to her feet as soon as she had partaken of the drink?"

"That is logical, too," replied the Druid. "Michael Doogan informs us that the cover in which this particular stone is encased was made from one of his own old stockings from which had been liberally dyed with lichen. The lichen dye evidently supplied some chemical deficiency in the intestines of the cow. Thus nature took the place of a veterinarian. Hence the seemingly miraculous cure."

"That's not the way it was at all," said Andy Joe, a gleam in his eye.

"I tell you that's exactly the way it was," said the Druid, tamping the ashes down in his pipe and preparing for a long argument.

When the professor from Oxford was taking his leave, the Druid managed a word with Andy Joe alone.

"This has been a very fruitless evening," he said. "You know as well as I do that all that business about the fairies is nonsense."

"Maybe I do and maybe I don't," said Andy Joe with a straight face. "But when you're as old as I am you'll understand that brilliant men don't come to faraway places like Ballycladdy merely to hear the truth."—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Time To Swap Horses, Hamilton Asserts

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP) — In a radio speech here Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican National Committee said "the time has come when we must swap horses."

"Under the New Deal we have somehow lived through seven years of profligacy, waste, bureaucracy, partisan politics, defiance of the constitution and the shocking ineptitude of those in high places," Hamilton declared.

"As a result of this ineptitude, the nation finds itself as totally unprepared for its military defense in a world aflame, as it has been left totally unprepared industrially and economically."

Nazi Flag Flies In Charlotte, N. C.

Charlotte, N. C., June 24 (AP)—A huge swastika or Nazi flag was noticed flying from a pole atop the Liberty Life building, Charlotte's tallest skyscraper, early yesterday.

An employe of the building promptly removed the flag and turned it over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Building employes said anyone during certain hours of the night could have reached the roof from within or up a fire escape.

White Colony in Peru Found after Quarter Century

People Want To Stay There, but Hope To Have Radio

PUERTO MALDONADO, Madre de Dios Department, Peru, June 24 (AP) — A white colony found after more than a quarter century in the jungle fastness of Peru wants to stay there but would like to keep in touch with the rest of the world now with that new-fangled thing called radio.

Two Peruvian army officers, Capt. Luis Conterno and Lieut. Jose Elmore, accompanying a Swedish-American expedition exploring the Colorado river, found the group and reported their discovery to this inland river port.

They said the little settlement, made up entirely of Peruvians, is at the mouth of the Pinquen river, a tributary of the Colorado.

The inhabitants, the offspring of families of rubber collectors who remained on the Pinquen river after the crash of the rubber industry, welcomed the fliers jubilantly, eagerly read Lima newspapers, and plied the two pilots with an endless stream of questions concerning events during the last quarter of a century. The World War peace and the new European war were news to them.

Despite their primitive life, members of the colony still have habits of civilized peoples. Many can read and write Spanish, and their first requests were for a school and — after the possibility had been explained — a radio station.

Peruvian authorities are planning a village census.

The colonies became isolated because they could not go back to Iquitos, to the north. To reach Puerto Maldonado to the south, they would have to pass through hostile jungle tribes.

During their twenty-five years of isolation they have lived chiefly on farming and game.

The fliers said their ignorance of events during the last twenty-five years made these people seem "to have fallen from another planet."

Belgium in Grip Of Food Shortage

Berlin, June 24 (AP)—A serious food shortage in Belgium, particularly in the rural regions, was reported here by observers in Brussels watching the little kingdom try to adjust itself to German occupation.

The German Red Cross, financed domestically and from abroad, was reported attempting to forestall a critical situation and German relief was said to be reaching Belgium in increasing quantities.

Belgium, which previously imported much food by sea, now is closed off by the British blockade and in the confusion of the war appears unable to adjust itself to the purely continental economy in time to replace fully the supplies formerly brought by ships.

In some Chinese districts, people whose homes have been destroyed by fire will not be sheltered by friends until each member of the household has been soaked by a pail of water to foil the fire demon believed to be with them.

THE DAILY STORY

MIRACLE STONE

There Were Various Theories about the Power of the Stone and the Least Truthful Were Certainly the Best

By MARTIN ROWMAN

It was dark, stormy night in Ballycladdy. Michael Doogan, Mickey Nellie and Thady Gaughan, nicknamed the Druid, were seated around Andy Joe's blazing, comfortable fire. A tall, dignified man of 60, or thereabouts, entered. He was Prof. Claude Curry of Oxford, recently arrived in Ireland to study the Gaelic language.

"It is a very bad night for you to be out alone, professor," said Andy Joe. "Move up to the fire."

"The night is just as bad for these other gentlemen as it is for me, Andy Joe," smiled the professor.

The Cover Was Made From One of His Own Stockings.

"That's a different story, professor," said Andy Joe. "You are a stranger here. These lads are so used to this place that darkness means nothing to them. They seldom pass a night without coming to see me."

"They come," said Prof. Curry, "because you are a notorious storyteller, Andy Joe. I have come for that same reason myself. I am told that Michael Doogan's cow was at the point of death yesterday, but on being given a drink from a pail of water in which a miraculous stone was submerged she immediately jumped to her feet fully cured. Frankly, I'd like to learn as much of the folklore and superstitions of Ballycladdy as possible. I'd appreciate your version of the incident."

Andy Joe lit his pipe. "Professor," he said, "the people of Ballycladdy have many strange beliefs. The reason for that is that most of the people here are descended from the pagans. Here is one of the few places where the Gaelic speech survived. The countryside was so poor in natural wealth that the foreigners did not come among us to steal anything. That was a blessing and that same blessing preserved our language. Getting back to the cure of Michael Doogan's cow, here is the belief.

"There are black polished stones with hollow places on their surfaces to be found among the shores of Ballycladdy. They weight about a pound. The belief is that when the fairies want to take a man or beast with them to fairyland they strike their victim with a blow of one of these stones, and whatever is struck sickens and dies. The only way to save the life is to give the sick beast, or person, as the case may be, three drinks from a pail of water in which another such stone is steeped. This breaks the fairy spell. These stones are known as Fairy Darts or Elf Stones."

"The Elf Stone that I have," Michael Doogan broke in, "has been in our family for over 500 years. There was a leather case on it for a long time to keep the hands from touching it. The case wore away with age. About two years ago I made a new case for it out of one of my own socks that was dyed brown with lichen moss. It seems to have more power since I put the new case on it."

"A strange custom, indeed," said Prof. Curry.

"I have always found myself at variances with such quackery, professor,' 'remarked the Druid.

"You were nothing but a doubting Thomas all your life, Thady," said Michael Doogan, in a belligerent tone.

"There are, of course, certain virtues in these forms of pagan custome, gentlemen," said the Druid, ignoring Michael. "I believe our pagan ancestors were not nearly as ignorant as the world would have us believe. I am inclined to believe that the Druids of Ireland discovered the art of fingerprinting. This in our time, although but recently perfected, has become a perfect science in the detection of crime."

"I fail to see the relationship, Mr. Gaughan," said Prof. Curry.

"Each Elf Stone has four hollow indentures on its surface," said the Druid. "Tradition has it that a fairy smith surprised one night by a wandering mortal had placed his fingers on the stone and struck each finger in turn with a blow of the hammer, and left the prints on the surface of the stone. It would therefore be reasonable to assume that the elf-smith knew th evalue of a distinctive fingerprint."

Prof Curry laughed. "Even so, Mr. Gaughan, how do you account for the fact that the cow leaped to her feet as soon as she had partaken of the drink?"

"That is logical, too," replied the Druid. "Michael Doogan informs us that the cover in which this particular stone is encased was made from one of his own old stockings from which had been liberally dyed with lichen. The lichen dye evidently supplied some chemical deficiency in the intestines of the cow. Thus nature took the place of a veterinarian. Hence the seemingly miraculous cure."

"That's not the way it was at all," said Andy Joe, a gleam in his eye.

"I tell you that's exactly the way it was," said the Druid, tamping the ashes down in his pipe and preparing for a long argument.

When the professor from Oxford was taking his leave, the Druid managed a word with Andy Joe alone.

"This has been a very fruitless evening," he said. "You know as well as I do that all that business about the fairies is nonsense."

"Maybe I do and maybe I don't," said Andy Joe with a straight face. "But when you're as old as I am you'll understand that brilliant men don't come to faraway places like Ballycladdy merely to hear the truth."—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Social Events and Items of Interest for the Women

Many Social Events Are Planned By Younger Set of Cumberland

The week before the Fourth of July finds the social season in the city in full swing with the younger set making things step along merrily at the lakeside resorts which daily represent a glamorous magazine cover appearance.

The Cumberland Country Club, Christie road, has been crowded with golfers, tennis players and people escaping the city heat, gathering on the porch to pass lazy hours.

This evening brings one of the outstanding events of this week's social calendar with the dance to be given at the Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Doub, Camden avenue.

The Ali Ghan Country Club, Baltimore pike, is also much in demand with luncheons and other gay affairs crowding the social calendar.

Swimming parties and picnics are also in demand with Cumberlanders flocking to Constitution Park, local country clubs, the Celanese pool, Minke's and other popular summer amusement places.

Of course on Friday evening the Junior Volunteer Service Corps expects a large crowd including a number of out-of-town people, at the American Red Cross benefit party to be given by the corps at the Jockey club.

Family Has Reunion

The Shatzer family held a reunion Sunday at Constitution Park.

Step High for Smooth Thigh

"The practice of keeping the abdomen flat invigorates the fibers of the mid-section."

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE THIGH SHOULD not bulge at the place of union with the hip. If it does there will be an ugly line in the silhouette. The trouble is due to localized fat.

If you are bothered by this special beauty sorrow stand erect, steady yourself by holding to the back of a chair, swing the leg in wide circles. Lift the foot as high as you can. You will be aware of a strong muscle pull from knees to hips.

Massage will reduce localized fat in course of time, but the time required is so long that many beauty seekers get discouraged. The flesh is picked up and rolled between the fingers, in a crushing movement. Afterwards, there should be a sponging with ice cold salt water.

Melt That Bulge

The thigh bulge comes to women who sit at their desks, typewriters or sewing tables all day. They don't get enough exercise to keep the muscles strong. Fibers go slack, adipose tissue builds up. Squatting exercises are helpful, so is high kicking. Walking at a brisk pace is recommended.

Correct posture is important. The practice of keeping the abdomen flat invigorates the fibers of the mid section. Tummy flat, chest high, backbone tall; that is the posture rule.

Personal daintiness calls for the use of a deodorant, not only in the summer season, but all the year long.

Perspiration in the armpits will abate if an astringent is used. These preparations come in various forms — lotions, pastes and powders. If one does not prove effective another one will.

The daily bath is required not only for the sake of cleanliness but to help the skin to function normally. The unpleasant odor appears when the chemicals in perspiration have dried upon the skin.

Matriarchy May Be the Outcome Of War Killings

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

This year's baccalaureate sermons have a grim note. No longer are boys and girls told that an admiring world is waiting for their message, and that the world is their oyster. Chaos rending Europe, like the wailing of a banshee, foretells the death of an era. What is to be the fate of these splendid young Americans?

Thank heaven those who have spoken to them at commencements do not glorify bloodshed on foreign soil, as they did in commencement addresses immediately preceding the first World war!

Mrs. Roosevelt passionately urges youth to aid democracy, saying, "Youth must show that democracy is as successful as a totalitarian state can be. Safety of democracy lies not in armaments but what you make of your citizenship."

At the Madeira School, preparatory for Wellesley, Vassar, Bryn Mawr and other women's colleges, the graduates were told:

Right To Be Free

"The issue being fought on the fields of Flanders and of France is the right of the individual to be free, and war will be unlikely just to the degree in which we are prepared. Let no one doubt the need of preparedness is urgent, so urgent that all other matters fade into insignificance beside it."

Secretary Ickes, in dedicating the Cook Dormitory at Harvard University, urged students to save the world from dislocation and destruction.

"We stand today at one of the great crossroads of history," he said: "Until now the task of education has been to prepare men to take a useful and desired place in an orderly world. Now the task of education is to build within our hearts a purpose, hard as steel, to destroy utterly the causes which result in such a catastrophe as the present, no matter what the cost. Since no dictator can feel secure, if his people possess knowledge, the treasure houses of learning are among the first objectives of the armies of conquest."

Must Be Ready

Secretary Edison, conferring degrees on 455 Naval Academy graduates, said: "Like the fleet, each of you must be ready."

Apparently, the majority of Americans are glad to send overseas everything but soldiers. If we are attacked, we shall have to fight and the fleet will be ready. But true to our peaceful tradition and the lessons gained by World war No. 1, commencement day speakers did not glorify the dying of young Americans on foreign soil.

When the European holocaust is over and the madness of the totalitarian states shall have been expended, it will be well to have a little sanity on tap. The right-about-face of the totalitarians would be amusing, if it were not so tragic. Making ready for the butchery, women were urged by dictators to go back home "where God meant them to stay," to cook and have more and more children for cannon fodder. But now our totalitarian fanatics are turning to women as the future savers of commerce and industry.

Matriarchy Seen

Dictators now insist that countries, whose women know about these things, will win the war. So "come out of the kitchen," Hedvig Nedda and Sonja. Soldiers can't fight without food and clothing. But have the dictators ever thought that killing men by the millions may result in universal matriarchy? We've had that before in prehistoric times, and we're having it at present among certain of our own Indian tribes.

In spite of being a feminist, I don't think it's a good job for men to kill each other off to such an extent that women may have to run the world. What do you think about it?

Carrying Chivalry Too Far

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I think I've met the girl who would be the one for me. We get along well together, and think a great deal of one another. I can't see her often, because I work long hours, trying to get started in my own business. Evenings I spend with my mother, who is just recovering from a breakdown. This girl doesn't know about my mother; do you think I should tell her?

Also, a supposed friend is trying to break up the affair. He's married, and I really don't care to go out with him anymore, because his wife accuses me of taking him out on dates. He has taken out my girl, who doesn't know he's a married man. As I don't like to carry tales, I hesitate telling her about it.

This young lady is 26 and I am 25 and both of us have college degrees. If we don't break up before I can get a good start in business, I want to ask her to become my wife. That is, if my mother regains her health. What do you think of the fact that she is a year older than I am?

D. H.

No. I don't think it makes a particle of difference that the girl is a year older than you are, and it would be well, it seems to me, to tell her of your mother's illness. Otherwise, she may think you're spending your evenings with a rival. Chivalry can be carried too far when you hesitate to tell a girl in whom you are seriously interested that a man who is paying her attention, is married.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am going "steady" with a young man, who gave me a birthstone-ring for my birthday. I reciprocated with a gift for his birthday. Would it be proper for me to send a birthday

Arlington Virginia Girl Becomes The Bride of Donald M. Buckle

The Methodist church at Arlington, Va., was the scene of the marriage of Miss Margaret Virginia Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Warner, Arlington, and Donald Miller Buckle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buckle, 717 Patterson avenue, this city. The ceremony took place Saturday. The Rev. Dr. Hovermale officiated.

The bride was gowned in white lace with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds. Miss Catherine Warner was her sister's attendant and wore blue lace. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. C. P. Heins was organist and played the Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches and Douglas True sang "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Promise Me." Ushers were Paul Paxton and Phillip Warner. A reception at the bride's home followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Buckle was graduated from Washington Lee high school, Arlington, and attended Strayer's Business school, Washington, D. C. Mr. Buckle was graduated from Allegany high school and is employed at the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C.

After a wedding trip through the New England states, Mr. and Mrs. Buckle will reside at 1408 Staples street, Washington, D. C.

Among those from this city who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Buckle and children, John, Jane and Marion and Ruth, Patterson avenue.

Auxiliary To Meet

The Ladies Auxiliary of Henry Hart Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the Savoy building on Baltimore street.

Delegates to the national Encampment to be held the last of August in Los Angeles, Calif., will be elected.

Final preparations for the State encampment which will be held, Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Baltimore will also be made.

Vacation School

The second annual summer vacation school at St. Mary's school, Oldtown road, sponsored by the Merici Veteran Unit Catholic Students Mission Crusade and the Newman Club at St. Mary's opened yesterday and will be held daily from 9 a. m. until 12 noon. The school will close Friday, July 5, with a communion mass followed by breakfast. The group will then go to Constitution Park for a picnic.

All children who belong to St. Mary's parish and attend the public grade and high school are urged to attend these daily sessions during which time classes in religion, project work and singing are conducted. A period each day is also devoted to supervised recreation.

Rise for Visitor

It is considered unnecessary for a business man to rise every time one of the girls employed in his office comes into his private room. He should, however, rise to greet a visitor, be it a man or woman, and ask them to be seated before he himself sits down.

Not Bad Manners

It is not bad manners to ask an usher of a motion picture house to ask noisy, talkative patrons to please be quiet. It is correct to do so and other patrons will be pleased at your courage.

Only the Name

The inner envelope of the wedding invitation should bear the name of the one to whom it is sent, but not the address. The latter is only used on the outer envelope.

WIFE PRESERVERS

For home-made nut butter, put nuts through food chopper two or three times—as may be necessary—using the finest knife or nut-butter plate. When nuts are ground as fine as butter, add one tablespoon bland table oil (olive oil if you like) and one-half teaspoon salt to two cups blanched and roasted nuts.

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE BEST DO THE WORST

DO EXPERTS make the same kind of mistakes as ordinary players? Indeed they do—and how. They may not do it as often, but sometimes they do go so completely haywire that it is hard to understand how they could do so well the rest of the time. Some of their slips are so ludicrous, upon rare occasions, that it almost seems they were trying to think up the worst possible bids and plays, and using their brilliancy to devise worse ones than could be thought up by less gifted mortals.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♣

Almost everybody bid this deal to 3-No Trumps, in the duplicate where it was dealt, none of them failing to make it, and some getting overtricks. The bidding given was at the table where the two pairs considered the strongest in the competition happened to meet. Only one other pair got into the same childish contract, and they made exactly 2-Spades, whereas an almost impossibly bad play on the defense by West here enabled South to get an overtrick.

West led the singleton of his partner's diamonds. The K won, followed by the A and a ruff of the 2. The club 3 was won by the A, then the spade Q finessed. A second club to the A was followed by the 2, ruffed in the South. The spade A was laid down, then another spade settled the outstanding ones, East winning. He led back a diamond to the J. South cashed his last spade, the J, then with two cards left led his heart 8.

West saw the heart Q and club J in dummy. Can you believe it? He played his J from the heart A-J, letting dummy's Q win and, of course, the club. Even if, as he said he thought, East had the heart K, his right play was the A. So cheer up, neophytes. Any opponents you meet have their human lapses, too, as bad as your own.

If West, who bid hearts, leads the club 7, how should South play for 3-No Trumps?

Social Events and Items of Interest for the Women

Many Social Events Are Planned By Younger Set of Cumberland

The week before the Fourth of July finds the social season in the city in full swing with the younger set making things step along merrily at the lakeside resorts which daily represent a glamorous magazine cover appearance.

The Cumberland Country Club, Christie road, has been crowded with golfers, tennis players and people escaping the city heat, gathering on the porch to pass lazy hours.

This evening brings one of the outstanding events of this week's social calendar with the dance to be given at the Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Doub, Camden avenue.

The Ali Ghan Country Club, Baltimore pike, is also much in demand with luncheons and other gay affairs crowding the social calendar.

Swimming parties and picnics are also in demand with Cumberlanders flocking to Constitution Park, local country clubs, the Celanese pool, Minke's and other popular summer amusement places.

Of course on Friday evening the Junior Volunteer Service Corps expects a large crowd including a number of out-of-town people, at the American Red Cross benefit party to be given by the corps at the Jockey club.

Family Has Reunion

The Shatzer family held a reunion Sunday at Constitution Park.

Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Emory Shatzer and sons, Wallace and William and Perry Ayersman, Rowlesburg, W. Va.; Conrad Shatzer, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shatzer, Mr. and Mrs. Hazell Chambers and sons, Hazell, Jr., Aubrey, Richard and William, Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson, Jr., and son William, Mrs. Anna Hendrickson, Mrs. Ola Knippenburg, Mrs. David Wilson and son, Willys, and Mrs. Lilla Zembower and daughter, Lois.

Married in Church

W. C. Soulsby, 240 Elder street, has announced the marriage of his daughter, Sarah, to Homer F. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Berry, 205 Roberts street. The ceremony took place Friday evening in the Church of Christ, Bedford street. The Rev. J. H. Lilley officiated.

The bride had as her maid of honor Miss Pearle Shade and Walter Nycum was Mr. Berry's best man.

After a honeymoon through Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Berry will reside at 802 Bedford street. Mr. Berry is employed at the Celanese Corporation of America.

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coffman, 31 Blocker street, Ridgeley, celebrated their forty-fourth wedding anniversary Sunday and Mr. Coffman's sixty-eighth birthday. Mrs. Coffman is sixty-four. They have three sons, four daughters and eleven grandchildren.

Those attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Coffman and children, Virginia, Buddie, Lloyd and Donald, Ridgeley; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuhn and children, Dorthea, Jimmie and Jackie, Triple Lakes; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coffman and daughter Wiona, Ridgeley; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roye and Mrs. Roye's two children by her first marriage, Florence and Charles Martin, Eddie Coffman and Anna Mae Coffman, Ridgeley.

Miss Violet Hofe, Little Orleans; Miss Louise Steppe, Cumberland; Mrs. Mary Black, Baltimore; Mrs. Thomas Rice, Ridgeley.

Ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Attend Dental Meeting

Dr. Karl P. Heintz, 634 Washington street, and Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, 616 Washington street, are attending the Maryland Section of the American College of Dentists meeting this evening which will begin with a dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Baltimore Country Club, Baltimore. The speaker will be Dr. H. C. Clifton Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

Events in Brief

There will be an all-day meeting Thursday which will begin at 11 o'clock in the morning of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Western District of Baptist churches with the Ferndale Baptist church in Garrett County. Autos will leave at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Honoring Miss Martha Walker, Davidson street, a surprise and picnic supper was held Friday evening at Constitution Park. A gift was presented to the guest of honor. Games featured the evening.

Members of the Central Y. M. C. A. Ladies' Auxiliary must have their reservations for the outing to be held by the auxiliary Thursday at the South Branch in by this evening. Reservations may be made by calling the "Y". A bus will leave at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Patsy Brown entertained Saturday evening at her home, 317 Cecelia street. Patsy was eleven years old Saturday. Guests were Joan Hearbaugh, Dorothy Hammond, Jean Davis, Dorothy Stevens, Nancy Stevens, Rosemary Brown, Richard Brown, Ronnie Miller, Robert Brown, Valys Wilson and Joan Wilson.

St. John's Lutheran Sunday School picnic will be held from 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning until 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Celanese pool. Busses will leave from the church, Fourth and Arch street.

The weekly social for the benefit of the Kitzmiller missions was held last night at Allegany hospital.

The wiener roast which was to be held today by the degree order of Colfax Rebekah Lodge has been postponed.

Step High for Smooth Thigh

"The practice of keeping the abdomen flat invigorates the fibers of the mid-section."

By HELEN FOLLETT

THE THIGH SHOULD not bulge at the place of union with the hip. If it does there will be an ugly line in the silhouette. The trouble is due to localized fat.

If you are bothered by this special beauty sorrow stand erect, steady yourself by holding to the back of a chair, swing the leg in wide circles. Lift the foot as high as you can. You will be aware of a strong muscle pull from knees to hips.

Massage will reduce localized fat in course of time, but the time required is so long that many beauty seekers get discouraged. The flesh is picked up and rolled between the fingers, in a crushing movement. Afterwards, there should be a sponging with ice cold salt water.

Melt That Bulge

The thigh bulge comes to women who sit at their desks, typewriters or sewing tables all day. They don't get enough exercise to keep the muscles strong. Fibers go slack, adipose tissue builds up. Squatting exercises are helpful, so is high kicking. Walking at a brisk pace is recommended.

Correct posture is important. The practice of keeping the abdomen flat invigorates the fibers of the mid section. Tummy flat, chest high, backbone tall; that is the posture rule.

Personal daintiness calls for the use of a deodorant, not only in the summer season, but all the year long.

Perspiration in the armpits will abate if an astringent is used. These preparations come in various forms — lotions, pastes and powders. If one does not prove effective another one will.

The daily bath is required not only for the sake of cleanliness but to help the skin to function normally. The unpleasant odor appears when the chemicals in perspiration have dried upon the skin.

Matriarchy May Be the Outcome Of War Killings

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

This year's baccalaureate sermons have a grim note. No longer are boys and girls told that an admiring world is waiting for their message, and that the world is their oyster. Chaos rending Europe, like the wailing of a banshee, foretells the death of an era. What is to be the fate of these splendid young Americans?

Thank heaven those who have spoken to them at commencements do not glorify bloodshed on foreign soil, as they did in commencement addresses immediately preceding the first World war!

Mrs. Roosevelt passionately urges youth to aid democracy, saying, "Youth must show that democracy is as successful as a totalitarian state can be. Safety of democracy lies not in armaments but what you make of your citizenship."

At the Madeira School, preparatory for Wellesley, Vassar, Bryn Mawr and other women's colleges, the graduates were told:

Right To Be Free

"The issue being fought on the fields of Flanders and of France is the right of the individual to be free, and war will be unlikely just to the degree in which we are prepared. Let no one doubt the need of preparedness is urgent, so urgent that all other matters fade into insignificance beside it."

Secretary Ickes, in dedicating the Cook Dormitory at Harvard University, urged students to save the world from dislocation and destruction.

"We stand today at one of the great crossroads of history," he said: "Until now the task of education has been to prepare men to take a useful and desired place in an orderly world. Now the task of education is to build within our hearts a purpose, hard as steel, to destroy utterly the causes which result in such a catastrophe as the present, no matter what the cost. Since no dictator can feel secure, if his people possess knowledge, the treasure houses of learning are among the first objectives of the armies of conquest."

Must Be Ready

Secretary Edison, conferring degrees on 455 Naval Academy graduates, said: "Like the fleet, each of you must be ready."

Apparently, the majority of Americans are glad to send overseas everything but soldiers. If we are attacked, we shall have to fight and the fleet will be ready. But true to our peaceful tradition and the lessons gained by World war No. 1, commencement day speakers did not glorify the dying of young Americans on foreign soil.

When the European holocaust is over and the madness of the totalitarian states shall have been expended, it will be well to have a little sanity on tap. The right-about-face of the totalitarians would be amusing, if it were not so tragic. Making ready for the butchery, women were urged by dictators to go back home "where God meant them to stay," to cook and have more and more children for cannon fodder. But now our totalitarian fanatics are turning to women as the future savers of commerce and industry.

Matriarchy Seen

Dictators now insist that countries, whose women know about these things, will win the war. So "come out of the kitchen," Hedvig Nedda and Sonja. Soldiers can't fight without food and clothing. But have the dictators ever thought that killing men by the millions may result in universal matriarchy? We've had that before in prehistoric times, and we're having it at present among certain of our own Indian tribes.

In spite of being a feminist, I don't think it's a good job for men to kill each other off to such an extent that women may have to run the world. What do you think about it?

Carrying Chivalry Too Far

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I think I've met the girl who would be the one for me. We get along well together, and think a great deal of one another. I can't see her often, because I work long hours, trying to get started in my own business. Evenings I spend with my mother, who is just recovering from a breakdown. This girl doesn't know about my mother; do you think I should tell her?

Also, a supposed friend is trying to break up the affair. He's married, and I really don't care to go out with him anymore, because his wife accuses me of taking him out on dates. Ample Coverage of GOP Convention Planned by Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, June 24—Second day of the Republican national convention, including the night address of former President Herbert Hoover, will find the network microphones in action again from Philadelphia on Tuesday.

The approximate schedule for the day's sessions are 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. The networks, NBC and CBS and MBS, will transmit the sessions in whole or in part. However, regularly scheduled programs will be subject to change by convention developments.

Talk by Hoover

Mr. Hoover speaks at the 8:30 session. In addition to the broadcasts of the actual sessions, regular news and war periods also will contain convention comment, while telecasts to the New York and Philadelphia areas are to be continued, with a relay also announced for Schenectady.

The day's war schedule is to be about as follows, with possible change or addition: NBC 7 a. m., 12:45, 11 p. m.; CBS 7 a. m., 5:45 p. m., 7:55 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 12:30, 6:15, 6:45 p. m.; MBS 6:15, 8 p. m.

Massey Invited

Raymond Massey of stage and screen has been invited by Clifton Jadiman to answer at least some of the questions of his Information Please on WJZ-NBC at 7:30.

Cavalcade of America, historical dramatic series of WJZ-NBC at 8, closes another broadcast season with the story of the life of Dr. Walter Reed and his fight against yellow fever. John T. McIntire, radio actor, will have the lead.

Old Deed Turns Up To End Title Dispute

MT. VERNON, Ind., (AP)—A commission deed, lost for more than 100 years, was found recently and recorded in the county clerk's office.

Disappearance of the deed drawn and signed August 30, 1831, had caused a long standing dispute over clear title to a piece of real estate. Yellowed and tattered, the paper was discovered in a storage room for county records.

The confection of peanut brittle was discovered when a New England housewife mistakenly used soda instead of cream of tartar in making candy.

Nazis May Take Possession of French Warships

Known To Have Replaced Officers with Political Agents

LONDON, June 25 (Tuesday) (AP)—Commanding officers of French warships known to be ready to transfer their ships to Britain or to scuttle them rather than yield to Germany have been quietly replaced by "safe" officers or political agents in the last few days, David Scott, former Paris correspondent of the London New Chronicle, declared.

He said his information was "on good authority," and that "the Nazis certainly have taken care in their Armistice terms to see that the French fleet, the bulk of which joined the French British squadron at Alexandria, is not transferred to the British flag.

"They will blackmail the weak Petain government on this point," he asserted.

"The French navy may be ordered to proceed to Toulon or an Italian port to be taken over by the Italians. If this is to be prevented, we ourselves must act and act quickly.

"The rank and file of the French navy and its loyal officers are certainly ready to transfer their ships to the British navy, or to scuttle them where they lie, or to face a fight to a finish with the enemy."

Then he warned of the recent removal of French officers "known to be of this state of mind."

Double Troubles Pass --Into the Fifth Grade

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Double trouble, for Miss Elizabeth Bennett, has passed.

Fourth grade teacher at Greathouse school, Miss Bennett has had three sets of twins and "look-alike" pair of sisters in her class for the past school year. Now they're the fifth grade teacher's prospects.

Kennedy Calls for Help for British

London, June 24 (AP)—Declaring that "everything indicates England will be called upon to meet the greatest siege in the history of man," Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy urges the United States public to do its utmost in contributing to the Red Cross.

The American ambassador declared that funds "now at our disposal are pitiful in relation to anticipated needs."

"Your fervent gratitude that your children are not now at any moment liable to be killed in their beds," he said, "may well express itself in helping those who face this reality.

"We in England see tragedy close at hand. We realize no sacrifice can be too great for any of us to make to ease the people's suffering.

"In the cause of humanity I ask that you do your utmost. We cannot give too soon or give too much."

Kennedy's appeal was made by radio.

Complete Census Work

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Census director John Lennon reported seventeen West Virginia counties in which the work has been completed have shown population gains ranging from 3.7 per cent to 27.4 per cent. Only two of the completed nineteen showed decreases.

Perspiration does not ooze out of the skin—it squirts out. The average person has about 2,000,000 tiny glands which pump out the sweat in a series of little fountains.

Airfighters Need A Special Diet

LONDON, (AP)—British airfighters have given medical experts some problems to solve. One is a diet to combat the fatigue resulting from flying at great heights. Airfighters usually operate around 25,000 feet. "Blackout"—a coma induced by centrifugal force pulling the blood from a pilot's head in a steep turn—is another problem.

Corked bottles cast adrift in the Atlantic off Newfoundland in 1936 were recovered on European coasts in less than a year after traveling an airline distance of 1,800 miles. One was recovered in seven months.

Ample Coverage of GOP Convention Planned by Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, June 24—Second day of the Republican national convention, including the night address of former President Herbert Hoover, will find the network microphones in action again from Philadelphia on Tuesday.

The approximate schedule for the day's sessions are 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. The networks, NBC and CBS and MBS, will transmit the sessions in whole or in part. However, regularly scheduled programs will be subject to change by convention developments.

Talk by Hoover

Mr. Hoover speaks at the 8:30 session. In addition to the broadcasts of the actual sessions, regular news and war periods also will contain convention comment, while telecasts to the New York and Philadelphia areas are to be continued, with a relay also announced for Schenectady.

The day's war schedule is to be about as follows, with possible change or addition: NBC 7 a. m., 12:45, 11 p. m.; CBS 7 a. m., 5:45 p. m., 7:55 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 12:30, 6:15, 6:45 p. m.; MBS 6:15, 8 p. m.

Massey Invited

Raymond Massey of stage and screen has been invited by Clifton Fadiman to answer at least some of the questions of his Information Please on WJZ-NBC at 7:30.

Cavalcade of America, historical dramatic series of WJZ-NBC at 8, closes another broadcast season with the story of the life of Dr. Walter Reed and his fight against yellow fever. John T. McIntire, radio actor, will have the lead.

France Goes into Mourning as Nazi Troops Take Over

Invaders Occupy Half of Country as Cruel War Ends

By The Associated Press

BORDEAUX, June 25 (Tuesday) Vanquished France officially laid down her shattered arms today, victim of the military might of Germany abetted by Italy.

General mourning was proclaimed throughout the heart-sick republic on this saddest day in its history.

The "cease-fire" order, for which the exhausted soldiers of France had waited in the last interminable six hours of sluggish but still deadly battle, came at 12:35 a. m. French time (6:35 p. m., Monday, EST.)

France at last was at peace — an uneasy peace that found more than half her devastated soil occupied by the invaders, millions of her people homeless, untold numbers of her finest manhood dead or wounded, and her government a virtual prisoner surrounded by the victorious foe.

Enduring Peace in Doubt

A more enduring peace must await the outcome of the continuing struggle between the axis powers and Great Britain, France's erstwhile ally.

"Shame and revulsion fill the hearts of good Frenchmen," declared General Charles de Gaulle in a broadcast from London, where he formed a French national committee to continue the war.

"France and the French people are delivered to the enemy, tied hand and foot. . . France is worthy of something better than the slavery accepted by the government of Bordeaux. . . .

"Some day, I promise you, our allied forces, the best of the French army, the mechanized army, by land, by sea and by air, together with Allies, will restore liberty to the world and greatness to our country."

Day of Mourning

Recognizing the hard terms to which France has yielded after forty-six days of the German "total war" and two weeks of conflict with Italy, Minister of Interior Charles Pomaret proclaimed the day of mourning.

"Today France must be silent," he said. "Her heart will bleed, but she will forge a new hope."

The troops, so recently locked in mortal combat, are to be confined to barracks; all flags will be draped; and all stores, cafes and theaters will be closed; the government will attend special religious services.

Then France must begin the tremendous task of rebuilding and rehabilitation imposed on her by the conquerors.

The full Armistice terms will be announced approximately forty-eight hours from the official end of hostilities this morning.

In its last communique while fighting still was in progress, the French command related that the Germans were making slight progress but had reached Angouleme, 65 miles northeast of Bordeaux, and Aix-Les-Bains, resort in Savoy forty miles south of Geneva.

Italian Attacks Continue

Italian attacks in the Alps continued all day, the communique said, but made little progress except for a slight advance past Vanslebourg and the occupation of Mention on the Riviera, just inside the French border.

The end of the conflict, for France, leaves her ally, great Britain, to carry on almost alone in the war which was declared against Germany last Sept. 3 and into which Italy plunged two weeks ago.

The government expected to stay in Bordeaux until (four words censored) when it will start for an unoccupied capital in one of the departments to be left free of German troops. (Five lines censored.)

The German Armistice terms allowed the French government to move to any point within the occupied area, even to Paris, if it desires. Apparently the French chose to stay in their own straitened area, which will mean abandonment of Bordeaux, one of the cities to be within the German occupation zone.)

The cabinet's decision to sign the Armistice came late yesterday after a series of meetings presided over by President Albert LeBrun. The armistice terms were not disclosed immediately.

At its final meeting at 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. E.S.T.) the cabinet directed General Charles Huntziger, ranking envoy of the four-man French delegation meeting with the Italians near Rome, to sign the agreement.

Thus France bowed out of the picture as a belligerent after nine months and 21 days—defeated by overwhelming forces. Most of her country was overrun.

In the midst of her final capitulation, the French stoutly defended the French-German agreement against criticism of their erstwhile British Allies.

The French, pleading for an American understanding, declared they arrived at their decision to ask Hitler for an Armistice "in complete independence."

Even as the end neared, the French fought on with diminishing strength against the blows of the overpowering foe. But their strength was all but spent and the opposition they presented was mere "token" resistance.

URGES U. S. AS HAVEN

J. Roland Robinson

Member of the British parliament, J. Roland Robinson, in Washington, D. C., asks that the United States allow evacuation of millions of British children to this country. He declares the children should be removed from what may be a fight "to the last street in the last town, to the last man and woman."

166,800 from 17 to 27 Living in State

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) — Maryland has approximately 166,800 men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-seven, Maryland's national guard commander reported to Governor O'Conor today.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told the governor, who had asked for the information in connection with a survey of national defense problems in the state, that his figures did not show the percentage of men available or suitable for military service.

Of the 166,800 between the ages of seventeen and twenty-seven, he said, 129,676 were native whites, 28,488 were negroes, and 8,679 were foreign-born. As to qualification percentages, he noted that the army medical corps found seventy-two per cent of flying cadet applicants where physically unfit.

British Newspapers Warn Government

LONDON, June 25 (Tuesday) (AP) —British newspapers warned the government today against "muzzling" the press, and one paper claimed censorship had caused panic in France.

The News-Chronicle, asserting "rumors are in the air of proposals for muzzling the British press by imposing a stricter censorship or by even more drastic measures," declared that "for the sake of the nation, this must not happen."

Tight censorship in France, the News-Chronicle said, made that nation "the prey of panic and rumor."

The laborite Daily Herald called for "a vigilant Parliament and a free and fearless press."

Similar views were expressed by Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express and Lord Camrose's Daily Telegraph.

14 Men Acquitted In Conspiracy Case

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The fourteen men tried on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government or to steal government ammunition were freed today by a federal court jury.

Nine were acquitted; the others were freed either by jury disagreement or by dismissal of the charges.

The jury has deliberated since last Wednesday.

Acquitted were:

John F. Cassidy, John A. Graf, John F. Cook, Laroy Keegan, Michael Vill, Michael J. Beirne, Andrew Buckley, Francis M. J. Malone and Alfred J. Quinlan.

All except Quinlan had been tried on both charges; Quinlan only for conspiracy to steal government ammunition.

Roosevelt and Willkie Ticket Suggested

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—Carrying "Roosevelt-for-president, Willkie-for-vice-president" signs, a group which identified itself as the "Young Republicans of Maryland" and the "Baltimore Young Democrats" demonstrated in front of the Republican convention hall during a recess today.

H. A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, and his wife, were leaders of the group. The demonstration, coming at a time when the delegates were absent from the convention hall, attracted scant attention.

One of the signs said: "United we stand, Republicans and Democrats."

Boy Makes Good

MULLENS, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Townspeople throw back their shoulders and smile when you mention Lige Tatone.

Because Lige, they said, is the outstanding boy of Mullens high school.

Lige, who came to this country with his father from Italy in 1933, has received nothing but straight A's for his six years of school work. He is valedictorian of his class, and he plays football and basketball.

After classes he helps his father in the little shoe-shine and popcorn stand which the latter runs.

Lige says he's going to a college in Kentucky where he has been offered a chance to work his way.

The people here say confidently he'll be famous some day.

Roosevelt Halts Sale of Torpedo Boats to Britain

Old Neutrality Law Invoked by the President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 24 — An old neutrality law enacted during the World War was invoked by President Roosevelt today to halt the projected sale to Great Britain of twenty torpedo boats originally ordered for the Navy.

The chief executive ended negotiations, which had aroused a storm of congressional criticism, on the strength of an informal opinion by Attorney General Jackson. The Attorney General ruled that the sale would violate a 1917 act making it unlawful:

"To send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel built x x x as a vessel of war x x x with any intent or under any agreement x x that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation x x x."

No Sales to British

It was disclosed during the day, that the British had failed, too, in efforts to purchase destroyers here. Secretary Edison, in his last press conference before leaving the navy department to run for Governor of New Jersey, said "pressure" had been brought on the navy to sell 111 World War destroyers, but that none was sold.

"We are keeping all our combatant vessels," Edison added.

Mr. Roosevelt, just back from a week end at Hyde Park, N. Y., called in Gen. George Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, for a forenoon conference.

There was no announcement afterward but it was presumed that they canvassed the whole defense situation in the light of European developments and the mass of legislation sent to the White House by Congress at Saturday's session.

New Locks for Canal

The first measure to be signed was the War Department Civil functions bill which, among other things, provided $15,000,000 in cash and $99,000,000 in contract authorizations to begin construction of a third set of locks for the Panama Canal.

Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, assistant chief of staff, has said that the additional locks would reduce bombing and sabotage hazards at the canal "by at least fifty percent."

It was indicated that most of the other measures would not be signed for a day or two as Mr. Roosevelt sent them to affected departments for study.

One of these bills would permit the navy to negotiate contracts without competitive bidding. Edison said the navy was ready to let contracts for 68 additional vessels to cost $750,000,000 as soon as this bill was signed. He added that the negotiated contracts would result in a $23,000,000 saving.

Three Aircraft Carriers

The sixty-eight ships will include three aircraft carriers, four heavy and nine light cruisers, thirty destroyers and twenty-two submarines. These will be in addition to twenty-three new ships costing $350,000,000 for which contracts recently were let.

A further $4,000,000,000 naval expansion measure is pending in the Senate following sudden passage by the House on Saturday. Senator Holt (D-WVA) remarked today that the French peace terms as reported from London should cause speedy Senate action.

"There's not much opposition to defense expenditures, even among isolationists," he said.

Holt and Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) expressed gratification at cancellation of the "mosquito boat" sale.

"Some of us who are not even lawyers knew about that law," Holt observed. "It's a good thing that he had it looked up."

The boats were built by the Electric Boat Company of Groton, Conn., for the United States Navy. Under the proposed arrangements, the company would have retained them for sale to Britain and constructed improved vessels of a different type for this country.

Tax Collector's Term Continued for Year

An extension of a year for the collection of outstanding state and county taxes yesterday was granted to James Park, collector for the Third Collection District, by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Park, who has been state and county collector for the last four years, will continue in office one year as from April 16, 1940, to April 16, 1941. The extension is to allow him an opportunity to collect outstanding delinquent taxes as prescribed by Article 81, of the Code of Public laws.

Notice of the extension has been forwarded to J. Millard Tawes, comptroller, by the Court.

Baltimore Gains Around 49,000

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP)—Baltimore's population is now 854,144, an increase of roughly 49,000 over the city's 804,878 residents in 1930, William A. Dodd, district census supervisor said tonight.

Dodd, who said the figure had been approved in Washington, emphasized that "this is a preliminary announcement and the figure is subject to correction."

Victorious Italy Concludes Peace With the French

Lays Down Arms Just Two Weeks after Taking Them Up

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 24 — Italy triumphantly ended her war with beaten France today—just two weeks after Premier Benito Mussolini plunged into the European conflict on the side of his powerful axis partner, Adolf Hitler.

The Armistice terms of which were not made public at once, was signed at 7:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m., est), fifteen minutes under a full day after they were presented to the four French delegates who on Saturday had agreed to Hitler's terms in Compiegne forest, France.

(At Bordeaux tonight the French government announced the Armistice terms would be made public about forty-eight hours after the fighting ceases.)

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and Mussolini's son-in-law, informed the German government of the signing twenty minutes later. As a consequence hostilities were to cease at 1:35 a. m., Tuesday (6:35 p. m., EST, Monday), in accordance with the provision of the German-French terms that firing cease six hours after their notification of the conclusion of the Italo-French armistice.

Mussolini Not Present

Mussolini, who only fourteen days ago stood on a balcony of his Palazzo Venezia to tell his nation that "we have decided to take the risks and sacrifices of war," was not present when the Armistice was signed in the 17th century villa inchesa, twelve miles from Rome.

Presumably he had not even seen the four French delegates at any time since they arrived by German plane from Munich yesterday afternoon to open the negotiations. The terms were presented yesterday in twenty minutes, and discussions lasted nearly four hours today in a large salon on the ground floor of the villa.

In the end General Charles Huntziger, leader of the French delegation, and Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, signed the documents.

The discussions had been carried on in French around a long table. During this time automobiles arrived and departed, carrying naval officers from Rome and others who presumably were called into consultation or were the bearers of messages.

Leaves Britain Alone

Italy's conclusion of her war with France leaves Britain to fight alone against the axis powers.

The French, having agreed on the German terms to surrender and internment of her fleet, demobilization and disarmament of the French army and Nazi occupation of more than half of France, were prepared for harsh treatment from Italy.

Since Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, concluded in 1936, the Fascist press and public proclaimed Italian rights to Nice, Savoy, Corsica, Malta, Tunisia, Jibuti and the Suez Canal.

"We are taking up arms," cried Mussolini on June 10 when he announced the declaration of war, "after having solved the problem of our continental frontiers, to solve our maritime frontiers.

"We want to break the territorial and military chains which confine us in our sea, since a people of 45,000,000 souls is not truly free if it has not free access to the ocean."

Oldest Merchant Finally Retires

Summersville, W. Va., June 24 (AP) —J. Austin Mearns, retiring at eighty-six after sixty-five years behind the counters lays claim to being the oldest merchant in point of service in the United States.

At twenty-one, in 1874, he began driving a team in hauling goods from Kanawha Falls to Summersville. Three years later he became a clerk, at $25 a month. Two years after that he bought the store on the installment plan.

A little strict economy, close attention to business and a bit of horse trading on the side, and Mearns paid off sooner than he expected and started expanding.

But there were times when all was not so good. Once he put in a grocery line because his customers insisted on trading their eggs and potatoes for clothes.

Mearns declared retirement has its disadvantage. It is the recollections. He pointed out a man entering the store: "He, is of the fourth generation of my customers," said the merchant. "His great-grandfather started trading with me in '75."

Allegany Farm Women Make Best Showing At Short Course

Allegany county's record-breaking delegation cut a wide swath of the annual Rural Women's Short Course held at the University of Maryland last week.

The county delegation of 115 women headed by Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, greatly outnumbered all other Maryland delegations. Next highest enrollment for a county group was forty-five persons, it was reported yesterday.

Miss Bean also reported that visitors from Allegany county were numerous during the week. A whole busload of Homemakers from Eckhart arrived for Visitor's Day last Thursday, along with several other carloads of people.

Allegany county won the honor of bringing home the new state presidet for the Rural Women's Short Course, Mrs. W. L. Maddocks, of Cumberland, Route 5.

Out of eighty-two graduates of the course, Allegany county had eleven, Miss Bean said. They were: Miss Mary M. Brengle, Mrs. Anna Byers, Mrs. C. L. Grosh, Mrs. Leslie E. Hinkle, Mrs. Claude T. Jett, Mrs. William B. Lee, Mrs. Wesley C. Light, Mrs. Raymond J. Minke, Mrs. Mathilda Neder, Mrs. Dan Nolan and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

An address by Mrs. Wade Hampton, educator and lecturer from Washington, D. C., was cited by Miss Bean as one of the outstanding events of the course.

Mrs. Hampton, who lived in Germany for some time, described conditions there.

Miss Bean said that delegates from Allegany county would give thorough reports on the course to their various organizations.

Frostburg Prisoner To Get Hearing

Joseph Madisky, of Frostburg, sentenced to the House of Correction for one year at the April term writ of habeas corpus for a hearing July 1 by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan.

Madisky had been given a suspended sentence of one year at the January term of court on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Frank Felker with intent to kill.

He was arrested for breaking his parole on April 12 when it was charged by the state's attorney's office that he was drunk and disorderly at the home of Fred Entler, in Frostburg.

Homemakers Council To Meet at Camp

The county executive council of Homemakers clubs will meet Tuesday, July 2, at 10:30 a. m. at 4-H Camp Algawa, Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, announced yesterday.

The camp is located in the Pleasant Valley Recreation area near Bittinger, Garrett county.

Club members are invited to the camp on July 1 and may remain until Tuesday evening July 2. Members of the council have been instructed to bring picnic lunches for Tuesday.

Let Land Use Committees Sponsor Flood Control, U .S. Agencies Propose

HAGERSTOWN, June 24 (AP) — Federal agencies and foresters advocated today a flood control program be sponsored by land use planning committees in each county of the Potomac watershed.

About twenty-five attended the flood control meeting here including county agents, soil erosion officials, land usep lanning representatives and foresters.

The meeting took up especially additional ways to control floods aside from dam projects.

E. M. Davis, of College park, Md., state coordinator of the Conservation Service, at the afternoon session outlined measures his service is doing to control erosion on farm lands and pointed out methods which hold back water and allow it to soak into the ground, greatly aiding flooc control work and also making better crop production.

All present joined in a discussion, led by Dr. L. S. Dodson, of the Maryland Extension Service, on ways to speed up erosion and flood control activities on farms. Among county agents who spoke were Henry Shoemaker, Frederick county; Milt D. Moore, Washington county; and L. C. Burns, Carroll county.

A. L. Richey, project leader, said the flood control survey, begun about a year ago, would probably be completed in February, 1941. It consists of making a study of all flood control possibilities and studying the seriousness of conditions. Specific recommendations will be presented to land use planning committees in thev arious counties of the Potomac watershed.

The discussion brought out suggestions for farmers aid in flood control.

The meeting was called to order in the morning by James W. Coddington, state representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The purpose of the conference was explained by E. I. Oswald, assistant director of the Maryland Extension Service.

Elgin Urges Sanity On July Fourth

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) —Motor Vehicle Commissioner W. Lee Elgin called on Marylanders today to take the "simple precautions" necessary to avoid making July Fourth a "jamboree of carelessness."

Urging drivers to exercise especial care in the holiday traffic, Elgin noted that the national highway death toll last July was 8,800 for the month, with a heavy percentage of fatalities on the Fourth.

"Over the past five years, July's accidents have been twenty-two per cent higher in fatalities than the average month," he said. "Each year, America chooses the Fourth of July to stage a jamboree of carelessness, to change a holiday into a horror day. . .

"Use caution, common sense, and control to make the Fourth a day of fun, and do away with the fifth—the day of reckoning."

Soldier Charged with Death of Woman

FERNDALE, Md., June 24 (AP) — A Fort Meade soldier was held without bond on a homicide charge today after he told Magistrate John Demyan, Jr., details of a suicide pact which cost the life of Mrs. Ella Carroll, of Washington.

The prisoner, Pvt. George F. Williams, 39, testified he and Mrs. Carroll, mother of three children, had been going together thirteen years and "we were both tired of living."

He said he hitched a hose to the exhaust of his automobile in a secluded spot off the old Laurel road two miles from Fort Meade, ran the hose into the machine, shut the windows, started the engine, then sat with Mrs. Carroll and waited.

Williams said he lost consciousness but woke up later. Mrs. Carroll was dead, he testified. He walked to Fort Meade and reported the matter to the commanding officers, who called Anne Arundel county police.

Mrs. Carroll was separated from her husband.

Bordeaux Dispatch Delayed a Week

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Evidence of the difficulties besetting Americans seeking to communicate with France is contained in a dispatch from Bordeaux to the Associated Press here, which took a full week in transit.

The delay occurred despite the fact the message was sent "urgent press," an extra-charge service designed for great speed.

In this case no particular harm was done, since Associated Press men in Europe duplicate highly important matters by several different channels, and another channel was open at the time.

A sign of returning communications normalcy in German-occupied territory came yesterday with announcement by RCA communcations, Inc., here that wireless messages for Holland now can be handled by way of Berlin. This service was disrupted May 14.

Guard Discharged for Offensive Remarks

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP)—Asserting "there is a definite limitation on the speech and conduct of any state employe charged with the custody of criminals," State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones today discharged Joseph A. Pietroff, suspended House of Correction guard.

Jones sustained a charge that the state employe had been "wantonly offensive in his conduct toward fellow employes."

Joseph M. Parvis, Jr., and George Fielder, two other guards, testified at a recent hearing that during an automobile ride to Jessups May 20 Pietroff had said if America went to war he would "sabotage plenty."

Jones held every American citizen had the right to express his individual opinion but declared that state officials and employes charged with law enforcement were limited in their speech and conduct.

Canadian Taxes Sharply Higher

OTTAWA, June 24 (AP)—Drastic increases in income taxes reaching virtually every wage earner, taxes ranging up to 80 per cent on automobiles and several new levies were disclosed today in the wartime budget put before the House of Commons by Canadian Finance Minister J. L. Ralston.

Income rates were increased so sharply that a married man with no defendants paying $35 on a salary of $3,000 under present rates will now pay $195.

The new tax on automobiles, starting at ten per cent on the manufacturers' value up to $700 and increasing to eighty per cent in excess of $1,200, was designed virtually to prohibit the purchase of high-priced cars and thus conserve foreign exchange.

The budget, proposed for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1941, will be debated in Parliament shortly.

Ralston estimated receipts from the new taxes for the year would be $110,000,000, bringing the years revenue to $760,000,000. Total expenditures, however, were estimated at $1,148,000,000. The minister said that in view of various commitments for war purposes, the over-all deficit for the year might be about $600,000,000.

The over-all deficit for the fiscal year ending last March 31 was $118,000,000, the exact amount of war expenditures for the period. Total revenues were $562,000,000, an all-time Canadian high.

Jews Barred from All Offices in Rumania

BUCHAREST, June 24, (AP) — Rumania's 1,000,000 Jews automatically lose the right to hold public office, to serve as heads of private industries and in professional organizations under a new decree published today.

When King Carol's new Nazi-patterned totalitarian party was formed last week a Royal decree was issued limiting all such posts to party members. Today's decree went further and forbids all Jews from joining the party, although other minorities will be admitted in special categories.

France Goes into Mourning as Nazi Troops Take Over

Invaders Occupy Half of Country as Cruel War Ends

By The Associated Press

BORDEAUX, June 25 (Tuesday) Vanquished France officially laid down her shattered arms today, victim of the military might of Germany abetted by Italy.

General mourning was proclaimed throughout the heart-sick republic on this saddest day in its history.

The "cease-fire" order, for which the exhausted soldiers of France had waited in the last interminable six hours of sluggish but still deadly battle, came at 12:35 a. m. French time (6:35 p. m., Monday, EST.)

France at last was at peace — an uneasy peace that found more than half her devastated soil occupied by the invaders, millions of her people homeless, untold numbers of her finest manhood dead or wounded, and her government a virtual prisoner surrounded by the victorious foe.

Enduring Peace in Doubt

A more enduring peace must await the outcome of the continuing struggle between the axis powers and Great Britain, France's erstwhile ally.

("Shame and revulsion fill the hearts of good Frenchmen," declared General Charles de Gaulle in a broadcast from London, where he formed a French national committee to continue the war.

("France and the French people are delivered to the enemy, tied hand and foot. . . France is worthy of something better than the slavery accepted by the government of Bordeaux.

("Some day, I promise you, our allied forces, the best of the French army, the mechanized army, by land, by sea and by air, together with Allies, will restore liberty to the world and greatness to our country.")

Day of Mourning

"Recognizing the hard terms to which France has yielded after forty-six days of the German "total war" and two weeks of conflict with Italy, Minister of Interior Charles Pomaret proclaimed the day of mourning.

"Today France must be silent," he said. "Her heart will bleed, but she will forge a new hope."

The troops, so recently locked in mortal combat, are to be confined to barracks; all flags will be draped; and all stores, cafes and theaters will be closed; the government will attend special religious services.

Then France must begin the tremendous task of rebuilding and rehabilitation imposed on her by the conquerors.

The full Armistice terms will be announced approximately forty-eight hours from the official end of hostilities this morning.

In its last communique while fighting still was in progress, the French command related that the Germans were making slight progress but had reached Angouleme, 65 miles northeast of Bordeaux, and Aix-Les-Bains, resort in Savoy forty miles south of Geneva.

Italian Attacks Continue

Italian attacks in the Alps continued all day, the communique said, but made little progress except for a slight advance past Vanslebourg and the occupation of Mention on the Riviera, just inside the French border.

The end of the conflict, for France, leaves her ally, great Britain, to carry on almost alone in the war which was declared against Germany last Sept. 3 and into which Italy plunged two weeks ago.

The government expected to stay in Bordeaux until (four words censored) when it will start for an unoccupied capital in one of the departments to be left free of German troops. (Five lines censored.)

(The German Armistice terms allowed the French government to move to any point within the occupied area, even to Paris, if it desires. Apparently the French chose to stay in their own straitened area, which will mean abandonment of Bordeaux, one of the cities to be within the German occupation zone.)

The cabinet's decision to sign the Armistice came late yesterday after a series of meetings presided over by President Albert LeBrun. The Armistice terms were not disclosed immediately.

At its final meeting at 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. E.S.T.) the cabinet directed General Charles Huntziger, ranking envoy of the four-man French delegation meeting with the Italians near Rome, to sign the agreement.

Thus France bowed out of the picture as a belligerent after nine months and 21 days—defeated by overwhelming forces. Most of her country was overrun.

In the midst of her final capitulation, the French stoutly defended the French-German agreement against criticism of their erstwhile British Allies.

The French, pleading for an American understanding, declared they arrived at their decision to ask Hitler for an Armistice "in complete independence."

Even as the end neared, the French fought on with diminishing strength against the blows of the overpowering foe. But their strength was all but spent and the opposition they presented was mere "token" resistance.

URGES U. S. AS HAVEN

J. Roland Robinson

Member of the British parliament, J. Roland Robinson, in Washington, D. C., asks that the United States allow evacuation of millions of British children to this country. He declares the children should be removed from what may be a fight "to the last street in the last town, to the last man and woman."

166,800 from 17 to 27 Living in State

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) — Maryland has approximately 166,800 men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-seven, Maryland's national guard commander reported to Governor O'Conor today.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told the governor, who had asked for the information in connection with a survey of national defense problems in the state, that his figures did not show the percentage of men available or suitable for military service.

Of the 166,800 between the ages of seventeen and twenty-seven, he said, 129,676 were native whites, 28,488 were negroes and 8,679 were foreign-born. As to qualification percentages, he noted that the army medical corps found seventy-two per cent of flying cadet applicants where physically unfit.

British Newspapers Warn Government

LONDON, June 25 (Tuesday) (AP) —British newspapers warned the government today against "muzzling" the press, and one paper claimed censorship had caused panic in France.

The News-Chronicle, asserting "rumors are in the air of proposals for muzzling the British press by imposing a stricter censorship or by even more drastic measures," declared that "for the sake of the nation, this must not happen."

Tight censorship in France, the News-Chronicle said, made that nation "the prey of panic and rumor."

The laborite Daily Herald called for "a vigilant Parliament and a free and fearless press."

14 Men Acquitted In Conspiracy Case

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—The fourteen men tried on charges of conspiracy to overthrow the government or to steal government ammunition were freed today by a federal court jury.

Nine were acquitted; the others were freed either by jury disagreement or by dismissal of the charges.

The jury has deliberated since last Wednesday.

Acquitted were:

John F. Cassidy, John A. Graf, John F. Cook, Laroy Keegan, Michael Vill, Michael J. Beirne, Andrew Buckley, Francis M. J. Malone and Alfred J. Quinlan.

All except Quinlan had been tried on both charges; Quinlan only for conspiracy to steal government ammunition.

Roosevelt and Willkie Ticket Suggested

PHILADELPHIA, June 24. (AP)—Carrying "Roosevelt-for-president, Willkie-for-vice-president" signs, a group which identified itself as the "Young Republicans of Maryland" and the "Baltimore Young Democrats" demonstrated in front of the Republican convention hall during a recess today.

H. A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney, and his wife, were leaders of the group. The demonstration, coming at a time when the delegates were absent from the convention hall, attracted scant attention.

One of the signs said: "United we stand, Republicans and Democrats."

Boy Makes Good

MULLENS, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Townspeople throw back their shoulders and smile when you mention Lige Tatone.

Because Lige, they said, is the outstanding boy of Mullens high school.

Lige, who came to this country with his father from Italy in 1933, has received nothing but straight A's for his six years of school work. He is valedictorian of his class, and he plays football and basketball.

After classes he helps his father in the little shoe-shine and popcorn stand which the latter runs.

Lige says he's going to a college in Kentucky where he has been offered a chance to work his way.

The people here say confidently he'll be famous some day.

Roosevelt Halts Sale of Torpedo Boats to Britain

Old Neutrality Law Invoked by the President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 24 — An old neutrality law enacted during the World War was invoked by President Roosevelt today to halt the projected sale to Great Britain of twenty torpedo boats originally ordered for the Navy.

The chief executive ended negotiations, which had aroused a storm of congressional criticism, on the strength of an informal opinion by Attorney General Jackson. The Attorney General ruled that the sale would violate a 1917 act making it unlawful:

"To send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel built x x x as a vessel of war x x x with any intent or under any agreement x x that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation x x x."

No Sales to British

It was disclosed during the day, that the British had failed, too, in efforts to purchase destroyers here. Secretary Edison, in his last press conference before leaving the navy department to run for Governor of New Jersey, said "pressure" had been brought on the navy to sell 111 World War destroyers, but that none was sold.

"We are keeping all our combatant vessels," Edison added.

Mr. Roosevelt, just back from a week end at Hyde Park, N. Y., called in Gen. George Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, for a forenoon conference.

There was no announcement afterward but it was presumed that they canvassed the whole defense situation in the light of European developments and the mass of legislation sent to the White House by Congress at Saturday's session.

New Locks for Canal

The first measure to be signed was the War Department Civil functions bill which, among other things, provided $15,000,000 in cash and $99,000,000 in contract authorizations to begin construction of a third set of locks for the Panama Canal.

Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, assistant chief of staff, has said that the additional locks would reduce bombing and sabotage hazards at the canal "by at least fifty percent."

It was indicated that most of the other measures would not be signed for a day or two as Mr. Roosevelt sent them to affected departments for study.

One of these bills would permit the navy to negotiate contracts without competitive bidding. Edison said the navy was ready to let contracts for 68 additional vessels to cost $750,000,000 as soon as this bill was signed. He added that the negotiated contracts would result in a $23,000,000 saving.

Three Aircraft Carriers

The sixty-eight ships will include three aircraft carriers, four heavy and nine light cruisers, thirty destroyers and twenty-two submarines. These will be in addition to twenty-three new ships costing $350,000,000 for which contracts recently were let.

A further $4,000,000,000 naval expansion measure is pending in the Senate following sudden passage by the House on Saturday. Senator Holt (D-WVA) remarked today that the French peace terms as reported from London should cause speedy Senate action.

"There's not much opposition to defense expenditures, even among isolationists," he said.

Holt and Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) expressed gratification at cancellation of the "mosquito boat" sale.

"Some of us who are not even lawyers knew about that law," Holt observed. "It's a good thing that he had it looked up."

The boats were built by the Electric Boat Company of Groton, Conn., for the United States Navy. Under the proposed arrangements, the company would have retained them for sale to Britain and constructed improved vessels of a different type for this country.

Tax Collector's Term Continued for Year

An extension of a year for the collection of outstanding state and county taxes yesterday was granted to James Park, collector for the Third Collection District, by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Park, who has been state and county collector for the last four years, will continue in office one year as from April 16, 1940, to April 16, 1941. The extension is to allow him an opportunity to collect outstanding delinquent taxes as prescribed by Article 81, of the Code of Public laws.

Notice of the extension has been forwarded to J. Millard Tawes, comptroller, by the Court.

Baltimore Gains Around 49,000

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP)—Baltimore's population is now 854,144, an increase of roughly 49,000 over the city's 804,878 residents in 1930, William A. Dodd, district census supervisor said tonight.

Dodd, who said the figure had been approved in Washington, emphasized that "this is a preliminary announcement and the figure is subject to correction."

Victorious Italy Concludes Peace With the French

Lays Down Arms Just Two Weeks after Taking Them Up

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 24 — Italy triumphantly ended her war with beaten France today—just two weeks after Premier Benito Mussolini plunged into the European conflict on the side of his powerful axis partner, Adolf Hitler.

The Armistice, terms of which were not made public at once, was signed at 7:15 p. m. (12:15 p. m., est), fifteen minutes under a full day after they were presented to the four French delegates who on Saturday had agreed to Hitler's terms in Compiegne forest, France.

(At Bordeaux tonight the French government announced the Armistice terms would be made public about forty-eight hours after the fighting ceases.)

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and Mussolini's son-in-law, informed the German government of the signing twenty minutes later. As a consequence hostilities were to cease at 1:35 a. m., Tuesday (6:35 p. m., EST, Monday), in accordance with the provision of the German-French terms that firing cease six hours after their notification of the conclusion of the Italo-French armistice.

Mussolini Not Present

Mussolini, who only fourteen days ago stood on a balcony of his Palazzo Venezia to tell his nation that "we have decided to take the risks and sacrifices of war," was not present when the Armistice was signed in the 17th century villa inchesa, twelve miles from Rome.

Presumably he had not even seen the four French delegates at any time since they arrived by German plane from Munich yesterday afternoon to open the negotiations. The terms were presented yesterday in twenty minutes, and discussions lasted nearly four hours today in a large salon on the ground floor of the villa.

In the end General Charles Huntziger, leader of the French delegation, and Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, signed the documents.

The discussions had been carried on in French around a long table. During this time automobiles arrived and departed, carrying naval officers from Rome and others who presumably were called into consultation or were the bearers of messages.

Leaves Britain Alone

Italy's conclusion of her war with France leaves Britain to fight alone against the axis powers.

The French, having agreed on the German terms to surrender and internment of her fleet, demobilization and disarmament of the French army and Nazi occupation of more than half of France, were prepared for harsh treatment from Italy.

Since Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, concluded in 1936, the Fascist press and public proclaimed Italian rights to Nice, Savoy, Corsica, Malta, Tunisia, Jibuti and the Suez Canal.

"We are taking up arms," cried Mussolini on June 10 when he announced the declaration of war, "after having solved the problem of our continental frontiers, to solve our maritime frontiers.

"We want to break the territorial and military chains which confine us in our sea, since a people of 45,000,000 souls is not truly free if it has not free access to the ocean."

Oldest Merchant Finally Retires

Summersville, W. Va., June 24 (AP) —J. Austin Mearns, retiring at eighty-six after sixty-five years behind the counters lays claim to being the oldest merchant in point of service in the United States.

At twenty-one, in 1874, he began driving a team in hauling goods from Kanawha Falls to Summersville. Three years later he became a clerk, at $25 a month. Two years after that he bought the store on the installment plan.

A little strict economy, close attention to business and a bit of horse trading on the side, and Mearns paid off sooner than he expected and started expanding.

But there were times when all was not so good. Once he put in a grocery line because his customers insisted on trading their eggs and potatoes for clothes.

Mearns declared retirement has its disadvantage. It is the recollections. He pointed out a man entering the store: "He, is of the fourth generation of my customers," said the merchant. "His great-grandfather started trading with me in '75."

Allegany Farm Women Make Best Showing At Short Course

Allegany county's record-breaking delegation cut a wide swath of the annual Rural Women's Short Course held at the University of Maryland last week.

The county delegation of 115 women headed by Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, greatly outnumbered all other Maryland delegations. Next highest enrollment for a county group was forty-five persons, it was reported yesterday.

Miss Bean also reported that visitors from Allegany county were numerous during the week. A whole busload of Homemakers from Eckhart arrived for Visitor's Day last Thursday, along with several other carloads of people.

Allegany county won the honor of bringing home the new state president for the Rural Women's Short Course, Mrs. W. L. Maddocks, of Cumberland, Route 5.

Out of eighty-two graduates of the course, Allegany county had eleven, Miss Bean said. They were: Miss Mary M. Brengle, Mrs. Anna Byers, Mrs. C. L. Grosh, Mrs. Leslie E. Hinkle, Mrs. Claude T. Jett, Mrs. William B. Lee, Mrs. Wesley C. Light, Mrs. Raymond J. Minke, Mrs. Mathilda Neder, Mrs. Dan Nolan and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

An address by Mrs. Wade Hampton, educator and lecturer from Washington, D. C., was cited by Miss Bean as one of the outstanding events of the course.

Mrs. Hampton, who lived in Germany for some time, described conditions there.

Frostburg Prisoner To Get Hearing

Joseph Madisky, of Frostburg, sentenced to the House of Correction for one year at the April term writ of habeas corpus for a hearing July 1 by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan.

Madisky had been given a suspended sentence of one year at the January term of court on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Frank Felker with intent to kill.

He was arrested for breaking his parole on April 12 when it was charged by the state's attorney's office that he was drunk and disorderly at the home of Fred Entler, in Frostburg.

Homemakers Council To Meet at Camp

The county executive council of Homemakers clubs will meet Tuesday, July 2, at 10:30 a. m. at 4-H Camp Algawa, Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent, announced yesterday.

The camp is located in the Pleasant Valley Recreation area near Bittinger, Garrett county.

Club members are invited to the camp on July 1 and may remain until Tuesday evening July 2. Members of the council have been instructed to bring picnic lunches for Tuesday.

Let Land Use Committees Sponsor Flood Control, U .S. Agencies Propose

HAGERSTOWN, June 24 (AP) — Federal agencies and foresters advocated today a flood control program be sponsored by land use planning committees in each county of the Potomac watershed.

About twenty-five attended the flood control meeting here including county agents, soil erosion officials, land usep lanning representatives and foresters.

The meeting took up especially additional ways to control floods aside from dam projects.

E. M. Davis, of College park, Md., state coordinator of the Conservation Service, at the afternoon session outlined measures his service is doing to control erosion on farm lands and pointed out methods which hold back water and allow it to soak into the ground, greatly aiding flood control work and also making better crop production.

All present joined in a discussion, led by Dr. L. S. Dodson, of the Maryland Extension Service, on ways to speed up erosion and flood control activities on farms. Among county agents who spoke were Henry Shoemaker, Frederick county; Milt D. Moore, Washington county; and L. C. Burns, Carroll county.

A. L. Richey, project leader, said the flood control survey, begun about a year ago, would probably be completed in February, 1941. It consists of making a study of all flood control possibilities and studying the seriousness of conditions. Specific recommendations will be presented to land use planning committees in thev arious counties of the Potomac watershed.

The discussion brought out suggestions for farmers aid in flood control.

The meeting was called to order in the morning by James W. Coddington, state representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The purpose of the conference was explained by E. I. Oswald, assistant director of the Maryland Extension Service.

Elgin Urges Sanity On July Fourth

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) —Motor Vehicle Commissioner W. Lee Elgin called on Marylanders today to take the "simple precautions" necessary to avoid making July Fourth a "jamboree of carelessness."

Urging drivers to exercise especial care in the holiday traffic, Elgin noted that the national highway death toll last July was 8,800 for the month, with a heavy percentage of fatalities on the Fourth.

"Over the past five years, July's accidents have been twenty-two per cent higher in fatalities than the average month," he said. "Each year, America chooses the Fourth of July to stage a jamboree of carelessness, to change a holiday into a horror day. . .

"Use caution, common sense, and control to make the Fourth a day of fun, and do away with the fifth—the day of reckoning."

Soldier Charged with Death of Woman

FERNDALE, Md., June 24 (AP) — A Fort Meade soldier was held without bond on a homicide charge today after he told Magistrate John Demyan, Jr., details of a suicide pact which cost the life of Mrs. Ella Carroll, of Washington.

The prisoner, Pvt. George F. Williams, 39 testified he and Mrs. Carroll, mother of three children, had been going together thirteen years and "we were both tired of living."

He said he hitched a hose to the exhaust of his automobile in a secluded spot off the old Laurel road two miles from Fort Meade, ran the hose into the machine, shut the windows, started the engine, then sat with Mrs. Carroll and waited.

Williams said he lost consciousness but woke up later. Mrs. Carroll was dead, he testified. He walked to Fort Meade and reported the matter to the commanding officers, who called Anne Arundel county police.

Mrs. Carroll was separated from her husband.

Bordeaux Dispatch Delayed a Week

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Evidence of the difficulties besetting Americans seeking to communicate with France is contained in a dispatch from Bordeaux to the Associated Press here, which took a full week in transit.

The delay occurred despite the fact the message was sent "urgent press," an extra-charge service designed for great speed.

In this case no particular harm was done, since Associated Press men in Europe duplicate highly important matters by several different channels, and another channel was open at the time.

A sign of returning communications normalcy in German-occupied territory came yesterday with announcement by RCA communcations, Inc., here that wireless messages for Holland now can be handled by way of Berlin. This service was disrupted May 14.

Guard Discharged for Offensive Remarks

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP)—Asserting "there is a definite limitation on the speech and conduct of any state employe charged with the custody of criminals," State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones today discharged Joseph A. Pietroff, suspended House of Correction guard.

Jones sustained a charge that the state employe had been "wantonly offensive in his conduct toward fellow employes."

Joseph M. Parvis, Jr., and George Fielder, two other guards, testified at a recent hearing that during an automobile ride to Jessups May 20 Pietroff had said if America went to war he would "sabotage plenty."

Jones held every American citizen had the right to express his individual opinion but declared that state officials and employes charged with law enforcement were limited in their speech and conduct.

Canadian Taxes Sharply Higher

OTTAWA, June 24 (AP)—Drastic increases in income taxes reaching virtually every wage earner, taxes ranging up to 80 per cent on automobiles and several new levies were disclosed today in the wartime budget put before the House of Commons by Canadian Finance Minister J. L. Ralston.

Income rates were increased so sharply that a married man with no defendants paying $35 on a salary of $3,000 under present rates will now pay $195.

The new tax on automobiles, starting at ten per cent on the manufacturers' value up to $700 and increasing to eighty per cent in excess of $1,200, was designed virtually to prohibit the purchase of high-priced cars and thus conserve foreign exchange.

The budget, proposed for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1941, will be debated in Parliament shortly.

Ralston estimated receipts from the new taxes for the year would be $110,000,000, bringing the years revenue to $760,000,000. Total expenditures, however, were estimated at $1,148,000,000. The minister said that in view of various commitments for war purposes, the overall deficit for the year might be about $600,000,000.

The over-all deficit for the fiscal year ending last March 31 was $118,000,000, the exact amount of war expenditures for the period. Total revenues were $562,000,000, an all-time Canadian high.

Jews Barred from All Offices in Rumania

BUCHAREST, June 24, (AP) — Rumania's 1,000,000 Jews automatically lose the right to hold public office, to serve as heads of private industries and in professional organizations under a new decree published today.

When King Carol's new Nazi-patterned totalitarian party was formed last week a Royal decree was issued limiting all such posts to party members. Today's decree went further and forbids all Jews from joining the party, although other minorities will be admitted in special categories.

Thin Man Will Fatten If He Eats Properly

Physician Recommends Diet for Persons Who Are Underweight

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Every time I publish a list of diets for overweight, which I do about once a year, I get a long list of complaints, the burden of which is "You're talking about the overweights. Why don't you do something for us underweights, those of us who are thin and can't seem to fatten up?"

There are really almost as many of them as there are of the overweights, although they are not so conspicuous, so I am going to publish some advice and a list of diets for underweights during the next few weeks.

One thing the underweight patient does not seem to realize is that it takes just as much work and self-denial to gain weight as it does to lose it. The overweight patient knows that it is going to be hard on him and is prepared to make some sacrifices, but the underweight patient seems to think that he can take some vitamin tablets or some other mysterious kind of magic and he will begin to gain weight automatically. This is not true. He has to work for his advantages.

Do You Eat Enough?

As in the case of the overweight patient, there are two distinct kinds of underweights. In the smaller group are those who have some organic or physiological cause for their underweight. These may be hidden or difficult of assessment. Of course the conspicuous one is tuberculosis. Cases of diabetes may go unrecognized for a long time and be a cause of underweight. Conditions of the ductless glands, such as Simmond's Disease, and adrenal insufficiency, may cause abnormal thinness; also certain nervous conditions, or asthenia.

In most instances, however, underweight is due to the fact that the individual does not eat enough, just as overweight is largely due to too much eating. It is really very simple. I have several doctor friends who are interested in nutrition and several of them are quite thin. With once accord they say that their leanness is no mystery; that they simply do not like to eat and they look on me, and people like me, with fine appetites, with a kind of envy. They estimate that they instinctively eat about one-third as much as another person of the same age and height.

Sample Diet

Three days a week, for a time, we will publish in this column a daily menu of a diet planned to increase weight. They contain at least 3500 calories per diem. They are balanced as to minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

Breakfast: Cantaloupe; wheatena with cream; bread and butter; glass milk, ½ cream.

Mid-morning: Chocolate malted milk.

Mid-afternoon: Glass of eggnog.

Evening: Cream custard.

Approximate value — 3,700 calories.

Questions and Answers

T. M. — "Is it advisable for one who has chronic asthma to be near animals?"

Answer — Chronic asthma can be caused by animal dandruff, the commonest form being sensitiveness to horse dander; rabbits, cats and dogs come next, and birds may be the guilty parties. A person with chronic asthma should have a determination made with a patch test to see if the asthma is due to sensitiveness to a particular animal dander.

L. H. — "Will drinking carbonated water which contains sodium and lithium stimulate and be injurious to the heart?"

Answer — No. Carbonated water containing sodium and lithium is generally considered to be very healthy. Taken by mouth these salts do not affect the heart in any way because the body is able, by its internal mechanism, to form a balance. Excess of these salts introduced directly into the blood, does have an effect on the heart muscle.

H. E. D. — "My dentist tells me the reason my teeth decay at the bottom is because of acid in my mouth. My mouth tastes very bitter at times and I wondered if you could tell me if it is possible to combat this acidity. Is it caused by my tonsils?"

Answer — A good way to determine whether your mouth is really acid is to take some litmus paper and moisten it with saliva. If blue litmus paper turns red, the mouth is acid. It is very unusual, however, to have continuous acidity in the mouth, and it is probably due to infection, either pyorrhea, or possibly from the tonsils.

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

SINCE THE awful moment when little Tempe Hyde forced herself on him in the library—quite taking advantage of his shyness there—Jeremy Tucker had been a man steeped in shame. Not that he had actually done anything sinful, or even anything particularly out of the ordinary, as youthful customs go, but he had, after all, kissed her; returned her kiss when she first kissed him. He hadn't wanted to do that. He hadn't planned it, or thought of it, or done it deliberately. It had just happened.

During the few days that had elapsed since then Jeremy had been forced to associate with the other young people at the mansion, but the old look of soberness and sadness had crept back into his eyes. Gayle saw it on the first day, wondering. She did not question him (for which he was very grateful). But she did take him in hand.

"Jeremy Tucker, I declare!" she chided in a friendly way. "I have just noticed something. You are going downtown right now and get yourself some new glasses!"

"I—I say—"

"Yes, sir, you must! Jeremy, get some rimless ones, or rims that are flesh tinted and don't show, or tiny gold rims. Make the doctor fit you for looks as well as lenses. These rims are black and unbecoming on you and they needn't be."

He inspected himself in the mirror and saw that it was true. So he took her advice. When he had the new rims a few hours later, the improvement was so marked that all the people in the house commented. It became his one ray of brightness in an otherwise week of secret shame.

He came down on call to do his bits in the new play. He came on call to pose for the newspaper photographers. But he declined Bill's invitation to go downtown shopping, and he declined to go swimming with the girls.

Especially did he avoid being with the girls, for he knew Tempe was among them, and he couldn't bear to face her again. He had been kissed by Tempe, had kissed her in turn and then had run.

This strange feeling he had was disturbing all the more because he couldn't understand it. Some weeks ago, when he and Gayle were rehearsing for the first play, he had kissed Gayle. It had been exciting, even embarrassing, but distinctly pleasurable. Also, he had repeatedly gazed at Lola Montesa's dark red lips and meditated on the obvious fact that they were kissable. He was not opposed to kissing per se—that is, he recognized its existence, and importance in its proper place. Nevertheless, the library affair with Tempe Hyde disturbed him. He was angry at himself and at her. There had been no pleasure in kissing her, no pleasure in retrospect; only a sudden impulse, followed by lingering anger and shame.

He heard and overheard the talk around the house as excitement for the new play grew. He learned that Cholly Farrington was making merry more and more about the "peripatetic drama" at The Oaks, and that other columnists had taken up the campaign of fun and ballyhoo as well. He saw the photos printed in the dailies, but was not much interested. Rather did he slip back into a reading of archeological books; he was soon spending hours at a time again in his grandfather's library.

Meanwhile, though, his grandfather was becoming a new man. The old fellow was sensitive to the doings around him, the doings of youth. He did not observe Jeremy's morose state, but he did hear more and more of the excitement about the play and the party afterward. A few times he butted in on Bill and Gayle.

"You cannot do all of this work yourselves," he roared at them. "Plenty of capable physical laborers are available, young friend. Hire them. Get professional decorators, make them carry out your ideas. I hired you two to think, not to get in overalls and labor with hammer and saw."

In due time Bill and Gayle came to him to report the financial status of the play and party.

"If no unforseen expense pops up, sir," Bill stated, "we should have a total cost of $487.90. But we have a gross cash take, from ticket sales, of $8,180. The money is in the bank, sir. I gave the itemized record sheets to Mr. Weems, ready for your inspection; also a check for the full amount taken in."

Mr. Merrifield was beaming.

"That's a good showing, young man, and young miss. I am proud of you. Mr. Weems has already showed me the record sheet. And now what about that, ah, motion picture tryout? The papers were saying—"

Gayle spoke quickly. "Oh, Mr. Merrifield, we have been too busy to consider that."

"There is a talent scout here," Bill nodded. "He telephoned."

"Uh." The old gentleman gazed thoughtfully at the youths. "He will, uh, remain? For a few days?"

"He said he would attend 'The Wit to Woo.' We sent him complimentary tickets, sir."

"Um huhm. There are heart breaks in motion pictures. But I do know there is career work in them for people with your talents. Nevertheless, I am forced to say, selfishly, that you are under contract to me for one year. If your tryout is successful and they want you in Hollywood, they would have to deal with me. You hear me, young friends?"

They nodded. For the first time, the very first time since they came, he had appeared quite business-like and serious. They were definitely impressed.

But all at once his attitude changed. He slumped a little, leaning on his desk, shook his old head slowly and spoke in low tone. "Happiness . . . must come . . . ahead of . . . everything. Look for happiness, young friends, not fame . . . not fame."

The hours seemed to flow with increasing swiftness for the remaining days before the play. At all times the grand old mansion reverberated with the sounds of rehearsal and preparation. Musicians came to practice. The girls, Lola especially, labored to get their songs just right. Bill and Gayle had to be everywhere at once.

The interest and excitement increased in the old gentleman as well. Downtown one morning he chose three of his cronies—the Reverend Rollo C. Le Baron, a noted minister and author; Myron Tway, capitalist, and P. D. L. Davis, who had been in a president's cabinet and who was a retired financier now—and invited these men to be his guests at the showing of "The Wit to Woo." They had their jokes about it, Mr. Davis alleging that he was never too old to enjoy wooing, and Dr. Le Baron reprimanding him for such "sinful" thought. But they were delighted to accept Ben Merrifield's invitation.

The distinguished trio drove up to The Oaks at 5 p. m. on the day of the play because they also were to have dinner with their host. In the upstairs study both Mr. Weems and Jeremy came to greet them—they had never met the grandson before—and then left them to talk. Jeremy, still suffused with loneliness, edged out of view onto the second floor porch. He could still hear the old men even though he couldn't see them, but he wasn't much interested in their talk. Thoughts were pulling at his heart tonight.

It must have been only a few minutes later, however, when his grandfather's voice did command his attention again. Mr. Merrifield had the habit of talking too loudly. In enthusiasm he would laugh and roar out most impressively, aweing some people by it, amusing others. Plainly he thought Jeremy had gone downstairs.

". . . only grandson I have, but too confounded bookish!" the old man was saying, heartily, to his friends. "So I tell you what I did—I framed up on him. Yes, sirs!"

"Interesting," Dr. Le Baron encouraged. "How did you do it?"

"I knew that Jeremy was extremely shy, so I hired the prettiest girl I could find. Know what I did, then, Rollo? I investigated her carefully, and promised her $10,000 if she made Jeremy propose marriage to her inside of one year!"

There was a burst of laughter within, and it became apparent that the interest stepped up. Jeremy, sitting in the late evening glow alone there on the porch, heard every word of it. And his mouth dropped open in sheer astonishment.

His grandfather revealed everything. Gayle and Bill hired to "draw him out." Gayle hired to make Jeremy woo. Use of the theater movement as a medium for bringing life and gaiety to the mansion, and of luring Jeremy out of his shell.

For a quarter hour Jeremy sat there and, in effect, saw himself as others saw him; overheard his fine old granddad carelessly reveal secrets that he had never suspected about himself.

The boy didn't know what to do. The more he listened, and reasoned, the more he realized the truth of what his granddad was saying. Consternation seized him. He wanted to call out and interrupt them. He wanted to flee. He thought of the play, of Gayle, and Lola, and Tempe Hyde, and Bill and the other girls, and everything all at once. His mind was in a veritable whirl of confusion.

But he sat there motionless and in another moment the four old men just inside the French doors from him were summoned by the butler, and so ambled off downstairs to dine.

200 Cities and Towns Seek New Plane Industries

Scramble for Share in Defense Orders Hits Many Centers

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP) — More than 200 cities and towns—many of them in the industrial sections west of the Allegheny mountains are bidding for new industries under the national defense program.

Through representatives in Congress, Chambers of Commerce, even city officials, they daily are presenting their requests in Washington for establishment within their corporate limites of airplane manufacturing plants.

Most are referred to the aeronautical Chamber of Commerce where a clearing house has been set up for such requests to lift the burden from private manufacturers and army and navy officials.

There huge files have been filled with the requests in preparation for the time—if it comes—when the aviation industry will expand throughout the nation to fill government orders.

Just what chance any of the requests has of being granted cannot be determined now.

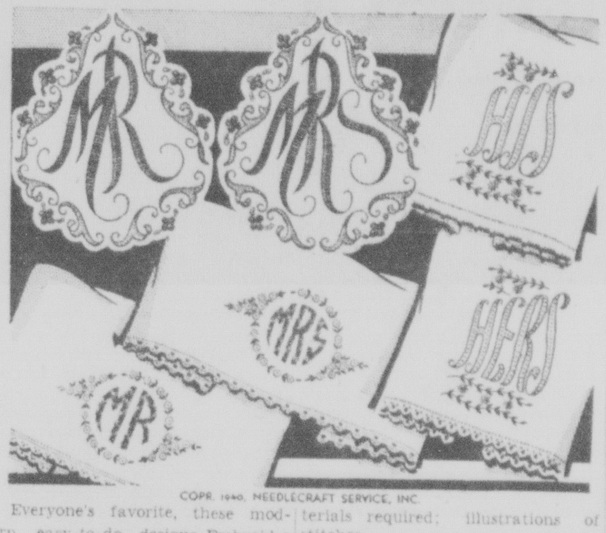

It will depend to a great extent upon the manufacturing companies themselves, who probably will select their own sites for new plants, although the war department may step into the picture with advice on locations from tactical and strategical standpoints.

Officials of the aeronautical chamber, pointing to the many requests, said what disposition would be made of them depends upon the future—"until the industry gets its expansion program from the government it just can't expand."

They added that reports current in many towns that "we're going to have an airplane factory" were in many instances overly optimistic.

"When some one of the existing manufacturing companies, looking to the future, starts checking sites in various towns it frequently results in reports of an immediate building program," one official said.

Volunteer Helpers Add Nothing To Singing of G. O. P. Delegates

TODAY'S GARDENGRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Distributed by Central Press Association)

Shepherd's purse is an annual weed which is not particular as to soil, therefore, it is to be found almost everywhere. Each plant produces seeds running into the thousands. Each little seed pod, or purse, holds some 20 seeds. Because Shepherd's-purse is so rich in seeds it is important that the plant be eliminated from yards and gardens at this season when its seeds are ripening.

Shepherd's-purse has a flat whorl of root leaves, as shown in the Garden-Graph. The flowers are small and white. The seed pod is flat and heart-shaped. The seeds from this weed will live for a number of years.

This pest can be pulled out of the ground easily after a soaking rain, or it can be cut off below the crown by means of a hoe. In large areas it can be controlled by spraying with iron or copper sulface.

Finlanders possess a fondness for raw fish. The more nearly raw a fish is the better they like it.

Thin Man Will Fatten If He Eats Properly

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Every time I publish a list of diets for overweight, which I do about once a year, I get a long list of complaints, the burden of which is "You're talking about the overweights. Why don't you do something for us underweights, those of us who are thin and can't seem to fatten up?"

There are really almost as many of them as there are of the overweights, although they are not so conspicuous, so I am going to publish some advice and a list of diets for underweights during the next few weeks.

One thing the underweight patient does not seem to realize is that it takes just as much work and self-denial to gain weight as it does to lose it. The overweight patient knows that it is going to be hard on him and is prepared to make some sacrifices, but the underweight patient seems to think that he can take some vitamin tablets or some other mysterious kind of magic and he will begin to gain weight automatically. This is not true. He has to work for his advantages.

Do You Eat Enough?

As in the case of the overweight patient, there are two distinct kinds of underweights. In the smaller group are those who have some organic or physiological cause for their underweight. These may be hidden or difficult of assessment. Of course the conspicuous one is tuberculosis. Cases of diabetes may go unrecognized for a long time and be a cause of underweight. Conditions of the ductless glands, such as Simmond's Disease, and adrenal insufficiency, may cause abnormal thinness; also certain nervous conditions, or asthenia.

In most instances, however, underweight is due to the fact that the individual does not eat enough, just as overweight is largely due to too much eating. It is really very simple. I have several doctor friends who are interested in nutrition and several of them are quite thin. With once accord they say that their leanness is no mystery; that they simply do not like to eat and they look on me, and people like me, with fine appetites, with a kind of envy. They estimate that they instinctively eat about one-third as much as another person of the same age and height.

Sample Diet

Three days a week, for a time, we will publish in this column a daily menu of a diet planned to increase weight. They contain at least 3500 calories per diem. They are balanced as to minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

Breakfast: Cantaloupe; wheatena with cream; bread and butter; glass milk, ½ cream.

Mid-morning: Chocolate malted milk.

Mid-afternoon: Glass of eggnog.

Evening: Cream custard.

Approximate value — 3,700 calories.

Questions and Answers

T. M. — "Is it advisable for one who has chronic asthma to be near animals?"

Answer — Chronic asthma can be caused by animal dandruff, the commonest form being sensitiveness to horse dander; rabbits, cats and dogs come next, and birds may be the guilty parties. A person with chronic asthma should have a determination made with a patch test to see if the asthma is due to sensitiveness to a particular animal dander.

L. H. — "Will drinking carbonated water which contains sodium and lithium stimulate and be injurious to the heart?"

Answer — No. Carbonated water containing sodium and lithium is generally considered to be very healthy. Taken by mouth these salts do not affect the heart in any way because the body is able, by its internal mechanism, to form a balance. Excess of these salts introduced directly into the blood, does have an effect on the heart muscle.

L. E. D. — "My dentist tells me the reason my teeth decay at the bottom is because of acid in my mouth. My mouth tastes very bitter at times and I wondered if you could tell me if it is possible to combat this acidity. Is it caused by my tonsils?"

Answer — A good way to determine whether your mouth is really acid is to take some litmus paper and moisten it with saliva. If blue litmus paper turns red, the mouth is acid. It is very unusual, however, to have continuous acidity in the mouth, and it is probably due to infection, either pyorrhea, or possibly from the tonsils.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists have launched a few years' search for ways and means of converting the potential energy of the sun so that it may be used as a driving force for all machinery.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

SINCE THE awful moment when little Tempe Hyde forced herself on him in the library—quite taking advantage of his shyness there—Jeremy Tucker had been a man steeped in shame. Not that he had actually done anything sinful, or even anything particularly out of the ordinary, as youthful customs go, but he had, after all, kissed her; returned her kiss when she first kissed him. He hadn't wanted to do that. He hadn't planned it, or thought of it, or done it deliberately. It had just happened.

During the few days that had elapsed since then Jeremy had been forced to associate with the other young people at the mansion, but the old look of soberness and sadness had crept back into his eyes. Gayle saw it on the first day, wondering. She did not question him (for which he was very grateful). But she did take him in hand.

"Jeremy Tucker, I declare!" she chided in a friendly way. "I have just noticed something. You are going downtown right now and get yourself some new glasses!"

"I—I say—"

"Yes, sir, you must! Jeremy, get some rimless ones, or rims that are flesh tinted and don't show, or tiny gold rims. Make the doctor fit you for looks as well as lenses. These rims are black and unbecoming on you and they needn't be."

He inspected himself in the mirror and saw that it was true. So he took her advice. When he had the new rims a few hours later, the improvement was so marked that all the people in the house commented. It became his one ray of brightness in an otherwise week of secret shame.

He came down on call to do his bits in the new play. He came on call to pose for the newspaper photographers. But he declined Bill's invitation to go downtown shopping, and he declined to go swimming with the girls.

Especially did he avoid being with the girls, for he knew Tempe was among them, and he couldn't bear to face her again. He had been kissed by Tempe, had kissed her in turn and then had run.

This strange feeling he had was disturbing all the more because he couldn't understand it. Some weeks ago, when he and Gayle were rehearsing for the first play, he had kissed Gayle. It had been exciting, even embarrassing, but distinctly pleasurable. Also, he had repeatedly gazed at Lola Montesa's dark red lips and meditated on the obvious fact that they were kissable. He was not opposed to kissing per se—that is, he recognized its existence, and importance in its proper place. Nevertheless, the library affair with Tempe Hyde disturbed him. He was angry at himself and at her. There had been no pleasure in kissing her, no pleasure in retrospect; only a sudden impulse, followed by lingering anger and shame.

He heard and overheard the talk around the house as excitement for the new play grew. He learned that Cholly Farrington was making merry more and more about the "peripatetic drama" at The Oaks, and that other columnists had taken up the campaign of fun and ballyhoo as well. He saw the photos printed in the dailies, but was not much interested. Rather did he slip back into a reading of archeological books; he was soon spending hours at a time again in his grandfather's library.

Meanwhile, though, his grandfather was becoming a new man. The old fellow was sensitive to the doings around him, the doings of youth. He did not observe Jeremy's morose state, but he did hear more and more of the excitement about the play and the party afterward. A few times he butted in on Bill and Gayle.

"You cannot do all of this work yourselves," he roared at them. "Plenty of capable physical laborers are available, young friend. Hire them. Get professional decorators, make them carry out your ideas. I hired you two to think, not to get in overalls and labor with hammer and saw."

In due time Bill and Gayle came to him to report the financial status of the play and party.

"If no unforseen expense pops up, sir," Bill stated, "we should have a total cost of $487.90. But we have a gross cash take, from ticket sales, of $8,180. The money is in the bank, sir. I gave the itemized record sheets to Mr. Weems, ready for your inspection; also a check for the full amount taken in."

Mr. Merrifield was beaming.

"That's a good showing, young man, and young miss. I am proud of you. Mr. Weems has already showed me the record sheet. And now what about that, ah, motion picture tryout? The papers were saying—"

Gayle spoke quickly. "Oh, Mr. Merrifield, we have been too busy to consider that."

"He said he would attend 'The Wit to Woo.' We sent him complimentary tickets, sir."

"Um huhm. There are heart breaks in motion pictures. But I do know there is career work in them for people with your talents. Nevertheless, I am forced to say, selfishly, that you are under contract to me for one year. If your tryout is successful and they want you in Hollywood, they would have to deal with me. Because Shepherd's-purse is so rich in seeds it is important that the plant be eliminated from yards and gardens at this season when its seeds are ripening.

Shepherd's-purse has a flat whorl of root leaves, as shown in the Garden-Graph. The flowers are small and white. The seed pod is flat and heart-shaped. The seeds from this weed will live for a number of years.

This pest can be pulled out of the ground easily after a soaking rain, or it can be cut off below the crown by means of a hoe. In large areas it can be controlled by spraying with iron or copper sulface.

Finlanders possess a fondness for raw fish. The more nearly raw a fish is the better they like it.

Slave-Trader Type of Ship Is Revived for Adventure

The Caribee alongside her Gloucester fishing wharf where riggers are getting her shipshape.

By TOM MORGAN
AP Feature Service Writer

Gloucester, Mass. — Admirably fashioned for high adventure, the topsail schooner Caribee is tugging impatiently at her moorings, waiting for riggers to finish the intricate web of cordage and wire rope that will support her canvas and spars, before she is off wherever the whim of her owner directs.

Nothing like the Caribee has been launched in about a century, since abolition eliminated slave running and such speedy vessels as the Baltimore clipper type, after which she was modeled, no longer could find profitable commerce.

World Cruise Side-Tracked

Caribee was built for Ernest N. May of Wilmington, Del., by William A. Ribinson, whose obsessing passion is to preserve for practical purposes some of the best types of the sailing ship era.

May was planning a world cruise when the Caribee's keel was laid, but the war has postponed that. Now he is charting courses in waters as yet free of mines and submarines.

Caribee's two masts have a pronounced rake aft. On the foremast she will carry yards for a square topsail. A long bowsprit and jib boom insures an expansive area of head sail. She is 92 feet overall, 23 feet beam and draws 10 feet, and below deck are accommodations for a dozen persons, plus five or six hands in the fo-castle. A high, windowed poop suggests the stern of a Spanish galleon.

The Ipswich River

Robinson has excellent reason for his faith in wooden sailing vessels. A few years ago he circled the globe alone in the tiny ketch Svaap. Upon his return he established a ship yard on the Ipswich river, where Caribee recently was launched and where he previously built two other reminders of the glorious age of sail—one a topsail schooner and the other modeled after a fast pilot boat.

Gloucester has seen many strange craft and the start of many strange adventures. Howard Blackburn sailed a Gloucester dory around the world. Irving Johnson, every few years, leaves on a globe girdling cruise in the schooner Yankee. Captain Sterling Hayden, 23, just turned movie actor, left here two years ago in the brigantine Florence C. Robinson, named for the wife of Caribee's builder, and set a sailing record to Tahiti.

card to a boy friend of mine, whom I like very much?

J. F.

If going "steady" means engaged as it seems to with some young people, don't you think you might be raising false hopes if you send a birthday card to the other young man, unless you are one of the prudent type, who wants to keep two strings to her bow.

Has Been Secretly Married

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a problem which I do not care to discuss with my family; hence, I'm coming to you.

For the past seven months I've been going with a young lady, who confided in me a few weeks ago that she is secretly married to a man in another state. Only one member of her family, with whom she lives, knows about it.

I used to visit her two and three times a week, but since she told me about her marriage, I have a guilty conscience, and go only once a week or even less. I do enjoy myself when I'm in her company, and she says she gets so lonely at times and looks forward to my visits.

Do you think I'm being fair to her or to myself, or to her husband? I am 22 and she is 21 years.

FRANK

It would be better for your peace of mind, it seems to me, if you cut that one visit a week to this girl. According to your letter, all of which I am not printing, this girl is cheating on her husband.

You're likely to get into endless complications in that sort of an affair, and it would be better if you broke with her immediately.

* * *

Too Young, Mother Thinks

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 years of age and go with a boy of 21 years. When we first went out together, we had many good times and never thought of getting serious. But now, Miss Fairfax, he worries me. He always keeps telling me how much he cares for me, and talks about marriage. Mother knows about this, but doesn't like the idea, as she says I'm too young. I told him to wait at least three years, but he doesn't want to do that.

Do you think I'd be making a mistake if I married him on my eighteenth birthday- I love him and he has a good position and could take care of me. Please give me your frank opinion.

MAC.

So often, when girls marry at 18, they miss their playtime, especially when they have a family. They write me that all their friends seem to be having good times, while they have nothing but drudgery.

Our grandmothers married at 18 and younger. Sixteen seemed to have been a favored age a few generations ago. Then girls were more contented to stay at home, instead of wanting to go places, as they do today. In any case, don't you think it would be well to wait a year or so before marrying, especially as your mother thinks you're a bit young for so important a step?

Each May Go Out with Others

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am deeply in love with a girl I've been going with for six months. She tells me she cares for me and shows it.

Recently she met another boy who has been after her to go out with him, and she finally accepted his invitation. She tells me she cares nothing for him beyond friendship, I don't think a girl should go with two or three boys at the same time, especially if she cares for one. She thinks it all right for her to do it, but doesn't want me to take out other girls. Since I don't want our friendship to break up, I don't take out others.

Please help me solve my problem.

JUNIOR

If your girl goes out with other young men, it is certainly your privilege to take out other girls. You may quote to her, "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If not actually engaged, it is permissible for young people of both sexes to go out with whom they please.

The green-eyed monster is terrific, but the clever boy or girl learns to smile and conceal the hurt.

Thinks Bad Manners Amusing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21 years old, have been married five years to a man ten years older than I am. We got along fine until about a year ago, and it seems that we get in each other's hair all the time. He makes fun of me in front of other people, and thinks it's cute.

I have a job and also do all my housework. My sister stays with us, and he also enjoys making fun of her friends. Do you think if we had children he would be different? We're both fond of children.

I've really been thinking of leaving him, altogether I love him dearly. Please tell me what to do. WORRIED WIFE.

Your problem is a case of bad manners on your husband's part, and often bad manners are harder to endure than bad morals. There isn't anything "cute" in making fun of some one for the entertainment of others. In fact, among well-bred people that sort of amusement is distressing.

If you are considering leaving your husband, don't you think it would be well to see if his manners improve before you contemplate having a family? That would make the break harder, if there were children to consider.

Why not give him an "etiquette" party, which I'll admit is a pretty raw cure. A woman wrote me she had civilized her husband by inviting a group of friends who made fun of him in the same way he had been guying others, particularly his wife and members of her family.

Hardware Shower

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A very dear friend who will be married in a couple of weeks is to be the object of a shower. His bride-to-be has suggested it, and while we're all willing to come across we wouldn't like to offend him by such an innovation, if it's bad form.

BACHELOR.

Girls sometimes suggest these bachelor showers so they can invite young men to the party. I've heard them called hardware showers and the Five-and-Ten will furnish all the requirements in the way of hammers, nails, tumblers, even aprons, with an eye to future dish-washing. Bachelor showers are becoming popular because they're not strictly feminine affairs.

Impossible Situation

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out for the past eight months with a married man. He doesn't care for his wife. I'm married also, but my husband is so mean and ugly that I can't bear to stay with him. Now, this married man wants me to come and live with him and his wife and keep house for them, as his wife is ill. What shall I do?

EDITH

For your own sake, I hope you will not agree to this man's suggestion that you go into his house where his wife is ill, as housekeeper. Try and put yourself in this sick woman's place, and think of the unhappiness to which you would be submitted. What of the neighbors? And what would their verdict be in the case of this woman's death?

If you are able to take a housekeeping job, wouldn't it be better to get work with some other family instead of in a home where conditions are so unfortunate?

Meyersdale Prepares for Fourth of July Observance

Celebrations Planned for July Fourth

Programs Will Be Held In Meyersdale and Salisbury

MEYERSDALE, Pa., June 24 — Elaborate preparations are under way for the proper celebration of Independence day both in Salisbury and Meyersdale. At the former place the event is being sponsored by the borough council, the volunteer fire department, American Legion and the community band. The program of entertainment consisting of athletic events, band concerts and contests, a fine parade and other features, and closing with an extraordinary display of fireworks at night. In Meyersdale there will be baseball games and other events, closing with a display of fireworks in the evening. The celebration here is being sponsored by the American Legion.

Dr. Miller Speaks

Dr. J. E. Miller, former president of the Church of the Brethren College, Mt. Morris, Ill., now historian of the denomination with headquarters at Elgin, Ill., occupied the pulpit of the local church yesterday morning, speaking upon the theme, "The Heritage of the Brethren Church," which throughout contained much early historical interest, together with the doctrine and usages of the church. At the evening church period the Negro quartet from the Prentiss Industrial and Normal Institute, Prentiss, Miss., entertained with a fine program of Negro spirituals.

Prof. Walter O. Gordon and Prof. L. T. Dunlap, State College, are guests of Jack McCartney, who is a student of State, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McCarthy.

Mrs. W. A. Allshouse, Main street, is visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Allshouse, in Cumberland.

Mrs. Grant Atwell, teacher in the schools of Rockwood, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Snider, High street.

Ivan Clark, who spent some time in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, receiving treatment for a nervous disorder, has arrived home, and his condition is described as satisfactory. Saturday both Mr. and Mrs. Clark returned from a week's visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Purnell, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Harvey Bittner, returned yesterday from a ten-day visit with relatives and friends in Canton, Ohio.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, and daughter, Miss Dorothy, Bridgewater, Virginia, were guests yesterday of their son, daughter-in-law and grandson, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Miller and David LeRoy Miller, at the parsonage of the Church of the Brethren.

Prof. and Mrs. Orville Hittie and son daughters, Pittsburgh, are spending their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hittie, and the Rev. and Mrs. T. Rodney Coffman, at Somerset.

Mrs. Angela George, son and daughter Joseph and Mary George, returned yesterday from a ten days' visit with relatives and friends in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Adelaide Bard, who, with her son Edward Bard, spent several weeks with relatives and friends in Chicago returned home yesterday. Joseph, however, remained as the guest of his uncle, Melvin Bard, and will return home in time for the opening of the school term in September.

Mrs. Cara Ebert Is Re-elected Committeewoman

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)— The West Virginia delegation to the Republican National Convention split today with the organization of an eight-member bloc in opposition to Wendell L. Willkie.

Claims were advanced after a conference attended by D. Boone Dawson of Charleston, Republican nominee for governor, that "at least half the state's sixteen votes" would go against Wilkie on the first ballot for a presidential nominee.

Leaders of the newly-organized delegation headed by Walter Hallanan, national committeeman, claimed yesterday eight votes for Wilkie on the first ballot and asserted others probably would switch later.

"West Virginians are here fundamentally as Republicans," said Dawson after the anti-Willkie conference. "We don't think our party so hard up we have to nominate as our standard bearer a man who was a Democrat and voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and still was listed as Democratic in 1939."

"I can honestly say that seventy-five per cent of the Republicans in West Virginia want Dewey; and the

Mrs. Cara Ebert Is Re-elected Committeewoman

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)— The West Virginia delegation to the Republican National Convention split today with the organization of an eight-member bloc in opposition to Wendell L. Willkie.

Claims were advanced after a conference attended by D. Boone Dawson of Charleston, Republican nominee for governor, that "at least half the state's sixteen votes" would go against Wilkie on the first ballot for a presidential nominee.

Leaders of the newly-organized delegation headed by Walter Hallanan, national committeeman, claimed yesterday eight votes for Wilkie on the first ballot and asserted others probably would switch later.

"West Virginians are here fundamentally as Republicans," said Dawson after the anti-Willkie conference. "We don't think our party so hard up we have to nominate as our standard bearer a man who was a Democrat and voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and still was listed as Democratic in 1939.

"I can honestly say that seventy-five per cent of the Republicans in West Virginia want Dewey; and the

How London Hopes To Keep German Bombs off Its Neck

THE AID DEFENSE CENTER, shown here as portrayed in a British educational movie. This is the brain of the air defense organization, on which Britain has been spending $4,000,000 a day. Telephonists are connected to outposts spotted on the map in front of them. Officers watch progress of enemy aircraft on map and issue orders involving such defense measures as . . .

Slave-Trader Type of Ship Is Revived for Adventure

The Caribee alongside her Gloucester fishing wharf where riggers are getting her shipshape.

By TOM MORGAN
AP Feature Service Writer

Gloucester, Mass. — Admirably fashioned for high adventure, the topsail schooner Caribee is tugging impatiently at her moorings, waiting for riggers to finish the intricate web of cordage and wire rope that will support her canvas and spars, before she is off wherever the whim of her owner directs.

Nothing like the Caribee has been launched in about a century, since abolition eliminated slave running and such speedy vessels as the Baltimore clipper type, after which she was modeled, no longer could find profitable commerce.

World Cruise Side-Tracked

Caribee was built for Ernest N. May of Wilmington, Del., by William A. Ribinson, whose obsessing passion is to preserve for practical purposes some of the best types of the sailing ship era.

May was planning a world cruise when the Caribee's keel was laid, but the war has postponed that. Now he is charting courses in waters as yet free of mines and submarines.

Caribee's two masts have a pronounced rake aft. On the foremast she will carry yards for a square topsail. A long bowsprit and jib boom insures an expansive area of head sail. She is 92 feet overall, 23 feet beam and draws 10 feet, and below deck are accommodations for a dozen persons, plus five or six hands in the fo-castle. A high, windowed poop suggests the stern of a Spanish galleon.

The Ipswich River

Robinson has excellent reason for his faith in wooden sailing vessels. A few years ago he circled the globe alone in the tiny ketch Svaap. Upon his return he established a ship yard on the Ipswich river, where Caribee recently was launched and where he previously built two other reminders of the glorious age of sail—one a topsail schooner and the other modeled after a fast pilot boat.

Gloucester has seen many strange craft and the start of many strange adventures. Howard Blackburn sailed a Gloucester dory around the world, Irving Johnson, every few years, leaves on a globe girdling cruise in the schooner Yankee. Captain Sterling Hayden, 23, just turned movie actor, left here two years ago in the brigantine Florence C. Robinson, named for the wife of Caribee's builder, and set a sailing record to Tahiti.

Matriarchy May

lady, who confided in me a few weeks ago that she is secretly married to a man in another state. Only one member of her family, with whom she lives, knows about it.

I used to visit her two and three times a week, but since she told me about her marriage, I have a guilty conscience, and go only once a week or even less. I do enjoy myself when I'm in her company, and she says she gets so lonely at times and looks forward to my visits.

Do you think I'm being fair to her or to myself, or to her husband? I am 22 and she is 21 years.

FRANK

It would be better for your peace of mind, it seems to me, if you cut that one visit a week to this girl. According to your letter, all of which I am not printing, this girl is cheating on her husband.

You're likely to get into endless complications in that sort of an affair, and it would be better if you broke with her immediately.

Too Young, Mother Thinks

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 years of age and go with a boy of 21 years. When we first went out together, we had many good times and never thought of getting serious. But now, Miss Fairfax, he worries me. He always keeps telling me how much he cares for me, and talks about marriage. Mother knows about this, but doesn't like the idea, as she says I'm too young. I told him to wait at least three years, but he doesn't want to do that.

Do you think I'd be making a mistake if I married him on my eighteenth birthday- I love him and he has a good position and could take care of me. Please give me your frank opinion.

MAC.

So often, when girls marry at 18, they miss their playtime, especially when they have a family. They write me that all their friends seem to be having good times, while they have nothing but drudgery.

Our grandmothers married at 18 and younger. Sixteen seemed to have been a favored age a few generations ago. Then girls were more contented to stay at home, instead of wanting to go places, as they do today. In any case, don't you think it would be well to wait a year or so before marrying, especially as your mother thinks you're a bit young for so important a step?

Each May Go Out with Others

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am deeply in love with a girl I've been going with for six months. She tells me she cares for me and shows it.

Recently she met another boy who has been after her to go out with him, and she finally accepted his invitation. She tells me she cares nothing for him beyond friendship. I don't think a girl should go with two or three boys at the same time, especially if she cares for one. She thinks it all right for her to do it, but doesn't want me to take out other girls. Since I don't want our friendship to break up, I don't take out others.

Please help me solve my problem.

JUNIOR

If your girl goes out with other young men, it is certainly your privilege to take out other girls. You may quote to her, "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If not actually engaged, it is permissible for young people of both sexes to go out with whom they please.

The green-eyed monster is terrific, but the clever boy or girl learns to smile and conceal the hurt.

Thinks Bad Manners Amusing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21 years old, have been married five years to a man ten years older than I am. We got along fine until about a year ago, and it seems that we get in each other's hair all the time. He makes fun of me in front of other people, and thinks it's cute.

I have a job and also do all my housework. My sister stays with us, and he also enjoys making fun of her friends. Do you think if we had children he would be different? We're both fond of children.

I've really been thinking of leaving him, altogether I love him dearly. Please tell me what to do. WORRIED WIFE.

Your problem is a case of bad manners on your husband's part, and often bad manners are harder to endure than bad morals. There isn't anything "cute" in making fun of some one for the entertainment of others. In fact, among well-bred people that sort of amusement is distressing.

If you are considering leaving your husband, don't you think it would be well to see if his manners improve before you contemplate having a family? That would make the break harder, if there were children to consider.

Why not give him an "etiquette" party, which I'll admit is a pretty raw cure. A woman wrote me she had civilized her husband by inviting a group of friends who made fun of him in the same way he had been guying others, particularly his wife and members of her family.

Hardware Shower

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A very dear friend who will be married in a couple of weeks is to be the object of a shower. His bride-to-be has suggested it, and while we're all willing to come across we wouldn't like to offend him by such an innovation, if it's bad form.

BACHELOR.

Girls sometimes suggest these bachelor showers so they can invite young men to the party. I've heard them called hardware showers and the Five-and-Ten will furnish all the requirements in the way of hammers, nails, tumblers, even aprons, with an eye to future dish-washing. Bachelor showers are becoming popular because they're not strictly feminine affairs.

Impossible Situation

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out for the past eight months with a married man. He doesn't care for his wife. I'm married also, but my husband is so mean and ugly that I can't bear to stay with him. Now, this married man wants me to come and live with him and his wife and keep house for them, as his wife is ill. What shall I do?

EDITH

For your own sake, I hope you will not agree to this man's suggestion that you go into his house where his wife is ill, as housekeeper. Try and put yourself in this sick woman's place, and think of the unhappiness to which you would be submitted. What of the neighbors? And what would their verdict be in the case of this woman's death?

If you are able to take a housekeeping job, wouldn't it be better to get work with some other family instead of in a home where conditions are so unfortunate?

How London Hopes To Keep German Bombs off Its Neck

SPOTTER for Royal Air Force watches for enemy planes. His is one of thousands of outposts on land and sea and in the air. All information he picks up he telephones or radios to . . .

THE AID DEFENSE CENTER, shown here as portrayed in a British educational movie. This is the brain of the air defense organization, on which Britain has been spending $4,000,000 a day. Telephonists are connected to outposts spotted on the map in front of them. Officers watch progress of enemy aircraft on map and issue orders involving such defense measures as . . .

THE BALLOON BARRAGE, hundreds of balloons trailing steel cables. Object is to force planes so high they cannot bomb accurately. The balloon barrage surrounding London is correlated with . . .

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, on guard 24 hours a day in London parks and on the outskirts. Here a gun team of the 60th (City of London) Anti-Aircraft regiment mans a 3.7 inch AA gun. Other big defense weapon for London's 8,000,000 people is the fighter plane, which rises to the attack as soon as bombers are sighted. From bases in the Lowlands, however, Germany can send fighters as well as bombers against Britain.

Slave-Trader Type of Ship Is Revived for Adventure

The Caribee alongside her Gloucester fishing wharf where riggers are getting her shipshape.

By TOM MORGAN
AP Feature Service Writer

Gloucester, Mass. — Admirably fashioned for high adventure, the topsail schooner Caribee is tugging impatiently at her moorings, waiting fof riggers to finish the intricate web of cordage and wire rope that will support her canvas and spars, before she is off wherever the whim of her owner directs.

Nothing like the Caribee has been launched in about a century, since abolition eliminated slave running and such speedy vessels as the Baltimore clipper type, after which she was modeled, no longer could find profitable commerce.

World Cruise Side-Tracked

Caribee was built for Ernest N. May of Wilmington, Del., by William A. Ribinson, whose obsessing passion is to preserve for practical purposes some of the best types of the sailing ship era.

May was planning a world cruise when the Caribee's keel was laid, but the war has postponed that. Now he is charting courses in waters as yet free of mines and submarines.

Caribee's two masts have a pronounced rake aft. On the foremast she will carry yards for a square topsail. A long bowsprit and jib boom insures an expansive area of head sail. She is 92 feet overall, 23 feet beam and draws 10 feet, and below deck are accommodations for a dozen persons, plus five or six hands in the fo-castle. A high, windowed poop suggests the stern of a Spanish galleon.

The Ipswich River

Robinson has excellent reason for his faith in wooden sailing vessels. A few years ago he circled the globe alone in the tiny ketch Svaap. Upon his return he established a ship yard on the Ipswich river, where Caribee recently was launched and where he previously built two other reminders of the glorious age of sail—one a topsail schooner and the other modeled after a fast pilot boat.

Gloucester has seen many strange craft and the start of many strange adventures. Howard Blackburn sailed a Gloucester dory around the world. Irving Johnson, every few years, leaves on a globe girdling cruise in the schooner Yankee. Captain Sterling Hayden, 23, just turned movie actor, left here two years ago in the brigantine Florence C. Robinson, named for the wife of Caribee's builder, and set a sailing record to Tahiti.

card to a boy friend of mine, whom I like very much?

J. F.

If going "steady" means engaged as it seems to with some young people, don't you think you might be raising false hopes if you send a birthday card to the other young man, unless you are one of the prudent type, who wants to keep two strings to her bow.

Has Been Secretly Married

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a problem which I do not care to discuss with my family; hence, I'm coming to you.

For the past seven months I've been going with a young lady, who confided in me a few weeks ago that she is secretly married to a man in another state. Only one member of her family, with whom she lives, knows about it.

I used to visit her two and three times a week, but since she told me about her marriage, I have a guilty conscience, and go only once a week or even less. I do enjoy myself when I'm in her company, and she says she gets so lonely at times and looks forward to my visits.

Do you think I'm being fair to her or to myself, or to her husband? I am 22 and she is 21 years.

FRANK

It would be better for your peace of mind, it seems to me, if you cut that one visit a week to this girl. According to your letter, all of which I am not printing, this girl is cheating on her husband.

You're likely to get into endless complications in that sort of an affair, and it would be better if you broke with her immediately.

Too Young, Mother Thinks

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 years of age and go with a boy of 21 years. When we first went out together, we had many good times and never thought of getting serious. But now, Miss Fairfax, he worries me. He always keeps telling me how much he cares for me, and talks about marriage. Mother knows about this, but doesn't like the idea, as she says I'm too young. I told him to wait at least three years, but he doesn't want to do that.

Do you think I'd be making a mistake if I married him on my eighteenth birthday- I love him and he has a good position and could take care of me. Please give me your frank opinion.

MAC.

So often, when girls marry at 18, they miss their playtime, especially when they have a family. They write me that all their friends seem to be having good times, while they have nothing but drudgery.

Our grandmothers married at 18 and younger. Sixteen seemed to have been a favored age a few generations ago. Then girls were more contented to stay at home, instead of wanting to go places, as they do today. In any case, don't you think it would be well to wait a year or so before marrying, especially as your mother thinks you're a bit young for so important a step?

Each May Go Out with Others

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am deeply in love with a girl I've been going with for six months. She tells me she cares for me and shows it.

Recently she met another boy who has been after her to go out with him, and she finally accepted his invitation. She tells me she cares nothing for him beyond friendship. I don't think a girl should go with two or three boys at the same time, especially if she cares for one. She thinks it all right for her to do it, but doesn't want me to take out other girls. Since I don't want our friendship to break up, I don't take out others.

Please help me solve my problem.

JUNIOR

If your girl goes out with other young men, it is certainly your privilege to take out other girls. You may quote to her, "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If not actually engaged, it is permissible for young people of both sexes to go out with whom they please.

The green-eyed monster is terrific, but the clever boy or girl learns to smile and conceal the hurt.

Thinks Bad Manners Amusing

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21 years old, have been married five years to a man ten years older than I am. We got along fine until about a year ago, and it seems that we get in each other's hair all the time. He makes fun of me in front of other people, and thinks it's cute.

I have a job and also do all my housework. My sister stays with us, and he also enjoys making fun of her friends. Do you think if we had children he would be different? We're both fond of children.

I've really been thinking of leaving him, altogether I love him dearly. Please tell me what to do. WORRIED WIFE.

Your problem is a case of bad manners on your husband's part, and often bad manners are harder to endure than bad morals. There isn't anything "cute" in making fun of some one for the entertainment of others. In fact, among well-bred people that sort of amusement is distressing.

If you are considering leaving your husband, don't you think it would be well to see if his manners improve before you contemplate having a family? That would make the break harder, if there were children to consider.

Why not give him an "etiquette" party, which I'll admit is a pretty raw cure. A woman wrote me she had civilized her husband by inviting a group of friends who made fun of him in the same way he had been guying others, particularly his wife and members of her family.

Illness Fatal To Resident Of Mt. Zion

Mrs. Ada Ravenscroft Succumbs Following Stroke of Paralysis

GRANTSVILLE, June 24.—Mrs. Ada Newman Ravenscroft, 73, wife of William Ravenscroft, died at her home in the Mt. Zion section Saturday following a stroke of paralysis. She had been ill for several years. She was born near State Line Feb. 14, 1867, a daughter of Henry and Barbara Newman.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, ars one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Simpkins and one son Henry Fay Ravenscroft, both at home; one sister, Mrs. Sadie Shumaker, near Mt. Zion, and four grandchildren. For many years Mrs. Ravenscroft had been a member of the Salisbury, Pa., Evangelical and Reformed church.

Brief Items

Nevin U. Broadwater, Floyd C. C. Diehl, Dr. Clayton Diehl, Harry L. Yommer, Hubert Stanton, Arthur Resh and Henry Durst returned last night from an enjoyable fishing trip to Delaware Bay, near Milford, Del. They report a catch of approximately 485 fish, mostly trout and croakers. The largest trout was estimated at about twenty inches and the biggest croaker at about three and a half pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Livengood had as their guests for the week-end, Mrs. Livengood's brother, J. W. Messersmith and daughter, Virginia, Hagerstown; Lieutenant Joseph Messersmith, who has been stationed with the United States army at Lexington, Tex., and Mrs. William Baum, Cumberland. Lieut. and Mrs. Messersmith are visiting relatives in this section for a few weeks before sailing for Honolulu where they will be located.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Etta V. Engle, Englewood, were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pringle and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gunderman, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Flickner, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Helmer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diedt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Cardell, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Abel and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mower, all of Pittsburgh.

This Paper You're Reading Represents 500 Years' Progress

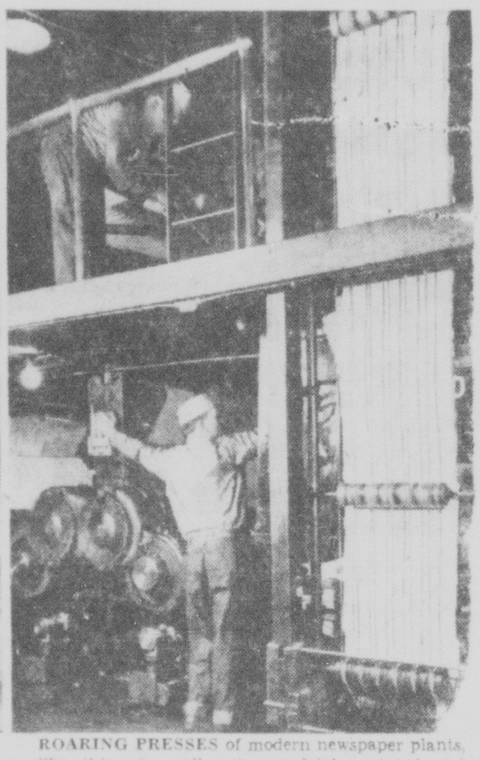

PRINTING IS 500 YEARS OLD this year and the anniversary is getting widespread observance. Until 1440, when, tradition says, Gutenberg invented movable type, monks like these preserved culture in manuscript books.

INVENTION OF THE LINOTYPE was an outstanding modern contribution. Here, Whitelaw Reid, who encouraged the inventor, Ottmar Mergenthaler, reads the first page set by linotype. Mergenthaler sits behind him.

ROARING PRESSES of modern newspaper plants, like this one, roll out completely printed, cut and folded newspapers to the tune of thousands an hour, giving the world its daily gist of news with unprecedented speed.

Wheeler Will Be Tried in Kanawha

BECKLEY, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Oscar O. Wheeler, Communist candidate for governor, will be tried on fraud and deceit charges in Kanawha county Intermediate court at Charleston on July 19, Judge Harley M. Kilgore ordered today.

Kilgore granted a change of venue sought by Wheeler's attorneys, who contended he would receive a fair trial in any county "other than Raleigh, Logan and McDowell."

Wheeler was named in nine second offense felony bills returned by a special grand jury Saturday, accusing him of misrepresentation in connection with circulation of a petition to place the Communist party on the general election ballot.

A tenth indictment named Mrs. Wheeler.

Five misdemeanor bills returned against Wheeler by the regular grand jury were nolle prossed after the special grand jury acted.

Wheeler has been in jail since his arrest June 11. Mrs. Wheeler was released upon her own recognizance.

Holt Defers Action On Hartman's Plea

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Governor Holt, returning late from a business trip, deferred today consideration of a petition for executive clemency for Byzentine Hartman, 28, sentenced to be hanged Friday.

The governor, who attended the Fourth U. S. Judicial circuit meeting at Ashville, N. C., will be in his office tomorrow.

Hartman was sentenced for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Wilbur H. Grubb of Upshur county near Buckhannon April 14. Grubb was attempting to make an arrest on a charge Hartman had beaten his mother.

Two psychiatrists have visited Hartman and their report presumably will be filed with the governor, along with the petition for commutation to life imprisonment, drafted by Hartman's attorneys.

Miss Caroline Strack has taught a Sunday school class in a Pueblo, Colo., Methodist church for thirty-nine consecutive years.

Population of Morgantown Jumps

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Final figures showed today that the population of Monongalia county increased 1,171 in the last ten years to a total of 51,254.

The chief gain was in the city of Morgantown, which had an increase of 1,000.

McKell Estate To Pay Huge Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—The estate of William McKell, wealthy West Virginia mine owner, will pay a $229,018.72 "compromise" inheritance tax claim to Ohio, executor J. Earl Beatty announced today.

Beatty said the amount was based on Ohio property valued at $2,535,354.26. Both Ohio and West Virginia had demanded payment of tax on the entire McKell estate, estimated to involve more than $12,000,000.

Beatty said arrangements for payment of the West Virginia tax will be made shortly.

McKell died in Chillicothe, O., where he had lived for about two years following his retirement. Most of his fortune came from mine property in Fayette and Raleigh counties, West Virginia.

He had lived most of his life at Glen Jean, Raleigh county.

First U. S. Woman Drafted Knows What Public Wants

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—In April, 1917, Harriet W. Elliott, political science teacher at the woman's college of the University of North Carolina, had invited Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, lecturer and women's leader, to address her students. But when Dr. Shaw arrived, Miss Elliott handed her a telegram. It read: "Can you come to Washington immediately to direct women's participation in the defense program? Woodrow Wilson." Dr. Shaw took the next train.

This spring, it was Miss Elliott who was the first woman drafted: President Roosevelt chose her as the only woman member of his new national defense council.

Suffragette Organizer

A vigorous campaigner in recent years for peace and arbitration, she declares "Defense is now our hope o peace."

A vigorous campaigner in recent years for peace and arbitration, she declares "Defense is now our hope of peace."

That's more than brave words with her, say her friends. She never stops with words. She's been delving into public affairs ever since she studied at Hanover College in Hanover, Ind.

She helped organize the first group of suffragettes in North Carolina. Soon she was lecturing on many issues: Free textbooks, better teachers, more schools. Now she speaks to as many men's groups as women's and North Carolina men usually ask her advice before starting drives to influence public opinion.

She doesn't look the part. She is shorter than average, round, poised, gentle, with soft blonde hair and big blue eyes. She enjoys golf, swimming and the out-of-doors. She's 66 but you're surprised to learn that if you have just seen her go through the house running at a political convention.

Harriet Was Named

She attended both the '32 and '36 Democratic conventions as a delegate-at-large. In '36 the convention voted to put women alternates on the platform committee. It was the first time in American history that women had helped write a political platform.

As soon as the resolution was passed, North Carolina's governor yelled across his delegation on the floor: "Harriet, we're going to make you the first woman named." They caucused right there and in two minutes flat Harriet was named.

She's always a little surprised when people speak as though men and women have different responsibilities toward their country. She says government is living. Women certainly have an equal responsibility, and should take equal interest and equal duties.

She's gone a long way toward that goal. She's a teacher, yes. But she has helped organize 30,000 Democratic women into discussion groups, served on the North Carolina social service conference, the relief administration and the Conference of Southern Governors, to name a few of her activities.

Tell Her Grandchildren

She doesn't even teach political science the usual way. She starts each day's class with the morning newspaper. She supposes the telephone call from President Roosevelt was a practical demonstration for her students of day-to-day political science. It happened this way:

Miss Elliott and her secretary were both out when the call came so a student answered, "Sorry, Miss Elliott isn't here."

"It is President Roosevelt calling," said the operator.

The youngsters dropped the phone like a live wire, raced into the college coridor and shouted: "President Roosevelt wants Miss Elliott! I think I heard his voice. Oh, I can tell my grandchildren."

Miss Elliott thinks she probably will.

Dr. Margaret Mead Honored by Sorority

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—The Chi Omega National Sorority bestowed its achievement award today upon Dr. Margaret Mead, Columbia university anthropologist, in recognition of her recent research on the human race.

Dr. Mead, a parent herself, declared in accepting the award that her studies convinced her primitive mothers developed better babies than modern mothers "who leave upbringing and training of children too often to nurses and governesses."

The presentation was made by Mary Love Collins, national president, at the sorority's summer meeting.

Pleasure Craft Dot Pacific But Few Repeat Long Cruises

BY SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer

San Francisco.—Dreamy islands of the South Seas look more inviting in war time than ever before and as a result the white sails of many American pleasure craft are dotting the wide Pacific this summer.

Some sail to Cocos Island and its fabled pirate treasure, some to the Galapagos, the Marquesses and Tahiti, others to more modest objectives off the coast of Mexico.

Prisoners of Time

But ramantic as a long South Sea cruise may seem, it was said at the St. Francis Yacht club here that few vessels except the big luxury yachts ever repeat it. It seems the skipper and his guest always keep a vivid memory of those few square feet of deck and the long long days when they were prisoners there.

It's dangerous, too. Last year the author, Richard Halliburton and his crew were lost while trying to sail from China to San Francisco.

A motor yacht on which Allen G. Ezell of San Diego was a passenger was lost 74 days before he

County Can Pay Reasonable Fee For Operation

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24. (AP)—A county court may bear reasonable cost of an operation for a patient maintained by it in an institution, the attorney general's office said today.

The opinion by Assistant W. Holt Woodell was given Prosecuting Attorney John C. Skinner of Charles Town in reply to inquiry as to whether the Jefferson county court may send a Hopemont sanitarium patient to Wasington for an operation costing at least $850.

Wooddell, in a separate opinion, said the West Virginia Real Estate Commission may permit license transfers and may refund fees, but that is is doubtful that "it could be compelled to do so."

Green Bean Pepper

Green beans often need a little pepping up. Mix a tablespoon of chopped sweet pickles with the seasonings. A small amount of finely chopped pimientos also is tasty.

Should Tell Name

When one is not introduced to and does not know the first person inthe receiving line at a reception, one should say, "I am Mrs. (or Mr.) So-and-So."

Mrs. Cara Ebert Is Re-elected Committeewoman

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—The West Virginia delegation to the Republican National Convention split today with the organization of an eight-member bloc in opposition to Wendell L. Willkie.

Claims were advanced after a conference attended by D. Boone Dawson of Charleston, Republican nominee for governor, that "at least half the state's sixteen votes" would go against Wilkie on the first ballot for a presidential nominee.

Leaders of the newly-organized delegation headed by Walter Hallanan, national committeeman, claimed yesterday eight votes for Wilkie on the first ballot and asserted others probably would switch later.

"West Virginians are here fundamentally as Republicans," said Dawson after the anti-Willkie conference. "We don't think our party so hard up we have to nominate as our standard bearer a man who was a Democrat and voted for Roosevelt in 1932, and still was listed as Democratic in 1939.

"I can honestly say that seventy-five per cent of the Republicans in West Virginia want Dewey; and the

Stocks Slightly Higher in Spite Of Adverse European Situation

Utility Section Stronger in Belief It Will Be Let Alone

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — Buying, concentrated principally in utilities, propped the stock market today in the face of adverse war news and still cloudy trends at the opening of the Republican national convention.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up .4 of a point at 41.6. Transfers of 471,990 shares compared with 333,320 last Friday.

The utility section, which has been improving recently on the belief the big defense program would serve to lift power profits substantially and inspire a friendlier governmental attitude toward this industry, was further heartened, brokers said, by revived hopes veering political winds might shift to the side of electricity manufacturers.

Prominent stocks on the forward tilt included Consolidated Edison, North American, Electric Power & Light, Commonwealth & Southern preferred, Public Service of N. J., American Power & Light, American Telephone, Westinghouse, du Pont and Union Carbide.

A shade in arrears were Sante Fe, Anaconda, Kennecott, United Aircraft, American Can and International Harvester.

Leaning forward in the Curb were Electric Bond & Share, American Gas, American Super-power, Cities Service, Niagara Hudson Power, Northern States Power "A", Pennsylvania-Central Airlines and Sherwin Williams.

Two Bands Are Coming to Strand

A new mystery picture featuring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard at the Strand will continue thru Wednesday. It is titled "The Ghost Breakers."

"The Ghost Breakers" suggests in treatment "The Cat and the Canary," that other eerie Paramount picture that proved so popular a short time ago in which Bob and Paulette also co-starred.

In addition to the co-stars and Willie Best, other members of the cast deserving mention for their excellent work include Richard Carlson, Paul Lukas, Anthony Quinn, Pedro de Cordoba and Tom Dugan.

Thursday, for one day only Tommy Tucker and his orchestra with Amy Arnell the Swanee Sweetheart, Donald Brown the romantic baritone, Kerwin Somerville the novelty singer and the Voices Three with an all new program will be on the Strand stage. The screen attraction is Lynn Bari and Donald Wood in the "City of Chance."

Friday another big name band will be on the stage, Ozzie Nelson and lovely Roseanna Stevens and the screen attraction will be the new musical comedy hit "This Will Make You Whistle."

Saturday the closing day of the theater the stage revue "Broadway on Parade" will be the attraction. On the screen is the famous O'Henry story "Lucky Cisco Kid" starring Cesar Romero and big cast.

Dolores Del Rio

Screen actress Dolores Del Rio has her hands full as she aids in unloading in Hollywood a cargo of clothing, blankets, and other necessities ultimately destined for French refugees. The beautiful star is one of many actors and actresses who have formed a committee working for the relief of refugees in France.

Job or Wife Poses Question in "Reno"

Whether business or marriage is the more important, is the question that makes up the basis of "Reno," RKO Radio's newest dramatic offering co-starring Richard Dix and Gail Patrick.

Dix is a young attorney in Reno in its early days. After a whirlwind marriage to Miss Patrick and the birth of their daughter, he finds himself without work when the Nevada mines close down. In desperation he remembers the odd residence laws in the Nevada statutes and their liberality regarding suitable grounds for divorce.

Capitalizing on the situation, he soon finds himself with a profitable divorce clientele. But his wife, unable to approve of his frequent conferences with would-be divorcees, decided to leave him, and he is faced with the choice between giving her up or beginning a new career elsewhere.

From romance and kisses to frowns and hisses!

That's the way that Anne Nagel described her transformation from wistful heroine to glittering vamp in recent screen roles.

"But it's all in the interest of an acting career," Miss Nagel explains. "When you play a villainess the audience keeps watching to see what sort of scheme you'll try to put over next. They may not approve the character, but they're very interested in what she is doing."

Cantor Film Now At the Maryland

Eddie Cantor proved yesterday at the Maryland theater where he opened in "The Story of Forty Little Mothers" that he doesn't need a chorus of a hundred beautiful girls in scanties to entertain his public. Playing a real human being without pulling one gag and singing only one song, the lilting lullaby, "Little Curly Hair in a High Chair," Eddie scores a distinct personal triumph as an actor.

"The story of Forty Little Mothers" is an adaptation of the French comedy, "Monsieur Petiot," by Jean Guitton. It is the story of a timid professor who prevents a despondent mother from committing suicide and then inadvertently inherits her baby which he finds abandoned on a mission steps.

When the professor gets a job at a girls' boarding school he surreptitiously takes the baby with him and attempts to keep it secretly in his rooms. The girls, who think he isn't as handsome as his predecessor, plot to have him fired. Then they find the baby and, instead, become forty little mothers.

New Program at Embassy Tomorrow

Closing today at the Embassy theater will be the double feature attraction consisting of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic hit "Remember" starring Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres. The second hit stars Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms in "Blondie Brings Up Baby".

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy will be a twin hit attraction with Cedric Hardwicke, Anne Lee, Roland Young and Paul Robeson in "King Solomon's Mines", and "Mile A Minute Love" starring William Bakewell and Duncan Reynaldo. In addition to the two features there will be the second chapter of the serial hit "Drums of Fu Manchu".

STARS IN "THE MAN FROM DAKOTA"

Escape from Slum Is Theme of Feature

The drama which follows when a friendless girl is so ashamed of her disreputable family that she tries to disown it weaves into a pattern of complications in "Primrose Path," currenly starring Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea at the Garden Theater.

Miss Rogers is cast as the ashamed daughter of a sordid family living "across the tracks." When she suddenly falls in love with a gay young man who operates a hamburger stand down near the fish canneries, she does not let him know anything about her kin. She deserts her home to marry the boy, and it is not until after their marriage that he learns of her unsavory background.

The inevitable separation, the return of the unhappy girl to her disgraceful family, the temptations which confront her when her mother dies and she is faced with becoming the breadwinner of the motley group, lead to the climax of this down-to-earth drama.

Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers, Miles Mander, Queenie Vassar and Joan Carroll have important supporting roles in "Primrose Path," which Gregory La Cava directed and produced for RKO Radio.

"International set" is an accurate description of the chief players in Paramount's comedy drama, "Adventure in Diamonds," also showing at the Garden. Very much in the limelight are Eire's George Brent, Lombardy's Isa Miranda, America's Elizabeth Patterson and England's John Loder, Nigel Bruce and Ralph Forbes. The locale is the Union of South Africa and its gay metropolis Cape Town, a region seldom seen on the screen.

SINISTER!

Illness Fatal To Resident Of Mt. Zion

Mrs. Ada Ravenscroft Succumbs Following Stroke of Paralysis

GRANTSVILLE, June 24.—Mrs. Ada Newman Ravenscroft, 73, wife of William Ravenscroft, died at her home in the Mt. Zion section Saturday following a stroke of paralysis. She had been ill for several years. She was born near State Line Feb. 14, 1867, a daughter of Henry and Barbara Newman.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, ars one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Simpkins and one son Henry Fay Ravenscroft, both at home; one sister, Mrs. Sadie Shumaker, near Mt. Zion, and four grandchildren. For many years Mrs. Ravenscroft had been a member of the Salisbury, Pa., Evangelical and Reformed church.

Brief Items

Nevin U. Broadwater, Floyd C. C. Diehl, Dr. Clayton Diehl, Harry L. Yommer, Hubert Stanton, Arthur Resh and Henry Durst returned last night from an enjoyable fishing trip to Delaware Bay, near Milford, Del. They report a catch of approximately 485 fish, mostly trout and croakers. The largest trout was estimated at about twenty inches and the biggest croaker at about three and a half pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Livengood had as their guests for the week-end, Mrs. Livengood's brother, J. W. Messersmith and daughter, Virginia, Hagerstown; Lieutenant Joseph Messersmith, who has been stationed with the United States army at Lexington, Tex., and Mrs. William Baum, Cumberland. Lieut. and Mrs. Messersmith are visiting relatives in this section for a few weeks before sailing for Honolulu where they will be located.

Weekend guests of Mrs. Etta V. Engle, Englewood, were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pringle and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Gunderman, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Flickner, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Helmer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diedt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Cardell, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Abel and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mower, all of Pittsburgh.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wenrich, Hopewell, Va., arrived Saturday for a short visit with Mrs. Wenrich's parent, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Folk. Mr. Wenrich returned home after a weekend stay but Mrs. Wenrich will remain here for a time.

Eugene Bertoni returned last night from Washington, D. C., where he spent the weekend with his family.

Mrs. Benny Epstein, Mabel Schlossnagle and Foster Speicher left this morning for College Park where they will enroll for a summer course at the University of Maryland.

Miss Iva Klotz will entertain members of the Helping Hand Sunday school class at her home Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Getty left yesterday for their home at Washington, D. C., after a visit here with relatives. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Getty who will visit them in Washington.

Kenneth Wagaman, who spent the past few days with his family at Sabillasville, returned last night.

Mrs. Charles Wagner and son, Billy, left yesterday for their home in Latrobe, Pa., after having spent several weeks here during the illness and death of Mrs. Wagner's father, John Baker.

J. R. Gnagey, Jr., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gnagey, who has been attending school in Baltimore, returned home to spend his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Markel Stanton, Piedmont, W. Va., were guests of Mr. Stanton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Urban Stanton.

This Paper You're Reading Represents 500 Years' Progress

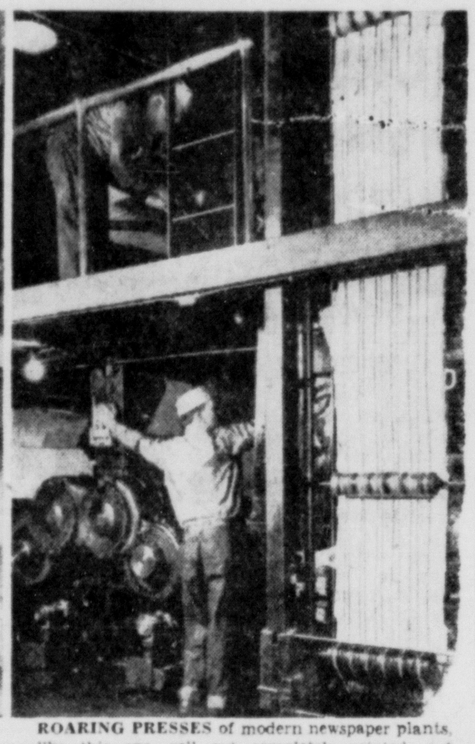

PRINTING IS 500 YEARS OLD this year and the anniversary is getting widespread observance. Until 1440, when, tradition says, Gutenberg invented movable type, monks like these preserved culture in manuscript books.

INVENTION OF THE LINOTYPE was an outstanding modern contribution. Here, Whitelaw Reid, who encouraged the inventor, Ottmar Mergenthaler, reads the first page set by linotype. Mergenthaler sits behind him.

ROARING PRESSES of modern newspaper plants, like this one, roll out completely printed, cut and folded newspapers to the tune of thousands an hour, giving the world its daily gist of news with unprecedented speed.

Wheeler Will Be Tried in Kanawha

BECKLEY, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Oscar O. Wheeler, Communist candidate for governor, will be tried on fraud and deceit charges in Kanawha county Intermediate court at Charleston on July 19, Judge Harley M. Kilgore ordered today.

Kilgore granted a change of venue sought by Wheeler's attorneys, who contended he would receive a fair trial in any county "other than Raleigh, Logan and McDowell."

Wheeler was named in nine second offense felony bills returned by a special grand jury Saturday, accusing him of misrepresentation in connection with circulation of a petition to place the Communst party on the general election ballot.

A tenth indictment named Mrs. Wheeler.

Five misdemeanor bills returned against Wheeler by the regular grand jury were nolle prossed after the special grand jury acted.

Wheeler has been in jail since his arrest June 11. Mrs. Wheeler was released upon her own recognizance.

Population of Morgantown Jumps

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Final figures showed today that the population of Monongalia county increased 1,171 in the last ten years to a total of 51,254.

The chief gain was in the city of Morgantown, which had an increase of 1,000.

Holt Defers Action On Hartman's Plea

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—Governor Holt, returning late from a business trip, deferred today consideration of a petition for executive clemency for Byzentine Hartman, 28, sentenced to be hanged Friday.

The governor, who attended the Fourth U. S. Judicial circuit meeting at Ashville, N. C., will be in his office tomorrow.

Hartman was sentenced for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Wilbur H. Grubb of Upshur county near Buckhannon April 14. Grubb was attempting to make an arrest on a charge Hartman had beaten his mother.

Two psychiatrists have visited Hartman and their report presumably will be filed with the governor, along with the petition for commutation to life imprisonment, drafted by Hartman's attorneys.

McKell Estate To Pay Huge Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—The estate of William McKell, wealthy West Virginia mine owner, will pay a $229,018.72 "compromise" inheritance tax claim to Ohio, executor J. Earl Beatty announced today.

Beatty said the amount was based on Ohio property valued at $2,535,354.26. Both Ohio and West Virginia had demanded payment of tax on the entire McKell estate, estimated to involve more than $12,000,000.

Beatty said arrangements for payment of the West Virginia tax will be made shortly.

McKell died in Chillicothe, O., where he had lived for about two years following his retirement. Most of his fortune came from mine property in Fayette and Raleigh counties, West Virginia.

He had lived most of his life at Glen Jean, Raleigh county.

First U. S. Woman Drafted Knows What Public Wants

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—In April, 1917, Harriet W. Elliott, political science teacher at the woman's college of the University of North Carolina, had invited Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, lecturer and women's leader, to address her students. But when Dr. Shaw arrived, Miss Elliott handed her a telegram. It read: "Can you come to Washington immediately to direct women's participation in the defense program? Woodrow Wilson." Dr. Shaw took the next train.

This spring, it was Miss Elliott who was the first woman drafted: President Roosevelt chose her as the only woman member of his new national defense council.

Suffragette Organizer

A vigorous campaigner in recent years for peace and arbitration, she declares "Defense is now our hope o peace."

A vigorous campaigner in recent years for peace and arbitration, she declares "Defense is now our hope of peace."

That's more than brave words with her, say her friends. She never stops with words. She's been delving into public affairs ever since she studied at Hanover College in Hanover, Ind.

She helped organize the first group of suffragettes in North Carolina. Soon she was lecturing on many issues: Free textbooks, better teachers, more schools. Now she speaks to as many men's groups as women's and North Carolina men usually ask her advice before starting drives to influence public opinion.

She doesn't look the part. She is shorter than average, round, poised, gentle, with soft blonde hair and big blue eyes. She enjoys golf, swimming and the out-of-doors. She's 66 but you're surprised to learn that if you have just seen her [illegible] political convention.

Harriet Was Named

She attended both the '32 and '36 Democratic conventions as a delegate-at-large. In '36 the convention voted to put women alternates on the platform committee. It was the first time in American history that women had helped write a political platform.

As soon as the resolution was passed, North Carolina's governor yelled across his delegation on the floor: "Harriet, we're going to make you the first woman named." They caucused right there and in two minutes flat Harriet was named.

She's always a little surprised when people speak as though men and women have different responsibilities toward their country. She says government is living. Women certainly have an equal responsibility, and should take equal interest and equal duties.

She's gone a long way toward that goal. She's a teacher, yes. But she has helped organize 30,000 Democratic women into discussion groups, served on the North Carolina social service conference, the relief administration and the Conference of Southern Governors, to name a few of her activities.

Tell Her Grandchildren

She doesn't even teach political science the usual way. She starts each day's class with the morning newspaper. She supposes the telephone call from President Roosevelt was a practical demonstration for her students of day-to-day political science. It happened this way:

Miss Elliott and her secretary were both out when the call came so a student answered, "Sorry, Miss Elliott isn't here."

"It is President Roosevelt calling," said the operator.

The youngsters dropped the phone like a live wire, raced into the college coridor and shouted: "President Roosevelt wants Miss Elliott! I think I heard his voice. Oh, I can tell my grandchildren."

Miss Elliott thinks she probably will.

Dr. Margaret Mead Honored by Sorority

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—The Chi Omega National Sorority bestowed its achievement award today upon Dr. Margaret Mead, Columbia university anthropologist, in recognition of her recent research on the human race.

Dr. Mead, a parent herself declared in accepting the award that her studies convinced her primitive mothers developed better babies than modern mothers "who leave upbringing and training of children too often to nurses and governesses."

The presentation was made by Mary Love Collins, national president, at the sorority's summer meeting.

Pleasure Craft Dot Pacific But Few Repeat Long Cruises

BY SAM JACKSON
AP Feature Service Writer

San Francisco.—Dreamy islands of the South Seas look more inviting in war time than ever before and as a result the white sails of many American pleasure craft are dotting the wide Pacific this summer.

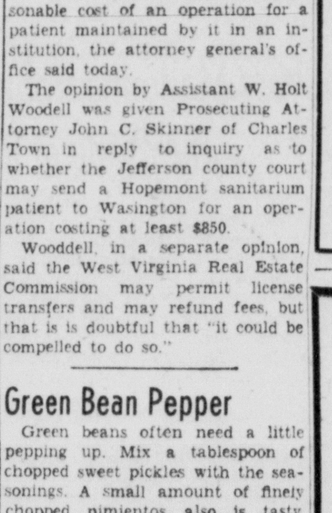

Some sail to Cocos Island for its fabled pirate treasure, some to the Galapagos, the Marquesses or Tahiti, others to more modest objectives off the coast of Mexico.

Prisoners of Time

But ramantic as a long South Sea cruise may seem, it was said at the St. Francis Yacht club here that few vessels except the big luxury yachts ever repeat it. It seems the skipper and his guest always keep a vivid memory of those 10 square feet of deck and the long long days when they were prisoners there.

It's dangerous, too. Last year the author, Richard Halliburton and his crew were lost while trying to sail from China to San Francisco.

County Can Pay Reasonable Fee For Operation

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24. (AP)—A county court may bear reasonable cost of an operation for a patient maintained by it in an institution, the attorney general's office said today.

The opinion by Assistant W. Holt Woodell was given Prosecuting Attorney John C. Skinner of Charles Town in reply to inquiry as to whether the Jefferson county court may send a Hopemont sanitarium patient to Wasington for an operation costing at least $850.

Wooddell, in a separate opinion, said the West Virginia Real Estate Commission may permit license transfers and may refund fees, but that is is doubtful that "it could be compelled to do so."

Browns Top Macks with Home Run Barrage

Walter Judnich Wallops Pair In 9-4 Win

Clift and Heffner also Belt Round-Trippers for St. Louis Outfit

Elden Auker's Sixth Victory Keeps Mound City Club in Fifth Place

ST. LOUIS, June 24 (AP)—Four home runs, one with two men on base, were hit by the St. Louis Browns today in defeating Philadelphia's Athletics, 9 to 4.

Harold Clift's seventh of the year drove in two runners ahead of him in the four-run sixth. Walt Judnich notched his ninth of the season right after Clift's blow. He had clouted his eighth in the third. Don Heffner got his first homer of the year in the fifth.

Elden Auker, batted out of the box only last Saturday by Washington, held the A's to two hits in the first five innings and gained his sixth victory of the year against five defeats.

While the Browns' scoring ended in the sixth, Philadelphia tallied its first runs in that inning on Al Brancato's single. Wally Moses's double, an infield out and Bob Johnson's single. Two more were added in the eighth. Bennie McCoy singled, Johnson walked, Dick Siebert drove McCoy home with a single and Johnson scored from third as Frank Hayes filed to Rip Radcliff.

Except for their run-scoring innings, Philadelphia did not threaten.

The Browns filled the bases in the second with two out but Clift popped to Brancato to end the inning.

The victory kept St. Louis in fifth place.

Arthur Marx Wins Tri-State Match

CINCINNATI, June 24 (AP) — A series of defaults blamed on uncertain weather marred play in the 38th annual Tri-State tennis tournament today, but several racket wielders moved through their first-round matches.

Harris Everett, of Jacksonville, Fla., seeded fifth in the men's singles, eliminated Ray Hensley, of Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0. Jack McLeod, of Indianapolis downed E. R. Beach, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1. Alex Guerry, of Chicago took Wilbur Wellage of Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-1.

Arthur Marx, son of the movie comedian Groucho Marx, and seeded ninth, defeated Ernest Stiller, of Cincinnati, 6-0, 6-2. Deacon Parsons, of Huntington, W. Va., eliminated L. K. Voorhees, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1.

Men advancing to the second round by default included John Doeg, of Cleveland, seeded second; Wendell Chapin, of Bay City, Mich.; Earl Bartlett, of New Orleans, seeded tenth, and James Evert, of Chicago, seeded eighth.

Default players included Ed Blickle and Bryan Wilkinson, of Huntington and E. Janson, of Springfield, O.

Van Mungo Is Retired; May Consider Operation On His Arm

BROOKLYN, June 24 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today that pitcher Van Lingle Mungo had been placed on the voluntary retired list and would go to Baltimore this week to consult with Dr. George E. Bennett concerning a possible operation on his arm.

Secretary John McDonald said that Mungo would prefer to postpone the operation until after the season closes and that if the physician agreed to this, Mungo would be kept in some capacity such as batting practice pitcher.

Sure Stops Win Over Buckeyes In Kelly League

Jackson Poles Second Homer of Season as His Team Loses, 6 to 4

In the third game of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company's soft ball season, played last evening, the Sure Stops defeated the Buckeyes by a score of 6-4.

This game brought together the winners of the first two contests and put the Sure Stops at the head of the league.

The game was hotly contested with Art Gordon on the mound for the Buckeyes and Twigg doing the honors for the Sure Stops. Gordon allowed 11 hits and Twigg 10.

The Sure Stops scored one run in the first inning and trailed until the last inning when they batted five runs across to win the game. The Buckeyes scored three in the second, and one in the fourth when Jackson knocked his second home run of the season. Each batter walked one man. Twigg had six strikeouts.

Heavy hitters for the Sure Stops were Jarkey, Wade, Monieth and Smith; for the Buckeyes, Frick, Angle, Fields and Jackson.

The lineups: Sure Stops —Miller, short stop; McDonald, first base; Jankey, right field; Thom, third base; Wade, catcher; Montieth short field; Smith, centerfield; Weatherholt, second base; White, left field; Twigg, short stop; Young, third base; Jackson, second base; Straw, center field; Vogel, short field; Frick, first base; Angle, right field; Fields, catcher, Gordon, pitcher.

Spriggs substituted for Weatherholt in the fourth inning, but was injured and replaced in the fifth by Weatherholt.

The next game will be played Wednesday evening when the Kellys and Tubes battle for third place.

Coach Mike Kelly And Lee Hardley Fired by Frick

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — President Ford Frick, of the National League, disclosed today that he had fined Coach Mike Kelly, of the Pittsburgh Pirates $50 and suspended him for three days and had fined third baseman Lee Handley $25 as a result of a disturbance in yesterday's Pittsburgh - Brooklyn doubleheader.

Manager Frank Frisch, who was banished by umpires along with Kelly and Handley, was not punished.

Donald McNeill Defeats Riggs For Title

Oklahoman Cops Four-Set Match; Alice Marble Tops Miss Wheeler

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Young William Donald McNeill, Oklahoma City, and the veteran Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Calif., swept major honors today in the national clay courts tennis tournament, winning the men's and women's singles titles with decisive victories.

McNeill's victim in the most interesting match of the rain-hampered tourney was Bobby Riggs, Chicago, top ranking amateur of the nation and also Wimbledon singles titleholder. McNeill employed a forcing game and sharp net attack to knock Riggs out of his fourth national clay courts title. The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3.

Riggs never approached his best form in the final which was twice interrupted by rain after being postponed yesterday.

The 22-year-old McNeill, who received his degree last week from Kenyon college, Gambier, Ohio, goes next to Philadelphia to compete in the National intercollegiate tournament.

Miss Marble disposed of Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Calif., 7-5, 6-0, in easy fashion.

The women's double final, involving Miss Marble and Mary Arnold, of Los Angeles and Miss Wheeler and Helen Bernhard, of New York, was postponed until all four arrive at Cincinnati for the Tri-State tournament.

Robert Harmon, Berkley, Calif., and Robert Peacock, Los Angeles, took the men's doubles title Sunday by default after Frank Parker, of Pasadena, Calif., teamed with McNeill for the final, declined to remain over another day.

Gassers Capture Ninth Straight

Defeat Bowman Grocers, 9-6; Merchants Trim Ridgeley, 8-0

Keegan's Gassers registered their ninth consecutive triumph in the City Softball League yesterday when they trimmed Bowman's Grocers at Community Park by the score of 9 to 6.

C. Lapp and Hose were the leading hitters for the winners with two blows each.

Minnick, pitching for the Gassers, turned in a four-hit performance.

Minnick and Koegel, of the Gassers, and Valentine, of the Grocers, blasted home runs.

The North End Merchants took possession of second place in the league by defeating the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, 8 to 0, behind the four-hit pitching of Dick Fromhart, who fanned four and permitted only one runner to reach third base.

Nuse and Phillips led the Merchants' fourteen-hit assault with two blows each while Frank Riehl and Jim Kienhofer fielded sensationally. Moreland and Robertson account for all of Ridgeley's hits while Fleming starred afield for the West Virginians by turning in a nice stop of a drive from Skidmore's bat.

The Lone Entry

In the course of the next few weeks four heavyweights will parade their wares in New Jersey and New York. The first brings Max Baer and Tony Galento under the lights in what should be a rowdy frolic. The next finds Bob Pastor and Billy Conn producing a much more scientific affair with an interesting touch.

In the way of entertainment each show should stand on its own. But when it comes to the matter of locating a challenger for Joe Louis, neither roundup belongs.

At this particular moment of leaping to press it might be stated there is no challenger for the Louis crown now in sight, no matter what telescopic aid you may use in a vain search. He has shown that Baer, Galento and Pastor don't belong in the same county, and the light-hitting Conn would be an even softer target.

Louis is a lone entry, blinking down an open road.

About Louis

There was once a general idea flopping around that after a few years of success Louis would soften up and begin to put on weight. His two burning desires, to eat and sleep were known to all.

At that time Louis was fighting at 201 or 202 pounds. But in the eleventh defense of his title—against Godoy—the Bomber weighed in at 199, which is complete proof that several years of success had added no padding fat to his big frame.

After all, Louis is only 26 or 27 years old, which is supposed to be an athlete's prime. He has been in training for too many fights to allow any surplus flesh to slow him down. He looked leaner against Godoy than he did against Carnera.

The Two Races

Your correspondent ran across Leo Durocher yesterday and found the Dodger field marshall all geared up for one of the hardest races in National League history.

"While the Dodgers, Reds and Giants have shown themselves to be evenly matched," Leo said, "there is another angle to this race. None of the leaders are picking on push-overs any more. The Cardinals may be too far away now to win, but they will be slipping the three leaders many bad headaches to the finish.

"The Phillies are also much harder to handle than they once were, especially with the pitching they can throw against you. The Cubs should be moving up. This means the Dodgers, Reds and Giants have no soft spots ahead through the rest of the summer.

"Our chance at Brooklyn? We are selling nothing about the team short. I've never worked with a team that hustled harder, that gave out more. Too many things in the way of breaks can happen to make any set prediction now, but with our share of these I know we won't be far away. I don't think I've ever seen the league as well matched as it is today—as it should be the rest of the route."

Same in American

Two main factors have given the American League the best looking pennant scrap in many seasons.

One has been the jittery condition of the Yankees, who after four years of mopping up at will are not mentally adjusted to the shoving around they have had to face. The other has been the upward rush of the Tigers. And you might recall the fact that that is no fluke flurry.

"No manager in baseball can handle pitchers any better than Del Baker," one of the Tiger aides told me. "And a manager who knows how to handle his pitching staff is a big help to any club. Baker now has one of the best pitching staffs in either league, and he helped to make it. This staff should hold up.

"Dick Bartell has been a big help to our infield, which has been one of the season's surprises. In place of the hitting falling away, I think it will get even better. The entire club is hustling and feels it has at least an even chance against any other rival outfit."

"How do they feel about the Yankees?" I asked.

"They figure the Yankees still have a chance, but they are not anything like the ball club they were the last four years. It might be different if Bill Dickey, a great catcher, could hit his old stride. But Bill can't go on forever and he has been a workhorse for ten years—a long time back of the plate. Several other Yankee stars have also taken a dip, but they are almost sure to improve later on.

"Whether they can catch Boston, Detroit and Cleveland is another argument. These three clubs are all good. The Yankees may overhaul one or two of them, but I don't believe they can hurdle all three. We'll at least have the best American League race we've known for a long time."—Released by North American Newspaper Alliance.

The Kid Looks Good

New York, June 24(AP)—Two fighters who formerly held world championships have high hopes that their younger brothers will also soon be crown-weavers. They are Max Baer, the one-time heavyweight king, whose kid brother, Buddy, is one of today's contenders, and Mike Belloise, former featherweight champion, whose brother, Steve, seeks the middleweight title.

Neil Croonquist Paces Golfers in College Tourney

Minnesota Graduate Posts Par 70 for First Half Qualifying Test

By BILL KING

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 24 (AP)—Neil Croonquist of Minneapolis, who was graduated from the University of Minnesota a few days ago, rounded out his presidency of the National Collegiate A. A.'s golf division today by leading 145 rivals with a par-70 in the first half of their qualifying test over the Ekwanok course.

While nipping his four closest rivals by a stroke, Croonquist gained his regulation figures by avoiding all of the stiff course's roughage and putting superbly while going to the turn in a two-under 33, after collecting three birdies. From there on, however, his putter failed him twice and he came home in 37, after going one over on the thirteenth and fifteenth greens.

One stroke behind Croonquist were Johnny Burke, of Georgetown, the 1938 N.C.A.A. champion, Stanford's Warren Berl, last year's runner-up, Bill (Ace) Cordingley, of Harvard, and Bill Clark, of Dartmouth.

Sixty-three of the starters were seventy-eight or better and three of them were bunched in the seventy-two group, Frank Newell, the first University of California at Los Angeles representative to compete in this 43-year old tourney, Jack Selby, Princeton, and Bert McDowell, Louisiana State, runner-up to Burke two years ago.

After tomorrow's final 18 holes of medal play, which will determine the team championship, the field will be reduced to sixty-four for match play. The order will be two rounds a day until Friday, when the semi-finalists will compete over the thirty-six holes route.

"Boots" Miller Suffers Shoulder Injury

A shoulder injury which he suffered on Saturday, June 15, has kept William "Boots" Miller, Cumberland southpaw, on the inactive list in the North Carolina State League, according to information received here.

In the eighth inning of the Thomasville-Moorsville game on the above date, Miller was injured when a player of the opposing team collided with him and the pitcher fell on his shoulder and bruised it badly. The club physician informed Miller that he had stoved his shoulder and that it would be some time before he will fully recover from the injury.

"Boots" was winning by the score of 8 to 3 and had struck out seven batsmen when the accident occurred. As he fielded a low fly ball outside the foul line between home and first, the batter ran into him and knocked him to the ground.

Latest records of the North Carolina State League show Miller's record to be four wins and four defeats.

Stand-Up Boxers Like Billy Conn Have Been "Turkey" to Joe Louis

Billy Must Look on With Admiration Until He Adds Weight, Punch

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—As our colleague Eddie Brietz pointed out, every time Joe Louis' fists marked another detour on Arturo Godoy's map it must have hurt Billy Conn, parked down there in a ringside seat. Yet Billy Conn is still yearning for a Louis match. It couldn't happen to him.

Oh no, it couldn't happen to him. It couldn't happen to Bob Pastor, the four-minute mile man. It couldn't happen to the girthy Galento. It couldn't happen to the palsied Paychek. No sir, they would take care of Mr. Louis.

But it did, and it did, and it did, and for each the saddest words of tongue or pen would probably be these: We're matched again.

Fighters Are Peculiar

Prize fighters are peculiar critters in that, no matter whom they are to meet, they talk up a pretty good argument for themselves, and what's more, they apparently begin to believe it themselves.

We recall the brave words of Maxie Baer before his bout with Lou Nova. Nova stopped him. We recall a cocky Lou Nova sitting at the ringside after watching Louis pulverize Galento, and Nova's statement he could beat both the same night. And then Nova couldn't beat the lesser of the two on one night.

Godoy was no less confident before the bout last week, and look what happened. Or on second thought, you'd better not look. It's too horrible.

So handsome Billy Conn had best heed the words of the past. Here were men talking in the same expansive way that he now talks, and with no less confidence in their ability to whittle down the Dark Destroyer.

Billy Conn is a nice kid, he is a picture boxer. He has a fighting heart.

But Billy Conn can't knock out light heavyweights. How long would the Melio Bettinas and Gus Lesnevichs who stay the limit with Billy last with Louis?

Louis has met, and defeated, opponents of every conceivable style—the crouchers, the boxers, the runners, the stand-up guys. And of all these the stand-up guys have been his turkey. And Billy Conn is a stand-up guy.

Joe Pretty Fair Boxer

He likes to pop away at long range. So does Louis, and it wouldn't take a sound detector to note which made the loudest explosion. He thinks his boxing would turn the fight in his favor. Its generally overlooked that Louis is a pretty fair country boxer himself.

So until Billy adds weight and a punch he'd better look at Louis only with admiration. No matter how clever a man might be, he wouldn't have a chance with Louis unless he could punch along with it. If he stands up and fights, Louis will tag him sooner or later, and the tag will read "Dynamite, Handle with Care."

However, it isn't only Conn who is failing to ponder the past. Galento, and Godoy, and even Maxie Baer, are loudly urging that they should be named to meet the Bomber and they should know better.

But there are guys who would turn cartwheels in a blast furnace for $20,000 or so, and anyway, prize fighters are peculiar critters.

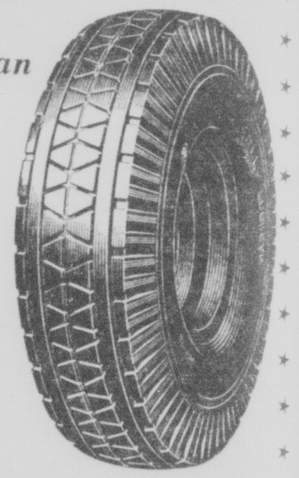

Select Circle

Chicago, June 24 (AP) — After two months of the major league campaign only nine rookies were hitting over .300. Marion Martin, who had played in 30 games, topped them with a .346 average. Others above the .300 mark were Babe Young, Giants; Witek, Giants; Rowell, Bees; Orengo, Cardinals; Gustine, Pirates; Ross, Bees, Peters, Indians; and Mack, Indians.

Stocks Slightly Higher in Spite Of Adverse European Situation

Utility Section Stronger in Belief It Will Be Let Alone

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — Buying, concentrated principally in utilities, propped the stock market today in the face of adverse war news and still cloudy trends at the opening of the Republican national convention.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up .4 of a point at 41.6. Transfers of 471,990 shares compared with 333,320 last Friday.

The utility section, which has been improving recently on the belief the big defense program would serve to lift power profits substantially and inspire a friendlier governmental attitude toward this industry, was further heartened, brokers said, by revived hopes veering political winds might shift to the side of electricity manufacturers.

Prominent stocks on the forward tilt included Consolidated Edison, North American, Electric Power & Light, Commonwealth & Southern preferred, Public Service of N. J., American Power & Light, American Telephone, Westinghouse, du Pont and Union Carbide.

A shade in arrears were Sante Fe, Anaconda, Kennecott, United Aircraft, American Can and International Harvester.

Two Bands Are Coming to Strand

A new mystery picture featuring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard at the Strand will continue thru Wednesday. It is titled "The Ghost Breakers."

"The Ghost Breakers" suggests in treatment "The Cat and the Canary," that other eerie Paramount picture that proved so popular a short time ago in which Bob and Paulette also co-starred.

In addition to the co-stars and Willie Best, other members of the cast deserving mention for their excellent work include Richard Carlson, Paul Lukas, Anthony Quinn, Pedro de Cordoba and Tom Dugan.

Thursday, for one day only Tommy Tucker and his orchestra with Amy Arnell the Swanee Sweetheart, Donald Brown the romantic baritone, Kerwin Somerville the novelty singer and the Voices Three with an all new program will be on the Strand stage. The screen attraction is Lynn Bari and Donald Wood in the "City of Chance."

Friday another big name band will be on the stage, Ozzie Nelson and lovely Roseanna Stevens and the screen attraction will be the new musical comedy hit "This Will Make You Whistle."

Saturday the closing day of the theater the stage revue "Broadway on Parade" will be the attraction. On the screen is the famous O'Henry story "Lucky Cisco Kid" starring Cesar Romero and big cast.

Dolores Del Rio

Screen actress Dolores Del Rio has her hands full as she aids in unloading in Hollywood a cargo of clothing, blankets, and other necessities ultimately destined for French refugees. The beautiful star is one of many actors and actresses who have formed a committee working for the relief of refugees in France.

Job or Wife Poses Question in "Reno"

Whether business or marriage is the more important, is the question that makes up the basis of "Reno," RKO Radio's newest dramatic offering co-starring Richard Dix and Gail Patrick.

Dix is a young attorney in Reno in its early days. After a whirlwind marriage to Miss Patrick and the birth of their daughter, he finds himself without work when the Nevada mines close down. In desperation he remembers the odd residence laws in the Nevada statutes and their liberality regarding suitable grounds for divorce.

Capitalizing on the situation, he soon finds himself with a profitable divorce clientele. But his wife, unable to approve of his frequent conferences with would-be divorcees, decided to leave him, and he is faced with the choice between giving her up or beginning a new career elsewhere.

From romance and kisses to frowns and hisses!

That's the way that Anne Nagel described her transformation from wistful heroine to glittering vamp in recent screen roles.

"But it's all in the interest of an acting career," Miss Nagel explains. "When you play a villainess the audience keeps watching to see what sort of scheme you'll try to put over next. They may not approve the character, but they're very interested in what she is doing."

Cantor Film Now At the Maryland

Eddie Cantor proved yesterday at the Maryland theater where he opened in "The Story of Forty Little Mothers" that he doesn't need a chorus of a hundred beautiful girls in scanties to entertain his public. Playing a real human being without pulling one gag and singing only one song, the lilting lullaby, "Little Curly Hair in a High Chair," Eddie scores a distinct personal triumph as an actor.

"The story of Forty Little Mothers" is an adaptation of the French comedy, "Monsieur Petiot," by Jean Guitton. It is the story of a timid professor who prevents a despondent mother from committing suicide and then inadvertently inherits her baby which he finds abandoned on a mission steps.

When the professor gets a job at a girls' boarding school he surreptitiously takes the baby with him and attempts to keep it secretly in his rooms. The girls, who think he isn't as handsome as his predecessor, plot to have him fired. Then they find the baby and, instead, become forty little mothers.

New Program at Embassy Tomorrow

Closing today at the Embassy theater will be the double feature attraction consisting of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic hit "Remember" starring Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres. The second hit stars Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms in "Blondie Brings Up Baby".

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy will be a twin hit attraction with Cedric Hardwicke, Anne Lee, Roland Young and Paul Robeson in "King Solomon's Mines", and "Mile A Minute Love" starring William Bakewell and Duncan Reynaldo. In addition to the two features there will be the second chapter of the serial hit "Drums of Fu Manchu".

STARS IN "THE MAN FROM DAKOTA"

Escape from Slum Is Theme of Feature

The drama which follows when a friendless girl is so ashamed of her disreputable family that she tries to disown it weaves into a pattern of complications in "Primrose Path," currenly starring Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea at the Garden Theater.

Miss Rogers is cast as the ashamed daughter of a sordid family living "across the tracks." When she suddenly falls in love with a gay young man who operates a hamburger stand down near the fish canneries, she does not let him know anything about her kin. She deserts her home to marry the boy, and it is not until after their marriage that he learns of her unsavory background.

The inevitable separation, the return of the unhappy girl to her disgraceful family, the temptations which confront her when her mother dies and she is faced with becoming the breadwinner of the motley group, lead to the climax of this down-to-earth drama.

Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers, Miles Mander, Queenie Vassar and Joan Carroll have important supporting roles in "Primrose Path," which Gregory La Cava directed and produced for RKO Radio.

"International set" is an accurate description of the chief players in Paramount's comedy drama, "Adventure in Diamonds," also showing at the Garden. Very much in the limelight are Eire's George Brent, Lombardy's Isa Miranda, America's Elizabeth Patterson and England's John Loder, Nigel Bruce and Ralph Forbes. The locale is the Union of South Africa and its gay metropolis Cape Town, a region seldom seen on the screen.

SINISTER!

Richard Carlson plays the deadly menace in Paramount's thrilling mystery - -comedy — "The Ghost Breakers" co-starring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard, which opened Sunday at the Strand theater.

Bob Feller Masters New York Yankees, 7-1

Cleveland Ace Bags Eleventh Triumph

Indians Increase First Place Margin to Two Games over Tigers

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP) — Bob Feller posted his eleventh victory of the season here tonight as the Cleveland Indians walloped the New York Yankees, 7 to 1, to increase their first-place margin over Detroit to two games. Feller gave up seven hits and fanned five.

Marius Russo started for the World Champions, but gave way to Bump Hadley after a three-run Cleveland rally in the second. Atley Donald finished the game for the New Yorkers.

The game, watched by a crowd of 25,000, was delayed thirty-five minutes by rain.

The Yankees scored their only run in the fifth on Hadley's double and a single by Frankie Crosetti.

HE'LL DO

Russ Peters

Cleveland officials are high in their praise of Russ Peters, bespectacled utility infielder who has managed to stick with the club despite the fact he must oust Ken Keltner, star third baseman, for a regular job. During Keltner's recent injury, Peters played great ball as well as leading the team in hitting. He came from Atlanta, and once played with the the Philadelphia A's.

Youth Will Test Age as Caseys Oppose Elks

Rocking Chair Loop Teams Clash Here Thursday in Benefit Game

It will be age and experience against youth and speed in the B. P. O. Elks-Knights of Columbus Rocking Chair Softball League game at Community Park this Thursday for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Some of the Caseys, like "Big Bill" Keegan, the mayor of Mapleside, and "Bobby" Cavanaugh are not so young and fast this season, but several of them are crowding the league's minimum age limit of 25 years and nearly all are still on the sunny side of 30.

Practically all of the Elks, on the other hand, are over 30, and a few have passed the 40-mark. Backstop Somerville Nicholson of the Elks, for instance, was cavorting on local diamonds back in 1915 B. B. (Before Blitzkrieg).

The Elks are expected to line up with John Henry Mosner on the mound and Nicholson behind the bat, "Windy" Wallis at first, Henry Buirge at second, Johnny Long—if he gets in from State College, Pa., where he is attending summer school—at short, Arden Lowndes at third, Allen Underdonk at short field, Russ Wagner in left, George Brodbeck in center, and Elmo Gower in right.

When the Casey outfit takes the field it probably will have Jack Loibel in the box with Paul Stakem catching, Moe "Bomber" Becker at first, either Keegan or Manager Paul Nose at second, Cavanaugh at short, Maurice Stegmaier at third, Tom Connell at short field, Ed Mullen or George Chapman in left, Ray Madden in center, and Pat Conway in right.

Despite the fact that they are pretty much like "The Old Gray Mare," Elks tossers are leading the Rocking Chair circuit with a record of four victories—including an 8-5 decision over K. of C.—and only one defeat.

The Casey team has won four of six starts and holds second place in the standing. Manager Nose has improved his team since the first meeting of the rivals, adding Stegmaier, Conway and others and he's confident "class will tell" in Thursday's battle.

Paw Paw Ace Tops Tri-State School Baseball League

Charles Robey Showed Way In Batting and Hurling

Charles Robey, Paw Paw High School tosser who attracted the attention of major league scouts this spring, led both the batting and pitching departments of the Tri-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference, according to records just released.

Playing in the outfield when not working on the slab, Robey stepped to the plate 32 times, banged out 15 hits, scored 11 runs, didn't commit an error and had a batting average of .469.

Robey received credit for six of Paw Paw's victories and was charged with only one defeat. He pitched 57 innings, led the conference in strikeouts with 70 and issued 17 bases on balls.

Lou Bell and George Geatz, two Allegany players, ran Robey a close race for slugging laurels. Bell, who led city batsmen, had an average of .457 in the conference and was second .002 points ahead of Geatz. Bell had 16 hits in 35 trips and Geatz poled 15 blows in 33 appearances.

Spring, Paw Paw Fourth

Paw Paw's other representative on the "Big Ten" is Spring, fourth with .414 for 29 attempts. Milton Cochrane, Allegany catcher was fifth with .382 and is followed by Paul Evans, Hyndman, .381; Joe Horwath, Fort Hill, .357; Jim Gaffney, Allegany, .333; Leatherman, Beall, .333; Homer Frye, Fort Hill, .333, and Burkett, Beall, .333.

Cochrane and Burkett tied for most runs, 13. Bell had the greatest number of hits. Seven boys who batted 20 times or more didn't have an error.

Cochrane had the most doubles, five; Leatherman and Horwath tied for most triples, two; Gaffney led in home runs with two, and Burkett of Beall was way ahead in stolen bases with a dozen.

Allegany scored the most runs and Paw Paw wielded the fewest. Beall, which won the championship, tallied 74 runs to Allegany's 85 while Paw Paw gave opposing teams only 33 tallies in nine tilts. Two of LaSalle's five victories were by forfeit over Ridgeley while Allegany received one forfeit win over Ridgeley, which withdrew from the race after losing seven straight games.

Conners No. 2 Hurler

Harvey Conners of Allegany, with five triumphs against one setback, was runnerup to Robey in pitching. Conners worked 36 frames, fanned 20 and issued 20 bases on balls.

Don Miller of Fort Hill and Blair of Beall each won four of five with Blair pitching 42 1-3 boxes, striking out 55 and issuing 26 walks and Miller tossing 38 1-3 innings, fanning 28 and dealing out 17 free passes.

Dale Kinton was Hyndman's No. 1 hurler with three wins and two setbacks while Earl Holler won two of four starts for the Pennsylvanians. Gaffney copped two of three, Cook of Beall won his only two starts and Bob Dougherty of LaSalle took two games while dropping three.

Franklin See, Allegany infielder, led the conference in batting a year ago with .436 for 39 trips. Stair of Hyndman was third with .400 while Bell's average was.349.

Six of the tossers on the first ten this spring were placed on the All-Conference first team. They are Robey, Cochrane, Geatz, Bell, Gaffney and Spring. Leatherman, Frye and Horwath were given second-team berths. Batting and pitching records follow:

NATIONAL OPEN PLAYOFF -- AGAIN!

Ed Oliver

Lawson Little

There may be another playoff of the National Open golf championship — but Gene Sarazen won't be the opponent of Lawson Little, who won the title recently in Cleveland. Little has invited Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., youth, to play him a series of three out of five 36-hole matches to compensate for Oliver's misfortune at Cleveland when officials disqualified him although he finished in a tie with Little and Sarazen for the regulation 72 holes. He was disqualified for starting too soon.

Jamestown Boy Leads In Marbles Tourney

WILDWOOD, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Harry E. Brown, Jamestown, N. Y., registered nine straight victories to take the lead in his league today as play started in the eighteenth annual national marble tournamet.

The twelve-year old contestant had the best percentage with nine wins out of ten matches in eastern section competition.

Other Eastern league leaders included Charles Mott, Huntington, W. Va.

Central section league pacesetters included Junior Pennington, Clarksburg, W. Va.

The Eastern and Central sections are divided into four leagues each with the winners of the two sections to compete with four champions already selected in the finals Friday.

Browns Top Macks with Home Run Barrage

Walter Judnich Wallops Pair In 9-4 Win

Clift and Heffner also Belt Round-Trippers for St. Louis Outfit

Elden Auker's Sixth Victory Keeps Mound City Club in Fifth Place

ST. LOUIS, June 24 (AP)—Four home runs, one with two men on base, were hit by the St. Louis Browns today in defeating Philadelphia's Athletics, 9 to 4.

Harold Clift's seventh of the year drove in two runners ahead of him in the four-run sixth. Walt Judnich notched his ninth of the season right after Clift's blow. He had clouted his eighth in the third. Don Heffner got his first homer of the year in the fifth.

Elden Auker, batted out of the box only last Saturday by Washington, held the A's to two hits in the first five innings and gained his sixth victory of the year against five defeats.

While the Browns' scoring ended in the sixth, Philadelphia tallied its first runs in that inning on Al Brancato's single, Wally Moses's double, an infield out and Bob Johnson's single. Two more were added in the eighth. Bennie McCoy singled, Johnson walked, Dick Siebert drove McCoy home with a single and Johnson scored from third as Frank Hayes flied to Rip Radcliff.

Except for their run-scoring innings, Philadelphia did not threaten.

The Browns filled the bases in the second with two out but Clift popped to Brancato to end the inning.

The victory kept St. Louis in fifth place.

Arthur Marx Wins Tri-State Match

CINCINNATI, June 24 (AP) — A series of defaults blamed on uncertain weather marred play in the 38th annual Tri-State tennis tournament today, but several racket wielders moved through their first-round matches.

Harris Everett, of Jacksonville, Fla., seeded fifth in the men's singles, eliminated Ray Hensley, of Cincinnnati, 6-1, 6-0. Jack McLeod, of Indianapolis downed E. R. Beach, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1. Alex Guerry, of Chicago took Wilbur Wellage of Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-1.

Arthur Marx, son of the movie comedian Groucho Marx, and seeded ninth, defeated Ernest Stiller, of Cincinnati, 6-0, 6-2. Deacon Parsons, of Huntington, W. Va., eliminated L. K. Voorheis, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1.

Men advancing to the second round by default included John Doeg, of Cleveland, seeded second; Wendell Chapin, of Bay City, Mich.; Earl Bartlett, of New Orleans, seeded tenth, and James Evert, of Chicago, seeded eighth.

Default players included Ed Blickle and Bryan Wilkinson, of Huntington and E. Janson, of Springfield, O.

Van Mungo Is Retired; May Consider Operation On His Arm

BROOKLYN, June 24 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today that pitcher Van Lingle Mungo had been placed on the voluntary retired list and would go to Baltimore this week to consult with Dr. George E. Bennett concerning a possible operation on his arm.

Secretary John McDonald said that Mungo would prefer to postpone the operation until after the season closes and that if the physician agreed to this, Mungo would be kept in some capacity such as batting practice pitcher.

WAS HE HIT?

Proof of Joe Louis' devastating punching power can be found in these pictures of Arthuro Godoy's face taken during and after his fight with the champion in New York. Louis scored a technical knockout in the eighth round before 30,000 fans.

Sure Stops Win Over Buckeyes In Kelly League

Jackson Poles Second Homer of Season as His Team Loses, 6 to 4

In the third game of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company's soft ball season, played last evening, the Sure Stops defeated the Buckeyes by a score of 6-4.

This game brought together the winners of the first two contests and put the Sure Stops at the head of the league.

The game was hotly contested with Art Gordon on the mound for the Buckeyes and Twigg doing the honors for the Sure Stops. Gordon allowed 11 hits and Twigg 10.

The Sure Stops scored one run in the first inning and trailed until the last inning when they batted five runs across to win the game. The Buckeyes scored three in the second, and one in the fourth when Jackson knocked his second home run of the season. Each batter walked one man. Twigg had six strikeouts.

Heavy hitters for the Sure Stops were Jankey, Wade, Monieth and Smith; for the Buckeyes, Frick, Angle, Fields and Jackson.

The lineups: Sure Stops —Miller, short stop; McDonald, first base; Jankey, right field; Thom, third base; Wade, catcher; Montieth short field; Smith, centerfield; Weatherholt, second base; White, left field; Twigg, short stop; Young, third base; Jackson, second base; Straw, center field; Vogel, short field; Frick, first base; Angle, right field; Fields, catcher, Gordon, pitcher.

Spriggs substituted for Weatherholt in the fourth inning, but was injured and replaced in the fifth by Weatherholt.

The next game will be played Wednesday evening when the Kellys and Tubes battle for third place.

Coach Mike Kelly And Lee Hardley Fired by Frick

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — President Ford Frick, of the National League, disclosed today that he had fined Coach Mike Kelly, of the Pittsburgh Pirates $50 and suspended him for three days and had fined third baseman Lee Handley $25 as a result of a disturbance in yesterday's Pittsburgh - Brooklyn doubleheader.

Manager Frank Frisch, who was banished by umpires along with Kelly and Handley, was not punished.

Donald McNeill Defeats Riggs For Title

Oklahoman Cops Four-Set Match; Alice Marble Tops Miss Wheeler

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Young William Donald McNeill, Oklahoma City, and the veteran Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Calif., swept major honors today in the national clay courts tennis tournament, winning the men's and women's singles titles with decisive victories.

McNeill's victim in the most interesting match of the rain-hampered tourney was Bobby Riggs, Chicago, top ranking amateur of the nation and also Wimbledon singles titleholder. McNeill employed a forcing game and sharp net attack to knock Riggs out of his fourth national clay courts title. The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3.

Riggs never approached his best form in the final which was twice interrupted by rain after being postponed yesterday.

The 22-year-old McNeill, who received his degree last week from Kenyon college, Gambier, Ohio, goes next to Philadelphia to compete in the National intercollegiate tournament.

Miss Marble disposed of Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Calif., 7-5, 6-0, in easy fashion.

The women's double final, involving Miss Marble and Mary Arnold, of Los Angeles and Miss Wheeler and Helen Bernhard, of New York, was postponed until all four arrive at Cincinnati for the Tri-State tournament.

Robert Harmon, Berkley, Calif., and Robert Peacock, Los Angeles, took the men's doubles title Sunday by default after Frank Parker, of Pasadena, Calif., teamed with McNeill for the final, declined to remain over another day.

Gassers Capture Ninth Straight

Defeat Bowman Grocers, 9-6; Merchants Trim Ridgeley, 8-0

Keegan's Gassers registered their ninth consecutive triumph in the City Softball League yesterday when they trimmed Bowman's Grocers at Community Park by the score of 9 to 6.

C. Lapp and Hose were the leading hitters for the winners with two blows each.

Minnick, pitching for the Gassers, turned in a four-hit performance.

Minnick and Koegel, of the Gassers, and Valentine, of the Grocers, blasted home runs.

The North End Merchants took possession of second place in the league by defeating the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, 8 to 0, behind the four-hit pitching of Dick Fromhart, who fanned four and permitted only one runner to reach third base.

Nuse and Phillips led the Merchants' fourteen-hit assault with two blows each while Frank Riehl and Jim Kienhofer fielded sensationally. Moreland and Robertson account for all of Ridgeley's hits while Fleming starred afield for the West Virginians by turning in a nice stop of a drive from Skidmore's bat.

Teams Play for Benefit Of Red Cross Fund

WESTERNPORT, June 24—The Rotary club softball team will play a team composed of local business men at Memorial park, Westernport, tomorrow evening at 5 o'clock.

Dr. Paul R. Wilson, is captain of the Rotary club team and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth is captain of the business men's team.

The management of the Westvaco baseball team will have charge of the sale and collection of tickets. This is one of the activities for the Red Cross war relief fund.

Games Are Sought

The North End Merchants of the City Softball League would like to arrange games with county teams for any evening this week. Games can be arranged by communicating with Robert Chisholm.

The Lone Entry

In the course of the next few weeks four heavyweights will parade their wares in New Jersey and New York. The first brings Max Baer and Tony Galento under the lights in what should be a rowdy frolic. The next finds Bob Pastor and Billy Conn producing a much more scientific affair with an interesting touch.

In the way of entertainment each show should stand on its own. But when it comes to the matter of locating a challenger for Joe Louis, neither roundup belongs.

At this particular moment of leaping to press it might be stated there is no challenger for the Louis crown now in sight, no matter what telescopic aid you may use in a vain search. He has shown that Baer, Galento and Pastor don't belong in the same county, and the light-hitting Conn would be an even softer target.

Louis is a lone entry, blinking down an open road.

About Louis

There was once a general idea flopping around that after a few years of success Louis would soften up and begin to put on weight. His two burning desires, to eat and sleep were known to all.

At that time Louis was fighting at 201 or 202 pounds. But in the eleventh defense of his title—against Godoy—the Bomber weighed in at 199, which is complete proof that several years of success had added no padding fat to his big frame.

After all, Louis is only 26 or 27 years old, which is supposed to be an athlete's prime. He has been in training for too many fights to allow any surplus flesh to slow him down. He looked leaner against Godoy than he did against Carnera.

The Two Races

Your correspondent ran across Leo Durocher yesterday and found the Dodger field marshall all geared up for one of the hardest races in National League history.

"While the Dodgers, Reds and Giants have shown themselves to be evenly matched," Leo said, "there is another angle to this race. None of the leaders are picking on push-overs any more. The Cardinals may be too far away now to win, but they will be slipping the three leaders many bad headaches to the finish.

"The Phillies are also much harder to handle than they once were, especially with the pitching they can throw against you. The Cubs should be moving up. This means the Dodgers, Reds and Giants have no soft spots ahead through the rest of the summer.

"Our chance at Brooklyn? We are selling nothing about the team short. I've never worked with a team that hustled harder, that gave out more. Too many things in the way of breaks can happen to make any set prediction now, but with our share of these I know we won't be far away. I don't think I've ever seen the league as well matched as it is today—as it should be the rest of the route."

Same in American

Two main factors have given the American League the best looking pennant scrap in many seasons.

One has been the jittery condition of the Yankees, who after four years of mopping up at will are not mentally adjusted to the shoving around they have had to face. The other has been the upward rush of the Tigers. And you might recall the fact that that is no fluke flurry.

"No manager in baseball can handle pitchers any better than Del Baker," one of the Tiger aides told me. "And a manager who knows how to handle his pitching staff is a big help to any club. Baker now has one of the best pitching staffs in either league, and he helped to make it. This staff should hold up.

"Dick Bartell has been a big help to our infield, which has been one of the season's surprises. In place of the hitting falling away, I think it will get even better. The entire club is hustling and feels it has at least an even chance against any other rival outfit."

"How do they feel about the Yankees?" I asked.

"They figure the Yankees still have a chance, but they are not anything like the ball club they were the last four years. It might be different if Bill Dickey, a great catcher, could hit his old stride. But Bill can't go on forever and he has been a workhorse for ten years—a long time back of the plate. Several other Yankee stars have also taken a dip, but they are almost sure to improve later on.

"Whether they can catch Boston, Detroit and Cleveland is another argument. These three clubs are all good. The Yankees may overhaul one or two of them, but I don't believe they can hurdle all three. We'll at least have the best American League race we've known for a long time."—Released by North American Newspaper Alliance.

The Kid Looks Good

New York, June 24 (AP)—Two fighters who formerly held world championships have high hopes that their younger brothers will also soon be crown-weavers. They are Max Baer, the one-time heavyweight king, whose kid brother, Buddy, is one of today's contenders, and Mike Belloise, former featherweight champion, whose brother, Steve, seeks the middleweight title.

Neil Croonquist Paces Golfers in College Tourney

Minnesota Graduate Posts Par 70 for First Half Qualifying Test

By BILL KING

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 24 (AP)—Neil Croonquist of Minneapolis, who was graduated from the University of Minnesota a few days ago, rounded out his presidency of the National Collegiate A. A.'s golf division today by leading 145 rivals with a par-70 in the first half of their qualifying test over the Ekwanok course.

While nipping his four closest rivals by a stroke, Croonquist gained his regulation figures by avoiding all of the stiff course's roughage and putting superbly while going to the turn in a two-under 33, after collecting three birdies. From there on, however, his putter failed him twice and he came home in 37, after going one over on the thirteenth and fifteenth greens.

One stroke behind Croonquist were Johnny Burke, of Georgetown, the 1938 N.C.A.A. champion, Stanford's Warren Berl, last year's runner-up, Bill (Ace) Cordingley, of Harvard, and Bill Clark, of Dartmouth.

Sixty-three of the starters were seventy-eight or better and three of them were bunched in the seventy-two group, Frank Newell, the first University of California at Los Angeles representative to compete in this 43-year old tourney, Jack Selby, Princeton, and Bert McDowell, Louisiana State, runner-up to Burke two years ago.

After tomorrow's final 18 holes of medal play, which will determine the team championship, the field will be reduced to sixty-four for match play. The order will be two rounds a day until Friday, when the semi-finalists will compete over the thirty-six holes route.

"Boots" Miller Suffers Shoulder Injury

A shoulder injury which he suffered on Saturday, June 15, has kept William "Boots" Miller, Cumberland southpaw, on the inactive list in the North Carolina State League, according to information received here.

In the eighth inning of the Thomasville-Moorsville game on the above date, Miller was injured when a player of the opposing team collided with him and the pitcher fell on his shoulder and bruised it badly. The club physician informed Miller that he had stoved his shoulder and that it would be some time before he will fully recover from the injury.

"Boots" was winning by the score of 8 to 3 and had struck out seven batsmen when the accident occurred. As he fielded a low fly ball outside the foul line between home and first, the batter ran into him and knocked him to the ground.

Latest records of the North Carolina State League show Miller's record to be four wins and four defeats.

Stand-Up Boxers Like Billy Conn Have Been "Turkey" to Joe Louis

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—As our colleague Eddie Brietz pointed out, every time Joe Louis' fists marked another detour on Arturo Godoy's map it must have hurt Billy Conn, parked down there in a ringside seat. Yet Billy Conn is still yearning for a Louis match. It couldn't happen to him.

Oh no, it couldn't happen to him. It couldn't happen to Bob Pastor, the four-minute mile man. It couldn't happen to the girthy Galento. It couldn't happen to the palsied Paychek. No sir, they would take care of Mr. Louis.

But it did, and it did, and it did, and for each the saddest words of tongue or pen would probably be these: We're matched again.

Fighters Are Peculiar

Prize fighters are peculiar critters in that, no matter whom they are to meet, they talk up a pretty good argument for themselves, and what's more, they apparently begin to believe it themselves.

We recall the brave words of Maxie Baer before his bout with Lou Nova. Nova stopped him. We recall a cocky Lou Nova sitting at the ringside after watching Louis pulverize Galento, and Nova's statement he could beat both the same night. And then Nova couldn't beat the lesser of the two on one night.

Godoy was no less confident before the bout last week, and look what happened. Or on second thought, you'd better not look. It's too horrible.

So handsome Billy Conn had best heed the words of the past. Here were men talking in the same expansive way that he now talks, and with no less confidence in their ability to whittle down the Dark Destroyer.

Billy Conn is a nice kid, he is a picture boxer. He has a fighting heart.

But Billy Conn can't knock out light heavyweights. How long would the Melio Bettinas and Gus Lesnevichs who stay the limit with Billy last with Louis?

Louis has met, and defeated, opponents of every conceivable style—the crouchers, the boxers, the runners, the stand-up guys. And of all these the stand-up guys have been his turkey. And Billy Conn is a stand-up guy.

Joe Pretty Fair Boxer

He likes to pop away at long range. So does Louis, and it wouldn't take a sound detector to note which made the loudest explosion. He thinks his boxing would turn the fight in his favor. Its generally overlooked that Louis is a pretty fair country boxer himself.

So until Billy adds weight and a punch he'd better look at Louis only with admiration. No matter how clever a man might be, he wouldn't have a chance with Louis unless he could punch along with it. If he stands up and fights, Louis will tag him sooner or later, and the tag will read "Dynamite, Handle with Care."

However, it isn't only Conn who is failing to ponder the past. Galento, and Godoy, and even Maxie Baer, are loudly urging that they should be named to meet the Bomber and they should know better.

But there are guys who would turn cartwheels in a blast furnace for $20,000 or so, and anyway, prize fighters are peculiar critters.

Bob Feller Masters New York Yankees, 7-1

Cleveland Ace Bags Eleventh Triumph

Indians Increase First Place Margin to Two Games over Tigers

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP) — Bob Feller posted his eleventh victory of the season here tonight as the Cleveland Indians walloped the New York Yankees, 7 to 1, to increase their first-place margin over Detroit to two games. Feller gave up seven hits and fanned five.

Marius Russo started for the World Champions, but gave way to Bump Hadley after a three-run Cleveland rally in the second. Atley Donald finished the game for the New Yorkers.

The game, watched by a crowd of 25,000, was delayed thirty-five minutes by rain.

The Yankees scored their only run in the fifth on Hadley's double and a single by Frankie Crosetti.

Russ Peters

Cleveland officials are high in their praise of Russ Peters, bespectacled utility infielder who has managed to stick with the club despite the fact he must oust Ken Keltner, star third baseman, for a regular job. During Keltner's recent injury, Peters played great ball as well as leading the team in hitting. He came from Atlanta, and once played with the the Philadelphia A's.

Youth Will Test Age as Caseys Oppose Elks

Rocking Chair Loop Teams Clash Here Thursday in Benefit Game

It will be age and experience against youth and speed in the B. P. O. Elks-Knights of Columbus Rocking Chair Softball League game at Community Park this Thursday for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Some of the Caseys, like "Big Bill" Keegan, the mayor of Mapleside, and "Bobby" Cavanaugh are not so young and fast this season, but several of them are crowding the league's minimum age limit of 25 years and nearly all are still on the sunny side of 30.

Practically all of the Elks, on the other hand, are over 30, and a few have passed the 40-mark. Backstop Somerville Nicholson of the Elks, for instance, was cavorting on local diamonds back in 1915 B. B. (Before Blitzkrieg).

The Elks are expected to line up with John Henry Mosner on the mound and Nicholson behind the bat, "Windy" Wallis at first, Henry Buirge at second, Johnny Long—if he gets in from State College, Pa., where he is attending summer school—at short, Arden Lowndes at third, Allen Underdonk at short field, Russ Wagner in left, George Brodbeck in center, and Elmo Gower in right.

When the Casey outfit takes the field it probably will have Jack Loibel in the box with Paul Stakem catching, Moe "Bomber" Becker at first, either Keegan or Manager Paul Nose at second, Cavanaugh at short, Maurice Stegmaier at third, Tom Connell at short field, Ed Mullen or George Chapman in left, Ray Madden in center, and Pat Conway in right.

Despite the fact that they are pretty much like "The Old Gray Mare," Elks tossers are leading the Rocking Chair circuit with a record of four victories—including an 8-5 decision over K. of C.—and only one defeat.

The Casey team has won four of six starts and holds second place in the standing. Manager Nose has improved his team since the first meeting of the rivals, adding Stegmaier, Conway and others and he's confident "class will tell" in Thursday's battle.

Paw Paw Ace Tops Tri-State School Baseball League

Charles Robey Showed Way In Batting and Hurling

Charles Robey, Paw Paw High School tosser who attracted the attention of major league scouts this spring, led both the batting and pitching departments of the Tri-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference, according to records just released.

Playing in the outfield when not working on the slab, Robey stepped to the plate 32 times, banged out 15 hits, scored 11 runs, didn't commit an error and had a batting average of .469.

Robey received credit for six of Paw Paw's victories and was charged with only one defeat. He pitched 57 innings, led the conference in strikeouts with 70 and issued 17 bases on balls.

Lou Bell and George Geatz, two Allegany players, ran Robey a close race for slugging laurels. Bell, who led city batsmen, had an average of .457 in the conference and was second .002 points ahead of Geatz. Bell had 16 hits in 35 trips and Geatz poled 15 blows in 33 appearances.

Spring, Paw Paw Fourth

Paw Paw's other representative on the "Big Ten" is Spring, fourth with .414 for 29 attempts. Milton Cochrane, Allegany catcher was fifth with .382 and is followed by Paul Evans, Hyndman, .381; Joe Horwath, Fort Hill, .357; Jim Gaffney, Allegany, .333; Leatherman, Beall, .333; Homer Frye, Fort Hill, .333, and Burkett, Beall, .333.

Cochrane and Burkett tied for most runs, 13. Bell had the greatest number of hits. Seven boys who batted 20 times or more didn't have an error.

Cochrane had the most doubles, five; Leatherman and Horwath tied for most triples, two; Gaffney led in home runs with two, and Burkett of Beall was way ahead in stolen bases with a dozen.

Allegany scored the most runs and Paw Paw wielded the fewest. Beall, which won the championship, tallied 74 runs to Allegany's 85 while Paw Paw gave opposing teams only 33 tallies in nine tilts. Two of LaSalle's five victories were by forfeit over Ridgeley while Allegany received one forfeit win over Ridgeley, which withdrew from the race after losing seven straight games.

Conners No. 2 Hurler

Harvey Conners of Allegany, with five triumphs against one setback, was runnerup to Robey in pitching. Conners worked 36 frames, fanned 20 and issued 20 bases on balls.

Don Miller of Fort Hill and Blair of Beall each won four of five with Blair pitching 42 1-3 boxes, striking out 55 and issuing 26 walks and Miller tossing 38 1-3 innings, fanning 28 and dealing out 17 free passes.

Dale Kinton was Hyndman's No. 1 hurler with three wins and two setbacks while Earl Holler won two of four starts for the Pennsylvanians. Gaffney copped two of three, Cook of Beall won his only two starts and Bob Dougherty of LaSalle took two games while dropping three.

Franklin See, Allegany infielder, led the conference in batting a year ago with .436 for 39 trips. Stair of Hyndman was third with .400 while Bell's average was.349.

Six of the tossers on the first ten this spring were placed on the All-Conference first team. They are Robey, Cochrane, Geatz, Bell, Gaffney and Spring. Leatherman, Frye and Horwath were given second-team berths. Batting and pitching records follow:

NATIONAL OPEN PLAYOFF -- AGAIN!

Ed Oliver

Lawson Little

There may be another playoff of the National Open golf championship — but Gene Sarazen won't be the opponent of Lawson Little, who won the title recently in Cleveland. Little has invited Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., youth, to play him a series of three out of five 36-hole matches to compensate for Oliver's misfortune at Cleveland when officials disqualified him although he finished in a tie with Little and Sarazen for the regulation 72 holes. He was disqualified for starting too soon.

Jamestown Boy Leads In Marbles Tourney

WILDWOOD, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Harry E. Brown, Jamestown, N. Y., registered nine straight victories to take the lead in his league today as play started in the eighteenth annual national marble tournamet.

The twelve-year old contestant had the best percentage with nine wins out of ten matches in eastern section competition.

Other Eastern league leaders included Charles Mott, Huntington, W. Va.

Central section league pacesetters included Junior Pennington, Clarksburg, W. Va.

The Eastern and Central sections are divided into four leagues each with the winners of the two sections to compete with four champions already selected in the finals Friday.

Stray Hound Dog Bites Baby Girl Playing at Home

Health Authorities Hunt for Dog, Don't Find It

Two children, one a two-year-old girl, were treated yesterday morning at Allegany hospital after being bitten by dogs.

Elaine Leasure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Leasure, of Bedford road, was bitten beneath her right eye and on the side of the face by a stray hound dog.

Her parents said she was playing alone on the back porch when the animal approached, bit her and fled.

Hospital attendants said they notified the city health officials before discharging the two children.

Health officers reported last night that they inspected the police dog and are holding it for the customary fourteen days, pending examinations at intervals. The stray hound was not found.

Dr. Stamp Heads Exchange Club

Stag Outing at Lake Planned for Sunday

Dr. Frank E. Stamp was elected president of the Exchange club last night to succeed H. C. Gregory.

Other officers named at the club's weekly dinner-meeting at Central YMCA are Charles L. George, vice-president; George H. Tederick, secretary; and J. Louis Pierce, Jr., treasurer.

Members of the board of control, in addition to the officers, are Mayor Harry Irvine, C. A. Murray, and John W. Waugh.

Janitors Get Raise; City Playground Leaders Named

William H. Brubaker and William J. Himmler, janitors at the city hall, had their salaries increased ten dollars monthly by an order passed yesterday by the mayor and council. The new rate of $90 monthly for each man will become effective July 1.

The council also approved the lease contracts of the Automatic Signal Signal Corporation, of East Norwalk, Conn., for city traffic lights. The lights at Braddock, Fayette and Greene streets and McMullen highway are leased for $12 a week, while the traffic signal at Maryland avenue and Williams streets cost $6 a week.

The Misses Marion Taylor, Mary Burger, Jeannette Lapp, Jean Miller and Ruth Leonard were appointed playleaders at the city playgrounds for the months of July and August. Each leader will receive $50 monthly.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was ordered paid $2,263.10 for the surfacing of Cumberland street between Johnson street and Washington street and Fayette street between Johnson and Cumberland streets.

A donation of $100 was made by the city to the local chapter of the American Red Cross as a contribution to the European war relief fund.

Approval of an ordinance to grade, pave, curb and sidewalk Frederick street from Fechtig avenue to the city limits was given.

Harvey Forney Given Six-Months Sentence

Harvey Forney, of Cumberland, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrate court for violating conditions of a suspended sentence on a charge of vagrancy.

Forney was arraigned May 20 in court on a vagrancy count and was given a suspended six months jail term on condition he leave Cumberland and seek employment.

He was arrested last Tuesday by Officer Frank A. Shober, Jr., on a drunk charge and was sentenced to five days in jail in default of a $5 fine. He was taken to trial Magistrates court and sentenced after being released from jail yesterday morning.

Pauline House To Report On National 4-H Camp

The [illegible] of the Junior Extension 4-H club and their friends have been invited to meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beggs, in LaVale.

Pauline House will discuss 4-H National Camp and Mary Hardinger and others will report on the Rural Women's Short Course held last week at College Park.

The boys will nominate their delegates to Club Week and arrangements will be made for the weekend camp June 29-30 at Camp Algawa.

3 Sergeants Scalped In Police Blitzkrieg

Mayor Harry Irvine and Commissioner James "Blitzkrieg" Orr, assisted by the vote of Commissioner William J. Edwards, exploded a demotion bomb in the police department yesterday and set three sergeants back to the role of plain privates.

There was much talk last night of more explosions to follow, but as far as the mayor and the new police commissioner were concerned further details were as scarce as in any other Blitzkrieg.

Conlon Protests

Commissioner Thomas Conlon protested loudly, declared the shake-up was no economy move, and wanted the public to demand an investigation.

Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds, in line with his usual policy, said nothing, but voted No, indicating that he doesn't have the reserved seat on the Irvine bandwagon which he once had, or was generally regarded as having.

Van's Pay Raised

Only apparent booty of the Blitzkrieg went to Lieut. James E. Van, who gets a $10 a month raise; and to Patrolman Wellington B. Lovenstein, who was elevated to the desk sergeant's chair warmed for eight long years by Sergeant William M. Connell, who will now ride around in a cruiser car as Patrolman Connell.

Others to get the demotion axe were Sergeant Raymond R. "Mooney" Johnston and Sergeant B. Frank Gaffney. The reason, as Commissioner Orr puts it, was because the department doesn't need so many sergeants.

No reason at all was given, however, for putting Connell back on the street.

No Ill Feeling, Says Orr

Commissioner Orr, who drew the nickname "Blitzkrieg" because it was he who presented the demotion order to council, did say, however, that no one was reduced in rank because of any ill feeling. Which was generally regarded as the polite thing to say.

Commissioned Conlon openly expressed his opposition to the changes, on the grounds that it was unfair to reduce the rank of an officer unless there was some grievance against the man involved and the charges brought out into the open.

Saves City Nothing

The Blitzkrieg will save the city the magnificent sum of nothing a month. Johnston, Gaffney, and Connell will have their pay cut from $140 to $135 a month, but Lovenstein gets a raise of $5 to the $140 bracket, while Lieut. Van's raise wipes out what Johnston and Gaffney give up.

Lieut. Van's salary was raised from $140 to $150 a month. Chief Oscar A. Eyerman will continue to get $200 a month, and Assistant Chief John J. Trieber will continue to get $170.

Sergt. Browne Gets Day Shift

The order also provides the present $135 a month for all other members of the force except the probationers, who get only $100 for the first year.

Under the new set-up, Lovenstein will be on the sergeant's desk from 4 p. m. to midnight. Sergeant Bert B. Browne will get the shift from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Sergeant Milford Crabtree will keep the shift from midnight to 8 a. m.

Connell will be on a cruiser car with Reid C. Cassen from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

It happens that the three men demoted were the chief contacts between the police department and the state's attorney's office.

Gaffney Still a Detective

Gaffney, who was especially close to the state's attorney's office, will continue his sleuthing, but without the rather impressive title of "Detective Sergeant." Johnston, too, will continue on his same old job with the motorcycle patrol.

Connell who is 60, hold third place in seniority in the police department, having been a member since May 17, 1918. He has filled the post of desk sergeant since the death of Thomas Hasson. Johnston stands sixth in seniority, having joined the department Feb. 28, 1922.

John H. Newhouse was changed at his own request from the day shift to the 1 a. m. to 9 a. m., shift, and Edward P. Wilson was tranferred from the 1 to 9 shift to the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shift.

Reserve Officers Needed in Army

May Report Now For Active Duty

America's feverish defense program was brought home to many members of the Officers Reserve Corps this week.

Letters from the Baltimore headquarters of the Third Corps area advised all first and second lieutenants that they may if they wish be detailed to active duty "for an initial period of one year, with the privilege of extending it for additional one-year periods during the period of the emergency."

The detailing of the officers from reserve to active duty has been authorized by the War Department according to the letter from Major Charles D. Carle, acting assistant adjutant-general.

The order affects first and second lietenants who have not reached their thirty-fifth birthday. Priority will be given lieutenants under the age of 30 and especially recent ROTC graduates.

The extension of the active duty over a one-year period depends, the letter says, on the "availability of funds" and the satisfactory performance of the officer, as well as the continuation of the "emergency."

It was not learned immediately if any reserve officers in the Cumberland area intended to take advantage of the opportunity.

Meanwhile, several Cumberland business and professional men were reported seriously considering enrolling for the 30-day training course offered civilians between the ages of 25 and 50 in connection with the CMTC program. The course is designed to acquaint leaders of communities with Army functions and the preparedness program.

Leiut. Col. George Henderson, to whom applications for enrollment for this course may be submitted, said last night, however, that no one from here had yet applied so far as he knew.

Colonel Henderson also declared that rumors that the National Guard summer encampment might be extended beyond the three-week period now scheduled were without foundation.

Forty Scouts To Get Honors

J. Hodge Smith To Preside

Merit badges and other awards will be presented to more than forty Boy Scouts at a Cumberland district Court of Honor at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

A Star Scout award will go to Kenneth Alderton, of Troop 7, and Charles Glover, of Troop 9, will be advanced to first-class rank. Second-class awards will go to James Lane, of Troop 2 and Lawrence Cecil, Elwood Cecil, John Sindy and Robert Curry, of Troop 9.

Merit badges will be awarded as follows: David W. Sloan III, of Troop 4, printing, public speaking, dog care and bird study; John W. Sloan, of Troop 4, athletics; Kenneth Alderton, of Troop 7, woodturning and woodwork; Philip Freeland, of Troop 8, scholarship; James Grant, of Troop 9, woodwork and metal work; and Howard Taylor, of Troop 13, electricity.

"Standard Camper" awards will be presented to Scouts receiving this rating at the recent comporee at the Smith farm near Rawlings. They include:

Robert Twigg, Jack Averman, Richard Averman, Bill Mosner, Fred Neely, Jack Fossett, Frank Kelly and Earl Conn, of the Flying Eagle patrol of Troop 6; Keith Rader, Donald Hoyle, Earl Hite, Jim Davis, Jim Settle and Bill Powell, of the Beaver patrol of Troop 2.

J. Hodge Smith will preside, assisted by James Alfred Avirett and L. F. Keller.

Cumberland Elks Win Ritualistic Contest

The ritualistic team of Cumberland Elks Lodge No. 63 will be one of five competitors at the August convention of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia State Elks Association in Annapolis.

The team won the right to represent Western Maryland Sunday by copping first place in a degree exemplification contest Sunday at Hagerstown.

Members of the group are John H. Mosner, Alfred E. Howe, Lester Deneen, George R. Lyming, Harry I. Stegmaier, J. Douglas Heron, Dr. Albert C. Cook and Elmer B. Gower.

Jr. Association Plans Discussion Of '4-Year Plan'

Business, Professional Men Asked To Speak On Proposed Change

Members of the board of directors of the Junior Association of Commerce agreed last night to invite five business and professional men to attend the next regular Association meeting to discuss the "Four Year Plan."

A list of names was compiled and these men will be contacted by George Schwarzenbach and Thomas B. Finan this week and invited to explain their views on the Association's proposal to increase the terms of office of the Mayor and City Council from two to four years, and to use the money saved in the eliminated election to increase salaries of these five city officials.

The board of directors has unanimously approved the idea as a project for the Association, but the membership, at their last meeting, asked for a round-table discussion or presentation of various phases of the project, from a number of prominent citizens.

The next meeting will be July 15, at a place to be announced.

. . . .Admit Two New Members . . . .

The board approved the names of Bruce M. Mackey and Jack L. Malone for membership. The Associations membership now numbers 125.

The board also voted to pay the campership fee of one Girl Scout to the summer encampment, at a request from the local Girl Scout organization.

A letter from Colonel George Henderson, chairman for Allegany county of the Citizens Military Training Camps was read, setting forth information pertaining to the summer training period. The latter was placed on file for the use of any interested members.

Open Headquarters

J. Hodge Smith was named chairman of the committee to supervise the NYA project which will keep Washington's Headquarters in Riverside Park open for visitors and tourists, throughout the summer. The headquarters was opened last summer through the efforts of the Association, and many people visited the historic little building. The opening schedule, which is being prepared by Smith, will begin July 1.

Following a report by Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Community Forum Committee, the Board approved a tentative list of speakers submitted by the committee. Finan's committee was authorized to set dates for the lectures and to enter into contracts with speakers who were considered and will be available.

Forum Speakers Hard To Get

Finan explained that the committee has had six meetings and will meet again Wednesday night. He said over two hundred speakers have been contacted and scores of letters written in an effort to work out a complete and interesting Forum program for next fall and winter.

The committee has found that because of the European war situation, and the coming national election, it is difficult to work out a well-balanced program. Many speakers who have been requested by various individuals will not be available because of the campaign, and will make no commitments after those dates. Others are in Europe or other foreign ports as correspondents for newspapers or observers and may not return in time.

However, Finan told the committee, several nationally-prominent figures are available and the program will be one of the best yet offered by the Forum. He assured the Board that there will be at least five lectures.

Eyerman Warns Bike Riders

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman warned yesterday that all bicycles not displaying 1940 tags on July 1 will be ordered off the streets and impounded for at least one week.

He stated that bicycle owners had been given ten days in which to obtain police permits and out of approximately 1,700 vehicles in the city only 495 persons have applied for tags.

Permits are issued at the Public Safety building between 9 a. m., and 3 p. m.

Today all riders residing on the West Side, between Washington street, Braddock road, the city limits, Potomac river and Will's creek will be issued permits.

Gulf Grants Vacation And Military Leave

The Gulf Oil Coropration will grant its employes paid vacations in addition to leave for military service as members of the National Guard or Reserve Corps, according to Luther P. Shaffer, agent for the Cumberland territory.

Employes attending encampments for periods up to one month will be paid the difference between their salaries and their military compensation so that their income while on active duty will remain unchanged, according to Shaffer, and they will also receive a two-weeks vacation with pay. This ruling affects two Cumberland men, E. A. Teeter and Carl R. Senkbell, Shaffer said.

The corporation has also ruled that employes who are called or who volunteer for military service will be granted leaves of absence without pay, their jobs held open for them.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Larsen, of Chicago, have returned home after being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Allan Weatherholt, 426 Fayette street. Mr. Larsen and Mr. Weatherholt were associated in the newspaper business in Indiana for two years.

Speeder Pays $2

Luther M. Weltman, 32 Boone street, was fined $2 yesterday in Police court for speeding on the West Side.

Legion Boys Camp To Open July 8

The Boys' Camp at Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, at Stillwaters near Flintstone, will open for the third annual season on Monday, July 8, with Pat Conway as director. The camp will be open for a period of four weeks.

The committee in charge consists of Roy B. Whitson, Leo Reichert, Vincent Ingram, Frederick Puderbaugh, John J. McCarty and Robert Bowers. Newt Parrish will act as camp cook.

Those interested are requested to register with Roy B. Whitson, 323 City View Terrace or phone 1862 J.

Last season's average enrollment was forty boys a week.

Beer License Transferred

Circuit Court yesterday authorized Clement A. Murphy, doing business at 190 Wineow street, to transfer his beer license to Ambrose Frederick

Thank goodness someone has come to the rescue of this column by supplying the promised formula for making an old-fashioned rose jar.

The formula is more complicated, more mysterious that we had imigained.

Best assured, however, that it is authoritative, because it comes from Garrett county, where the old-fashioned accomplishments still flourish.

The display of roses in Cumberland this year has been richer, more profuse, and more beautiful than for some time. Some readers may want to preserve some of the beauty of this Summer of the Roses.

Since rose jars last for years (according to the Grantsville formula), one made this year may be more than a reminder of the roses; it may be a reminder of rosy, happy times such as America may not know again for years. It is to be hoped, however, that this is unduly pessimistic.

You can make your rose jar optimistic or pessimistic simply by mixing in a few of your own feelings.

The other ingredients are carefully outlined in the following letter, for which the writer is deeply grateful, as are all staff members who were afraid they might be sent wandering up the highways and down the by-ways in quest of said formula (considering the beautiful evening, it wouldn't be such a bad assignment at that):

Dear Hi-Roads Editor:

A few days ago I noticed in your column a request that some "kind old lady" furnished one of your readers with a recipe for making an old-fashioned rose jar. While I do not consider myself particularly kind, never having been selected as the typical Good Smaritan, and while I certainly do not consider myself an "old lady," nevertheless I can furnish your inquirer with the desired information, thanks to my great-grandmother, who has long since gone to her reward.

The old-fashioned potpourri (or rose jar) is somewhat complicated but not difficult to make. In fact I have made several myself.

Use the petals of any favorite flower, preferably rose petals. Mixtures of petals may also be used. Spread thinly on a cloth or paper, stirring occasionally until somewhat dried. Arrange the petals in layers of about a half inch in thickness and between each layer sprinkle common table salt in about same thickness. Layers of petals and salt may be added for several days until the container is filled or the desired quantity obtained. Allow this mixture to stand for ten days, stirring frequently.

Mix together one-half ounce each of allspice, cloves, and cinnamon, one-half of a grated nutmeg, one-fourth ounce of mace, one-fourth pound of dried lavender flowers and one full ounce of powdered orris root. At the end of ten days remove the petals from the salt and arrange in layers in a fancy jar alternating with layers of the spice mixture. On each layer add about ten drops or so of different perfumes, rose on one, orange flower on another jasmine or any perfume that will blend nicely into a bouquet odor. Over all pour a full ounce of your favorite toilet water. Stir from time to time and occasionally more petals and spices may be added.

The jar is to be left open for a few moments whenever you wish your room perfumed, at other times kept closely covered. These jars, made correctly, will last almost indefinitely. I am still using one that was made about fifteen years ago.

There are any number of colored glass jars and ornamental vases with lids than can be purchased inexpensively and turned into potpourri jars. An old-fashioned apple butter jar, while not so attractive, serves as an excellent container. This, however, may be made attractive if one is adept with paints and brushes.

Sincerely,

"YOUR KIND OLD LADY"

Patriotism Plus Bathing Beauties And Fireworks Planned for Park

Plans for the "Americanism Day" celebration at Constitution Park began taking shape yesterday with the announcement that the mayor and city council is considering the purchase of fireworks for the big event.

Mayor Irvine stated that the city was hopeful of purchasing between $200 and $300 worth of fireworks for the gala occasion.

Indication was given that a bathing beauty contest and games also might be held at the park in connection with the patriotic affair.

Committees will be named this week by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to map out the program that the service organizations will present.

Nothing Doing, Merchants Told On Fireworks

29 Petitioners Fail To Force Lifting of Ban

By unanimous vote, the mayor and city council yesterday turned down a request of local merchants for permission to sell fireworks which they considered not dangerous and practically noiseless.

A petition signed by twenty-nine local merchants, requested that they be permitted to sell "sparklers, fountains, flower pots, pin wheels, triangle wheels, snakes, red and green fire and Roman candles."

The signers stated that they had these items in stock and in order to dispose of them were willing to post a small bond as a guarantee they would sell only the items mentioned. The merchants also asked the city to allow the sale of pistol caps at any time.

Acting as spokesman for the petitioners, Harvey H. Hill, of the Hill Novelty company, stated that more than a million dollars worth of fireworks were dumped into Maryland before July 4, 1934, by nearby states, and pleaded with the council to give merchants an opportunity to sell some of their stock.

He added that powdies were responsible for last year's riotous celebration on Independence Day, and asked the council not to deprive the children of having a Grand and Glorious Fourth of July.

Mayor Irvine stated that the general public did not want a repetition of last year and urged the council to turn down the request. The ban on fireworks was tightened by passage of a city ordinance July 10, 1939.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said he was opposed to any change in the ordinance. He stated that complaints came from every section of the city last year, that police were kept busy all day, small fires were reported by Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka and several minor injuries were reported.

The city attorney gave his opinion on the matter upon the request of Thomas F. Conlon, finance commissioner.

Estate Settled After 45 Years

Seventeen Heirs To Share $1,757

The estate of the late William R. Barnard, amounting to $1,757.25, yesterday was ordered divided between seventeen heirs by the Circuit Court.

The court's ruling was in response to a petition brought by R. Marshall Barnard, administrator of the estate of William R. Barnard who died interstate in June, 1895, leaving a widow and seven children.

All that remains of the estate today is $1,757.25 and the petitioner asked the court to direct him in settling up the estate.

The petitioner was appointed trustee and authorized to make a distribution after filing bond.

Barnard was ordered to file a bond before settling up the estate.

Neighbors Quarrel Over Timber Land

Charles Longerbeam, owner of a tract of land known as the "Resurvey on Grigg's Defeat" yesterday filed suit through his attorney, Charles G. Watson, against Arthur D. and Minnie Arnold.

The petitioner claims the land of the defendants is adjacent to his own. The tract was surveyed March 6, 1911, and was deeded to Longerbeam in 1935.

Longerbeam claims the defendants, "with force and arms, broke into the plaintiff's property and cut, carried away large quantities of timber, posts, props, cut and ruined much young timber, planted posts, erected fences, and dug up the ground."

The trespasses were repeated a number of times between June 23, 1938, and the presnt, Longrbeam asserted.

Allegany Nurses To Hold Annual Picnic Thursday

The annual picnic of the Allegany Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association will be held Thursday at Minke's Cottage Inn, it was announced last night.

The all-day affair is scheduled to get underway at 10:30 a. m.

Cherry Picker Hurt In Fall from Tree

Howard Stansberry, of RFD 4, Cumberland, a Celanese worker, suffered chest injuries yesterday afternoon when he fell fifteen feet from a cherry tree near his home.

Jonas R. Bittner, 24, of Friendsville, was injured about the head when he fell from a truck yesterday afternoon.

Both men were admitted to Memorial hospital for observation. Their conditions were "fairly good" last night.

Father of Five Freed for Fishing Out of Season

WPA Worker Admits Successful Catch, Asks for Mercy

A 32-year-old father of five yesterday was given a suspended sentence in Trial Magistrate's Court for catching blue gills in Town Creek out of season.

Sylvester Iser, a WPA worker now employed on the Savage River Dam, pleaded guilty to the charge but was given a $25 suspended fine when Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., learned that economic conditions are pretty tough at present in the Iser household.

Iser, who lives near Dawson, was arrested Saturday by Theodore Thoerig and Harry Vogel, deputy game wardens. He readily admitted catching the fish, but added that he had a fishing license.

Iser told the court he earned barely enough to keep his wife and five children. The children's ages are from three to ten years, he said.

Saturday night in Mt. Savage, Miss Gladys Hawkins, of Midland, had a $25 fine suspended for fishing during closed season on condition she pay the court costs of about $1.75.

Deputy Game Warden Thoerig charged Miss Hawkins with fishing

Cramer Donates Pool Playthings

Big Rubber Ball Among Gifts

William J. Cramer, manager of the Kelly-Springfield retail store, who always has displayed a great deal of interest in civic affairs, yesterday donated ten twenty-four inch tractor inner tubes, one rubber ball measuring five feet in circumference, and a smaller rubber ball to the swimming pool at Constitution Park.

The presentation was made by Mr. Cramer after he had conferred with William H. Buchholtz, superintendent of the pool. Earlier in the day Mayor Irvine had discussed the matter with Mr. Cramer.

The balls will be used in "push ball" contests to be held in the pool.

Superintendent Buchholtz announced last night that 4,531 persons had paid to swim in the pool over a period of twelve days. Receipts were $516.15. The paid admissions included 3,264 children at ten cents each and 1,267 adults at fifteen cents each.

Stray Hound Dog Bites Baby Girl Playing at Home

Health Authorities Hunt for Dog, Don't Find It

Two children, one a two-year-old girl, were treated yesterday morning at Allegany hospital after being bitten by dogs.

Elaine Leasure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Leasure, of Bedford road, was bitten beneath her right eye and on the side of the face by a stray hound dog.

Her parents said she was playing alone on the back porch when the animal approached, bit her and fled.

Robert Swauger, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce F. Swauger, of 207 Hay street, was bitten just above the upper lip by a neighbor's police dog.

Hospital attendants said they notified the city health officials before discharging the two children.

Health officers reported last night that they inspected the police dog and are holding it for the customary fourteen days, pending examinations at intervals. The stray hound was not found.

Dr. Frank E. Stamp was elected president of the Exchange club last night to succeed H. C. Gregory.

Other officers named at the club's weekly dinner-meeting at Central YMCA are Charles L. George, vice-president; George H. Tederick, secretary; and J. Louis Pierce, Jr., treasurer.

Members of the board of control, in addition to the officers, are Mayor Harry Irvine, C. A. Murray, and John W. Waugh.

Plans were discussed for a stag outing Sunday at the Deep Creek Lake cottage of George McAlpine Young.

Janitors Get Raise; City Playground Leaders Named

William H. Brubaker and William J. Himmler, janitors at the city hall, had their salaries increased ten dollars monthly by an order passed yesterday by the mayor and council. The new rate of $90 monthly for each man will become effective July 1.

The council also approved the lease contracts of the Automatic Signal Signal Corporation, of East Norwalk, Conn., for city traffic lights. The lights at Braddock, Fayette and Greene streets and McMullen highway are leased for $12 a week, while the traffic signal at Maryland avenue and Williams streets cost $6 a week.

The Misses Marion Taylor, Mary Burger, Jeannette Lapp, Jean Miller and Ruth Leonard were appointed playleaders at the city playgrounds for the months of July and August. Each leader will receive $50 monthly.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was ordered paid $2,263.10 for the surfacing of Cumberland street between Johnson street and Washington street and Fayette street between Johnson and Cumberland streets.

A donation of $100 was made by the city to the local chapter of the American Red Cross as a contribution to the European war relief fund.

Approval of an ordinance to grade, pave, curb and sidewalk Frederick street from Fechtig avenue to the city limits was given.

Harvey Forney Given Six-Months Sentence

Harvey Forney, of Cumberland, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrate court for violating conditions of a suspended sentence on a charge of vagrancy.

Forney was arraigned May 20 in court on a vagrancy count and was given a suspended six months jail term on condition he leave Cumberland and seek employment.

He was arrested last Tuesday by Officer Frank A. Shober, Jr., on a drunk charge and was sentenced to five days in jail in default of a $5 fine. He was taken to trial Magistrates court and sentenced after being released from jail yesterday morning.

Pauline House To Report On National 4-H Camp

The [illegible] of the Junior Extension 4-H club and their friends have been invited to meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beggs, in LaVale.

Pauline House will discuss 4-H National Camp and Mary Hardinger and others will report on the Rural Women's Short Course held last week at College Park.

The boys will nominate their delegates to Club Week and arrangements will be made for the weekend camp June 29-30 at Camp Algawa.

Arrangements for the program are being made by Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent.

3 Sergeants Scalped ✓ In Police Blitzkrieg

Mayor Harry Irvine and Commissioner James "Blitzkrieg" Orr, assisted by the vote of Commissioner William J. Edwards, exploded a demotion bomb in the police department yesterday and set three sergeants back to the role of plain privates.

There was much talk last night of more explosions to follow, but as far as the mayor and the new police commissioner were concerned further details were as scarce as in any other Blitzkrieg.

Conlon Protests

Commissioner Thomas Conlon protested loudly, declared the shake-up was no economy move, and wanted the public to demand an investigation.

Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds, in line with his usual policy, said nothing, but voted No, indicating that he doesn't have the reserved seat on the Irvine bandwagon which he once had, or was generally regarded as having.

Van's Pay Raised

Only apparent booty of the Blitzkrieg went to Lieut. James E. Van, who gets a $10 a month raise; and to Patrolman Wellington B. Lovenstein, who was elevated to the desk sergeant's chair warmed for eight long years by Sergeant William M. Connell, who will now ride around in a cruiser car as Patrolman Connell.

Others to get the demotion axe were Sergeant Raymond R. "Mooney" Johnston and Sergeant B. Frank Gaffney. The reason, as Commissioner Orr puts it, was because the department doesn't need so many sergeants.

No reason at all was given, however, for putting Connell back on the street.

No Ill Feeling, Says Orr

Commissioner Orr, who drew the nickname "Blitzkrieg" because it was he who presented the demotion order to council, did say, however, that no one was reduced in rank because of any ill feeling. Which was generally regarded as the polite thing to say.

Commissioned Conlon openly expressed his opposition to the changes, on the grounds that it was unfair to reduce the rank of an officer unless there was some grievance against the man involved and the charges brought out into the open.

Saves City Nothing

The Blitzkrieg will save the city the magnificent sum of nothing a month. Johnston, Gaffney, and Connell will have their pay cut from $140 to $135 a month, but Lovenstein gets a raise of $5 to the $140 bracket, while Lieut. Van's raise wipes out what Johnston and Gaffney give up.

Lieut. Van's salary was raised from $140 to $150 a month. Chief Oscar A. Eyerman will continue to get $200 a month, and Assistant Chief John J. Trieber will continue to get $170.

Sergt. Browne Gets Day Shift

The order also provides the present $135 a month for all other members of the force except the probationers, who get only $100 for the first year.

Under the new set-up, Lovenstein will be on the sergeant's desk from 4 p. m. to midnight. Sergeant Bert B. Browne will get the shift from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Sergeant Milford Crabtree will keep the shift from midnight to 8 a. m.

Connell will be on a cruiser car with Reid C. Cassen from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

It happens that the three men demoted were the chief contacts between the police department and the state's attorney's office.

Gaffney Still a Detective

Gaffney, who was especially close to the state's attorney's office, will continue his sleuthing, but without the rather impressive title of "Detective Sergeant." Johnston, too, will continue on his same old job with the motorcycle patrol.

Connell who is 60, hold third place in seniority in the police department, having been a member since May 17, 1918. He has filled the post of desk sergeant since the death of Thomas Hasson. Johnston stands sixth in seniority, having joined the department Feb. 28, 1922.

John H. Newhouse was changed at his own request from the day shift to the 1 a. m. to 9 a. m., shift, and Edward P. Wilson was tranferred from the 1 to 9 shift to the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shift.

Forty Scouts To Get Honors

J. Hodge Smith To Preside

Merit badges and other awards will be presented to more than forty Boy Scouts at a Cumberland district Court of Honor at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

J. Hodge Smith will preside, assisted by James Alfred Avirett and L. F. Keller.

Cumberland Elks Win Ritualistic Contest

The ritualistic team of Cumberland Elks Lodge No. 63 will be one of five competitors at the August convention of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia State Elks Association in Annapolis.

The team won the right to represent Western Maryland Sunday by copping first place in a degree exemplification contest Sunday at Hagerstown.

Members of the group are John H. Mosner, Alfred E. Howe, Lester Deneen, George R. Lyming, Harry I. Stegmaier, J. Douglas Heron, Dr Albert C. Cook and Elmer B. Gower.

Jr. Association Plans Discussion Of '4-Year Plan'

Business, Professional Men Asked To Speak On Proposed Change

Members of the board of directors of the Junior Association of Commerce agreed last night to invite five business and professional men to attend the next regular Association meeting to discuss the "Four Year Plan."

A list of names was compiled and these men will be contacted by George Schwarzenbach and Thomas B Finan this week and invited to explain their views on the Association's proposal to increase the terms of office of the Mayor and City Council from two to four years, and to use the money saved in the eliminated election to increase salaries of these five city officials.

The board of directors has unanimously approved the idea as a project for the Association, but the membership, at their last meeting, asked for a round-table discussion or presentation of various phases of the project, from a number of prominent citizens.

The next meeting will be July 15, at a place to be announced.

. . . .Admit Two New Members . . . .

The board approved the names of Bruce M. Mackey and Jack L. Malone for membership. The Associations membership now numbers 125.

The board also voted to pay the campership fee of one Girl Scout to the summer encampment, at a request from the local Girl Scout organization.

A letter from Colonel George Henderson, chairman for Allegany county of the Citizens Military Training Camps was read, setting forth information pertaining to the summer training period. The latter was placed on file for the use of any interested members.

Open Headquarters

J. Hodge Smith was named chairman of the committee to supervise the NYA project which will keep Washington's Headquarters in Riverside Park open for visitors and tourists, throughout the summer. The headquarters was opened last summer through the efforts of the Association, and many people visited the historic little building. The opening schedule, which is being prepared by Smith, will begin July 1.

Following a report by Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Community Forum Committee, the Board approved a tentative list of speakers submitted by the committee. Finan's committee was authorized to set dates for the lectures and to enter into contracts with speakers who were considered and will be available.

Forum Speakers Hard To Get

Finan explained that the committee has had six meetings and will meet again Wednesday night. He said over two hundred speakers have been contacted and scores of letters written in an effort to work out a complete and interesting Forum program for next fall and winter.

The committee has found that because of the European war situation, and the coming national election, it is difficult to work out a well-balanced program. Many speakers who have been requested by various individuals will not be available because of the campaign, and will make no commitments after those dates. Others are in Europe or other foreign ports as correspondents for newspapers or observers and may not return in time.

However, Finan told the committee, several nationally-prominent figures are available and the program will be one of the best yet offered by the Forum. He assured the Board that there will be at least five lectures.

Reserve Officers Needed in Army

May Report Now For Active Duty

America's feverish defense program was brought home to many members of the Officers Reserve Corps this week.

Letters from the Baltimore headquarters of the Third Corps area advised all first and second lieutenants that they may if they wish be detailed to active duty "for an initial period of one year, with the privilege of extending it for additional one-year periods during the period of the emergency."

The detailing of the officers from reserve to active duty has been authorized by the War Department according to the letter from Major Charles D. Carle, acting assistant adjutant-general.

The order affects first and second lietenants who have not reached their thirty-fifth birthday. Priority will be given lieutenants under the age of 30 and especially recent ROTC graduates.

The extension of the active duty over a one-year period depends, the letter says, on the "availability of funds" and the satisfactory performance of the officer, as well as the continuation of the "emergency."

It was not learned immediately if any reserve officers in the Cumberland area intended to take advantage of the opportunity.

Meanwhile, several Cumberland business and professional men were reported seriously considering enrolling for the 30-day training course offered civilians between the ages of 25 and 50 in connection with the CMTC program. The course is designed to acquaint leaders of communities with Army functions and the preparedness program.

Leiut. Col. George Henderson, to whom applications for enrollment for this course may be submitted, said last night, however, that no one from here had yet applied so far as he knew.

Colonel Henderson also declared that rumors that the National Guard summer encampment might be extended beyond the three-week period now scheduled were without foundation.

Gulf Grants Vacation And Military Leave

The Gulf Oil Coropration will grant its employes paid vacations in addition to leave for military service as members of the National Guard or Reserve Corps, according to Luther P. Shaffer, agent for the Cumberland territory.

Employes attending encampments for periods up to one month will be paid the difference between their salaries and their military compensation so that their income while on active duty will remain unchanged, according to Shaffer, and they will also receive a two-weeks vacation with pay. This ruling affects two Cumberland men, E. A. Teeter and Carl R. Senkbell, Shaffer said.

The corporation has also ruled that employes who are called or who volunteer for military service will be granted leaves of absence without pay, their jobs held open for them.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Larsen, of Chicago, have returned home after being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Allan Weatherholt, 426 Fayette street. Mr. Larsen and Mr. Weatherholt were associated in the newspaper business in Indiana for two years.

Speeder Pays $2

Luther M. Weltman, 32 Boone street, was fined $2 yesterday in Police court for speeding on the West Side.

Eyerman Warns Bike Riders

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman warned yesterday that all bicycles not displaying 1940 tags on July 1 will be ordered off the streets and impounded for at least one week.

He stated that bicycle owners had been given ten days in which to obtain police permits and out of approximately 1,700 vehicles in the city only 495 persons have applied for tags.

Permits are issued at the Public Safety building between 9 a. m., and 3 p. m.

Today all riders residing on the West Side, between Washington street, Braddock road, the city limits, Potomac river and Will's creek will be issued permits.

Legion Boys Camp To Open July 8

The Boys' Camp at Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, at Stillwaters near Flintstone, will open for the third annual season on Monday, July 8, with Pat Conway as director. The camp will be open for a period of four weeks.

The committee in charge consists of Roy B. Whitson, Leo Reichert, Vincent Ingram, Frederick Puderbaugh, John J. McCarty and Robert Bowers. Newt Parrish will act as camp cook.

Those interested are requested to register with Roy B. Whitson, 323 City View Terrace or phone 1862 J.

Last season's average enrollment was forty boys a week.

Beer License Transferred

Circuit Court yesterday authorized Clement A. Murphy, doing business at 190 Wineow street, to transfer his beer license to Ambrose Frederick

Thank goodness someone has come to the rescue of this column by supplying the promised formula for making an old-fashioned rose jar.

The formula is more complicated, more mysterious that we had imigained.

Best assured, however, that it is authoritative, because it comes from Garrett county, where the old-fashioned accomplishments still flourish.

The display of roses in Cumberland this year has been richer, more profuse, and more beautiful than for some time. Some readers may want to preserve some of the beauty of this Summer of the Roses.

Since rose jars last for years (according to the Grantsville formula), one made this year may be more than a reminder of the roses; it may be a reminder of rosy, happy times such as America may not know again for years. It is to be hoped, however, that this is unduly pessimistic.

You can make your rose jar optimistic or pessimistic simply by mixing in a few of your own feelings.

The other ingredients are carefully outlined in the following letter, for which the writer is deeply grateful, as are all staff members who were afraid they might be sent wandering up the highways and down the by-ways in quest of said formula (considering the beautiful evening, it wouldn't be such a bad assignment at that):

Dear Hi-Roads Editor:

A few days ago I noticed in your column a request that some "kind old lady" furnished one of your readers with a recipe for making an old-fashioned rose jar. While I do not consider myself particularly kind, never having been selected as the typical Good Smaritan, and while I certainly do not consider myself an "old lady," nevertheless I can furnish your inquirer with the desired information, thanks to my great-grandmother, who has long since gone to her reward.

The old-fashioned potpourri (or rose jar) is somewhat complicated but not difficult to make. In fact I have made several myself.

Use the petals of any favorite flower, preferably rose petals. Mixtures of petals may also be used. Spread thinly on a cloth or paper, stirring occasionally until somewhat dried. Arrange the petals in layers of about a half inch in thickness and between each layer sprinkle common table salt in about same thickness. Layers of petals and salt may be added for several days until the container is filled or the desired quantity obtained. Allow this mixture to stand for ten days, stirring frequently.

Mix together one-half ounce each of allspice, cloves, and cinnamon, one-half of a grated nutmeg, one-fourth ounce of mace, one-fourth pound of dried lavender flowers and one full ounce of powdered orris root. At the end of ten days remove the petals from the salt and arrange in layers in a fancy jar alternating with layers of the spice mixture. On each layer add about ten drops or so of different perfumes, rose on one, orange flower on another jasmine or any perfume that will blend nicely into a bouquet odor. Over all pour a full ounce of your favorite toilet water. Stir from time to time and occasionally more petals and spices may be added.

The jar is to be left open for a few moments whenever you wish your room perfumed, at other times kept closely covered. These jars, made correctly, will last almost indefinitely. I am still using one that was made about fifteen years ago.

There are any number of colored glass jars and ornamental vases with lids than can be purchased inexpensively and turned into potpourri jars. An old-fashioned apple butter jar, while not so attractive, serves as an excellent container. This, however, may be made attractive if one is adept with paints and brushes.

Sincerely,

"YOUR KIND OLD LADY"

Patriotism Plus Bathing Beauties And Fireworks Planned for Park

Plans for the "Americanism Day" celebration at Constitution Park began taking shape yesterday with the announcement that the mayor and city council is considering the purchase of fireworks for the big event.

Mayor Irvine stated that the city was hopeful of purchasing between $200 and $300 worth of fireworks for the gala occasion.

Indication was given that a bathing beauty contest and games also might be held at the park in connection with the patriotic affair.

Committees will be named this week by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to map out the program that the service organizations will present.

Nothing Doing, Merchants Told On Fireworks

29 Petitioners Fail To Force Lifting of Ban

By unanimous vote, the mayor and city council yesterday turned down a request of local merchants for permission to sell fireworks which they considered not dangerous and practically noiseless.

A petition signed by twenty-nine local merchants, requested that they be permitted to sell "sparklers, fountains, flower pots, pin wheels, triangle wheels, snakes, red and green fire and Roman candles."

The signers stated that they had these items in stock and in order to dispose of them were willing to post a small bond as a guarantee they would sell only the items mentioned. The merchants also asked the city to allow the sale of pistol caps at any time.

Acting as spokesman for the petitioners, Harvey H. Hill, of the Hill Novelty company, stated that more than a million dollars worth of fireworks were dumped into Maryland before July 4, 1934, by nearby states, and pleaded with the council to give merchants an opportunity to sell some of their stock.

He added that rowdies were responsible for last year's riotous celebration on Independence Day, and asked the council not to deprive the children of having a Grand and Glorious Fourth of July.

Mayor Irvine stated that the general public did not want a repetition of last year and urged the council to turn down the request. The ban on fireworks was tightened by passage of a city ordinance July 10, 1939.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said he was opposed to any change in the ordinance. He stated that complaints came from every section of the city last year, that police were kept busy all day, small fires were reported by Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka and several minor injuries were reported.

The city attorney gave his opinion on the matter upon the request of Thomas F. Conlon, finance commissioner.

Estate Settled After 45 Years

Seventeen Heirs To Share $1,757

The estate of the late William R. Barnard, amounting to $1,757.25, yesterday was ordered divided between seventeen heirs by the Circuit Court.

The court's ruling was in response to a petition brought by R. Marshall Barnard, administrator of the estate of William R. Barnard who died interstate in June, 1895, leaving a widow and seven children.

All that remains of the estate today is $1,757.25 and the petitioner asked the court to direct him in settling up the estate.

The petitioner was appointed trustee and authorized to make a distribution after filing bond.

Barnard was ordered to file a bond before settling up the estate.

Neighbors Quarrel Over Timber Land

A Circuit Court petitioner who charges his neighbor with invading his land and cutting valuable timber yesterday asked $1,000 damages.

Charles Longerbeam, owner of a tract of land known as the "Resurvey on Grigg's Defeat" yesterday filed suit through his attorney, Charles G. Watson, against Arthur D. and Minnie Arnold.

The petitioner claims the land of the defendants is adjacent to his own. The tract was surveyed March 6, 1911, and was deeded to Longerbeam in 1935.

Longerbeam claims the defendants, "with force and arms, broke into the plaintiff's property and cut, carried away large quantities of timber, posts, props, cut and ruined much young timber, planted posts, erected fences, and dug up the ground."

The trespasses were repeated a number of times between June 23, 1938, and the presnt, Longrbeam asserted.

Allegany Nurses To Hold Annual Picnic Thursday

The annual picnic of the Allegany Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association will be held Thursday at Minke's Cottage Inn, it was announced last night.

The all-day affair is scheduled to get underway at 10:30 a. m.

Cherry Picker Hurt In Fall from Tree

Howard Stansberry, of RFD 4, Cumberland, a Celanese worker, suffered chest injuries yesterday afternoon when he fell fifteen feet from a cherry tree near his home.

Jonas R. Bittner, 24, of Friendsville, was injured about the head when he fell from a truck yesterday afternoon.

Both men were admitted to Memorial hospital for observation. Their conditions were "fairly good" last night.

Father of Five Freed for Fishing Out of Season

WPA Worker Admits Successful Catch, Asks for Mercy

A 32-year-old father of five yesterday was given a suspended sentence in Trial Magistrate's Court for catching blue gills in Town Creek out of season.

Sylvester Iser, a WPA worker now employed on the Savage River Dam, pleaded guilty to the charge but was given a $25 suspended fine when Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., learned that economic conditions are pretty tough, at present in the Iser household.

Iser, who lives near Dawson, was arrested Saturday by Theodore Thoerig and Harry Vogel, deputy game wardens. He readily admitted catching the fish, but added that he had a fishing license.

Iser told the court he earned barely enough to keep his wife and five children. The children's ages are from three to ten years, he said.

Saturday night in Mt. Savage, Miss Gladys Hawkins, of Midland, had a $25 fine suspended for fishing during closed season on condition she pay the court costs of about $1.75.

Deputy Game Warden Thoerig charged Miss Hawkins with fishing

Cramer Donates Pool Playthings

Big Rubber Ball Among Gifts

William J. Cramer, manager of the Kelly-Springfield retail store, who always has displayed a great deal of interest in civic affairs, yesterday donated ten twenty-four inch tractor inner tubes, one rubber ball measuring five feet in circumference, and a smaller rubber ball to the swimming pool at Constitution Park.

The presentation was made by Mr. Cramer after he had conferred with William H. Buchholtz, superintendent of the pool. Earlier in the day Mayor Irvine had discussed the matter with Mr. Cramer.

The balls will be used in "push ball" contests to be held in the pool.

Superintendent Buchholtz announced last night that 4,531 persons had paid to swim in the pool over a period of twelve days. Receipts were $516.15. The paid admissions included 3,264 children at ten cents each and 1,267 adults at fifteen cents each.

Deaths

Death of Infant

The infant daughter of Donald and Louise Dawson Lechliter, of Shallmar, who was born Sunday at Memorial hospital, died yesterday afternoon.

The body will be taken to Shallmar today.

Gerald C. Young

Gerald G. Young, formerly of Cumberland, died suddenly Sunday night at Clark Summit, Pa. He was 36.

He was a son of the late Frank G. Young, who had been employed as a linotype operator on the Evening Times before his death eleven years ago. Mr. Young was an electrical engineer in a gas and electric company at Scranton, Pa.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Eastburn Young; two children, Jane Ann and Gerald C. Young Jr., at home, and a sister, Miss Grace Young, of New York.

Harrison B. Williams

Harrison Benton Williams, of Junior, W. Va., died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John McLaughlin, of Keyser, W. Va. He was 69.

A brother, Marion Williams, of Cumberland, is among those surviving.

Boy on Curb Hit by Car, Leg Broken

Driver Pulls Out Without Seeing Lad, No Charges Placed

A 7-year old youngster is carrying on his "curbstone philosophy" today in a hospital bed.

Robert Whisner, of 1103 Lexington avenue, was sitting on the curb near his home yesterday morning when he was struck by a car driven by Lorenzo H. Chambers Jr., of Williams road.

Taken to Memorial hospital, the lad was found to have sufered a fracture of the left leg. His condition was reported "good" last night.

Police placed no charges against Chambers, who is the son of Officer Lorenzo H. Chambers.

The lad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whisner, said their son was sitting on the curb almost directly in front of the parked Chambers car. Chambers apparently failed to see the boy as he started to drive away, they said.

Driving Drunk In Reverse

Mustn't Happen Here, New Yorker Learns

A New Yorker had a big dent made in his prospective pay check yesterday when he paid fines totaling $101 on charges of drunken and reckless driving.

He was Leonard J. Soule, here to work on the Strand theater remodeling program which is to get underway Saturday.

Soule, who pleaded guilty to both charges in Trial Magistrate court, was arrested early yesterday morning on Baltimore street by Officer John E. Sherry.

Sherry said the car was "weaving" as it went down the street. Then it stopped and backed up for nearly an entire block. The officer then stopped the driver and took him to jail.

The arrest, police said, followed receipt of three telephone complaints about the "reckless" manner in which the Soule car was being driven.

Mordock and Murrie Win Exciting Race At Yacht Club

John B. Mordock's "Catalog II" came from behind to cop a hotly-contested Snipe class sloop race at Deep Creek Lake Sunday.

The former commodore of the Deep Creek Yacht club was well back in the field as the race got underway. He moved up steadily throughout the three and one-half miles of the triangular course, but was third going to the last buoy.

Splitting tacks with the leaders, William J. Cramer's "Leah-Louise" and Dr. Donald B. Grove's "Holiday," the "Catalog II" was first to round the last buoy and kept the lead to the finish.

David "Jock" H. Murrie was crew on the winning boat. Dr. Grove, finishing in second place, had Miss Gladys LaRue as his crew, while Mrs. Cramer was her husband's crew in the third-place boat.

In a new feature inaugurated by the racing committee, in which skippers said boats drawn by lot, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cramer won in Dr. A. P. Dixon's "Rebel."

Fred Steiding and Miss Georgia Dixon were second in John B. Mordock's "Catalog II," while John Steiding and Richard Walthen took third in the Cramers' "Leah-Louise."

Old Picture Contest Opens at Rosenbaum's

Prizes for old photographs of Cumberland and Cumberlanders are offered by Rosenbaum's department store in its annual old picture contest, which opened yesterday.

Contestants may enter as many as five pictures. There is no entrance fee for the contest, for which the deadline is July 27.

For the picture of the greatest historical interest and for the most charming picture the store will award twelve sepia portraits of the winner or any member of his family.

Judges include Mrs. J. W. Holmes, Miss Elizabeth B. Doub and Frank Lee Carl.

Carnegie Class No. 2 Organizes Club

Plans to organize the members of Dale Carnegie Class No. 2 into a permanent club were launched last night when over half of the original group met and decided to draw up a constitution.

Prominent citizens of the community will be invited to speak on the same program with club members at future meetings.

Gets 20-Year Award

Mrs. Thelma C. Hillegas, an employe in the Cumberland office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, has been awarded a four-star emblem in recognition of twenty years of service to the company
